READERS.

GENTLEMEN:

Lthough the Judgements and Humours of some Men, be opposite to every serious Performance; whence they assume an unworthy Liberty of Taxing and Traducing what they do not understand, and envy that in others, themselves are ignorant of: yet in this my Appeal to you, I cannot but expect much fairer Quarter, and a far juster Verdict on my present Pains, from your more season'd Breasts; since as the Ignorant, so the Intelligent, always judge like themselves.

There are three forts of Persons that seem most of all to oppugn this Noble ART; viz. The Seeming Religious, the Politique, and Now, although these several Objections have been answered, over and over; yet since we have Dwarfs grown up among us, which stand upon the Shoulders of our former Giant-like Opposers, I shall (for their sakes) respond to them again.

1. If Astrologie were repugnant to Divinity, or to the Oraobje-cles of God, the Scriptures; Divines themselves would not with Etor, answe-such ardour have been the onely Promoters thereof, and the most industrious therein, as they in all Ages have been. For it is highly contrary to Reason, to believe any Man (much less him that is learned) would advance that which any way thwat is or opposes him, his Study, or Interest. Besides, If there be a Truth in Astro-*Dr. Brown logie *, it injureth not Divinity, but rather becomes related to it for by how much the more there is of Truth in any thing, so much the nearer is it unto Divinity; and in stead of opposing, is most ready to shake hands therewith. I shall not here make a Distinction between the Religious and the wife, as the learned Mr. Hart. * In Epitte gil hath done *: howbeit, they that suppose Astrologie repugof the fixed nant to Divinity, are not in the number (I suppose) of the ke-The Kingly Propher fings, Pfalm 19. Verse 1. The ligiously Wise. Heavens declare the glory of God, and the Firmament (beneth his band)work, &c. And must not he then be a most resolute and perverse Adversary, that shall brand Astrologie, which treateth of the Power of the Heavens and Stars, for being contrary to Divinity?

Swadlin, in Divinity is lieve against Astrologie, and was perswaded thereunto from its no Enemy is Name, Root, and End; but upon a just Examination, I retract; to Astrologic because (saith he) I finde the Astrologier neither an Inchanter, and 19. "Magia Demoniaca; and other Magia I read of none; but what is called Divina, Mathematica, or Physica; none of which I conce ceive will any wise Mansay is unlawful; and therefore I give my if duce me hereunto, are the very same which perswaded me so the contrary. (1.) Their Name; the Hebrews call the Stars in Massaloth, of Nazal, which signifies Influere: and the Rabbins call them Meharim, of Sheret, which signifies Ministrare: whence that Axiome allowed by all Men, — Astra non necessitant; sed

The Epistle to the Readers.

And therefore by the Stars may the Altrologer preedict Man's Inclination and Manners; which if good, may be cheightned by a holy Ambition; if bad, may be prevented by. co good Education. (2.) The Root, it was not Idolatry, but "Innocency: Adam in Paradise was the Father of this Art; and had se he as well observed the Star of Knowledge for the Direction of chis Will, as the Tree of Knowledge for the pleafing of his ce Fancie, he had not yet been banished. It was not Idolatry, but "Obedience, upon which this Syen was grafted, when the Tree was almost withered: Abraham the Friend of GOD, and Father es of the Faithful, was no Step-Father to Astrologie, if we believe Anse tiquity. It was not Idolatry, but Wisdome, from which this Art got Life, after it long lay bleeding: Solomon, the wifest of 66 Men, was the best Astrologer the Worldever entertain'd! And why were the Priests of Egypt torbidden the Study of all other Arts. and yet permitted to study Astrologie? And why do the Ara-" bicks call their Astrologers Cachin, which comes of Cohn, which se fignifies a Priest? Surely it is to tell the Astrologer, that though "the Presbyter may be his Enemy, yet the Priest may be his Friend, and callow his Art lawful; not onely for the Root of it; but also (3.) ce for the End of it; which cannot be injurious to God; because the Astrologer contesseth, Sapiens Dominabitur Astris. Thus far (and farther) this tearned Dostor. Yet a little more: we have another learned Divine among us, who makes it a Doctrinal Observation, That it is our Duty to study the Heavens, and to be acquainted with the Stars *. The learned Ptolomy affirms in the *Mr. Carvi beginning of his Almageft, Hanc warm Scientiam effe viam, at on Job, semitam ad Sciendum Deum altisimum. This equally confidered, p. 221. plainly evinceth Astrologie not to be contrary, but consonant to, Divinity, and to the holy Scriptures in a main and to it is n undervaluable Price. it being the very

2. That Aftrologie should be repugnant to Policy's Laws, Infly The Politice tution, Education, 8cc. is as impossible as for it to be opposite to opposer an-Divinity: it may indeed be helpful unto them all; but no way mered. hurtful unto any of them, I do allow with the Objectors, that the Laws are good and necessary, as they are intended to bridle the wild and corrupt Passions of Men; and no more to be faulted; when they miss of their right and proper end, then Wine is, when it maketh a Man drunk. Albeit, I must acquaint him, that the Stars have such a Power over the Manners and Minds of Men, that they order and dispose them into such a frame, that when they shall meet with Laws or Institutions contrary to their Nature and Inclination, they esteem it the highest Happiness to break and confound them. Hence it is, that Jayls and Prisons are constantly furnished with variety of Offenders'; notwithstanding many are taken thence continually, either to Banishment or Death; or other less Punishment? And therefore it was that

The Epiftle to the Readers.

Plutarch crat Solon *, in the Athenian State, commanded, that their in the Life Law should be always applied to their Manners; and not their Manof Solon.

* Sin Christ were to the Law And as a learned Knight * observes, although sirChrist, ners to the Law. And as a learned Knight * observes, although Heydon in the Laws and Institutions under which we live, be never so good tile, as to imagine that Laws or Institutions will be of any force, without a Natural Propension to that wherein we are instructed, or unto which we ought to be subject and obedient.

Now certainly Astrologie, which sheweth the Reason why good and wholesome Laws and Institutions miss of their right End and Aim, cannot be thought Anti-Politick, or Anti-Nomical; but may rather be effeemed of good Use unto the Politician, in framing and forming Laws and Institutions suitable to the Constitutions and Inclinations of the People that are to be governed and instructed by them. Had Astrologie been an Encmy to Policie and the Laws, Go. Augustus the Emperour would never have been so great a Friend unto it, as to have stamped the Signe of Capricorn (it being the Ascendent of his Nativity) on his Coyn, and advanced the same in his Ensigne or Standard; as faith my *SirChrist. Author *. Nay, so eminently honourable was this Science with Tiberius, as Tacitus and Dion testifie, that he learnt the same of Thrasillus at Rhodes, and afterwards brought him over into Rome, honouring him above all Men, and attempting nothing without his Advice. If then the greatest Politicians have had so great a Respect unto, and Honour for this Science, it cannot reasonably be conceived contrary to Policie, &c.

Then for Education; which in the thoughts of all ingenious Men, cannot be held at an undervaluable Price, it being the very best of Ornaments to Mankinde. Beyond all question, it profiteth very much; but then it must meet with a fit and proper Subject. Every Man is not a Socrates; nor have all Men a Power to master or bridle their Affections and Passions. I grant (in a just sense) A mise Man may rule the Stars: yet are there sew so prudent, either by force of Nature or Education, but must submit (in a great measure) to the Energie of Coelestial Influences. And although the Stars do not absolutely necessitate the VVill, yet they so strongly incline it, that the Effects of Nature are commonly seen beyond the force of Education. VVere Education of force sufficient in all respects to better Nature, we should have no such things as Injury or Injustice in the World. Where Education meets with an apt and proper Inclination, like a skilful Lapidary, it polisheth Nature, and prefents the World with a Comparative Miracle. But, where it meets with a morofe or violent temper, it is but a Slave to Passion, and makes the Native more mischievous and cruel. Thus some Men come to play the Villains and Treachers with the greater Dexterity and Courage; and, using Education as a Bawd to their corrupt Desires and Pleasures, colour their unworthy Actions at the more confident rate, and make their greatest Villanies and Cruelties, matter of Sport and Pastime.

None will deny, but NERO was most excellently well Educated; yet what unheard-of Actions is he recorded to have done, when once he came to the Government of the Empire? Although Tacitus in many places of his History, speaketh but meanly of Astrologers; yet in this very Example, he hath shewn himself such a Friend to their Predictions, that he testifieth on their behalf, That they before-hand did affure Agrippina his Mother of his Cruelty, &c. And this power of a Natural Propensity was not onely plain in Nero, but apparent in Galba, Caligula, Dionysius; and others, that were diligently instructed by most excellent and learned Tutors; and yet atterward returned to their Natural Improbity, and became toul Monsters of Men.

Thus we see of what force Education is, when it concurreth with, or contradicteth a Natural Inclination and Temperature. Nature may be bettered by being joyned to Education, or Discipline; but that without Nature, or contrary to it, is Desicient; and of no more use, then if a Husbandman should Till Barren Ground, of which he can reap no Profit.

It is not onely the Poet, that is Born, and not Made; but Poeta natthe Politician, Divine and Lawyer, &c. of which the tollowing citur, non Treatife affordeth many and eminent Examples. It will therefore plainly follow, that Astrologie may be of good use to the Politician, in making known the Natures, Temperatures and Inclinations of Men; For, they are not onely distinguished, but con's Addiscovered from the Predominancies of the Planets at their Births *.

3. To the Ignorant Objector, (although he rather deserve a The 1gno-Whip, then a Reply) I answer (first) in worthy Cardan's flor, replyed words: —* Stulti negligant & contemnant Astrologiam, &c. And who the Reason why they do so, is, because they understand it not. *Segment If the Fool in his heart thinks lightly of a Deity; nay, deny a 1. Aphologiam, Astrologers must not be troubled, if in Words he abuse both him and his Science. This Adversary, of all the three, is the most intolerable; for Reason cannot prevail or perswade with him; what his Folly suggests unto him, (let it be never so the currant stamp for Truth! The Astrologer therefore had better be subject to the Censure of any, rather then the Ignorant. Let the Nightingale sing never so sweetly, the Ass (if he hap to be Judge) will be sure to dislike and aiscommend sim.

If the Artist at any time chance to fail, (as Humanum est errare; for he is but a Man) the Ignorant Antagonist cries out presently; The Art's a Juggle, the Artist an Impostor, &c. And if he happen to speak truth, (as if he be true to his Rules) he cannot fail twice in an hundred times) then replies Ignorance, The Artist is a Witch or Wizard, a Dealer with the Dealer vil, &c. the Art, Conjuration, the Black Art, Magick, &c. Thus * Ars non you see, by the Verdict of this Enemy , to be an Astrologer; is haber ini- the highest unhappiness in the world! for let him be never so carepræter ig ful and just in his Practice, he cannot easily escape one of the notantem. Horns of the Ignorant's Dilemma! Howbeit, it is no hard matter to confute this Ceratin, by a plain Conversion thereof, to the Reason of any, but the Ignorant. - The Astrologer must speak either true or false: if the first, it proves the Excellency and Divineness of his Art: (for Truth is of a Heavenly Lineage and Descent:) if the last, he discovers himself a Man, and subject to Er- Ars vera your *. therein, I have endeavoured its Restauration, and (as much as in me lieth) its Persection also! And that is the end of my publishing the following Treatise; which contains an Hundred and Fifty choice Genitures, of different kinds, as expressed in the Title; and of such different Signification, that the ingenious Artist can hardly meet with a Nativity to Calculate, but he herein may finde an apt Example, enabling him the more readily to give a certain and determinate Judgement thereof. It is indeed (and so I ever intended it) a Commentary or Exposition of the whole Genethliacal Part of ASTROLOGIE; explaining (almost) every Aphorism and Rule therein, and giving proper Examples thereon.

I have been befriended by many good Authors in some Nativities here published, chiefly the Obsolete; and have respectfully mentioned their Names, that thereby I might shun the Censure of Plagiarism: For I always esteemed it as horrid a Crime to steal the Labours of the Dead, as to rob the Houses of the Living.

There is extant but little Practical Astrologie in the English Tongue; whereas Physick, Law, and most other Studies; have whole Volumes of that kind for their Students Assistance: and that perhaps may be one Reason why the Astrologer is so commonly subject to Errour. In some Nativities I am Copious, in others not so large; but have not in any, omitted any thing necessary, to the bettering of the industrious Students Understanding. And could I, from all my collected Experience, Study or Pains, have contrived a fitter Clavis for the unlocking the Mysteries of this Abstruse Learning, I should most readily have done it, although I had been required with the greater Envy for my Pains.

One Objection I hear methinks already taken against me; and that is, I have not proceeded orderly in placing the Genitures of Persons according to their Dignities or Degrees of Honour. In answer heremore, I return, I have by these my Labours, I would not have the World to mistake me for an Herald, but consider me as an Astrologer; and then they shall finde, I have observed a Method as facile and profitable for the ingenious Student, as any that they ever met with, treating of this subject: besides, what I have here done, is intended more for Service, then for Ceremony.

To conclude: If the ingenious Student accept of these my Endeavours,

The Epistle to the Readers.

Endeavours, he will encourage me to make a further Progress in this Science, not onely for his, but the Worlds satisfaction: Unto whose good, and to Astrologies Honour, I am seriously devoted; and shall so continue, whilst I am

Collectio Geniturarum:

COLLECTION

Of divers

Choice Nativities.

Something touching the several Opinions of the Worlds Nativity.

O question the Worlds beginning, were to depart from the Heaven-like and pleasant Path of Christianism, and to run into the confused and dangerous Road of Atheism: and for any Man to endeavour to confine the same to any limited certain time, (considering the uncertainty of History and Chronologie) is every whit, without doubt, as tidiculous and erronious; yea, perhaps, as great and unwarranted a Presump-

Some Authors (and those most eminently learned) have fixed the time of the Worlds beginning upon the Summer-Season; at which time the Sun entred the Regal Signe Leo, which of Astrologers is termed his House, or Place wherein he is most principally dignified. And of this Opinion was the samous Mercator, who, in his Chronologie, seemeth to render many Reasons thereof, which some have thought Demonstrations.

This Opinion (as some conjecture) was first conceived among the Rivels of Egyst, who having observed the River Nilm to overflow thought Summer Solstice, (viz. a little before the time above-mentioned) adored it for a god; and esteemed the time of its Inundation, for an infallible beginning of Divine Actions in things created.

The Arabians and Egyptians were generally of Opinion, That the World was created in Autumn, when the illustrious Lamp of Leaven entred the file Austrangular of the Equinoctial Signe Libra. And hose wo Renowned Authors, Josephus and Catoisius, teeth very much to Ment to this their Opinion; urging both Reason and Scripture for the proof thereof. Nor did the learned Junctinus fault this Opinion, but rather approved thereof, as appears by his Spec. Astrol. Tom. 1. fol. 660.

Others are of Opinion that the World was made in the Spring-time; and upon that very day the Sun was placed in the very Degree of his Exalt tion, viz. In himeteen Degrees of Aries. So Petrm de Minica concludeth, fol. 102. and with him agreeth the learned Author of the abovesaid Figure, as you may read in the before-cited Juntimus. Some have thought Virgil to be of this Opinion, by reason of that eminent and losty Fancie of his.

Lib. 2. of his Georgicks:

Non alios prima nascentis origine Mundi, Illuxisse dies, aliumve habuisse tenorem Crediderim. Ver illuderat, Ver magnus agebat Orbis, & Hibernis pascebant statibus Eutis Cum primam lucem pecudes hansere virumá, Ferrea progenies duris caput extulit arvis; Immissa fera Silvis, & Sydera Cœlo.

Which Words are not more elegantly written by Virgil, then Englished by the Polite Quill of his learned Translator, Mr. John Ogilbye, thus:

Sure I bolieve, when first the World was made,
So shone the day; and such bright Condust had.
That was the Spring; the Spring makes all things fair!
And blushing Eurus did cold Tempests spare.
Then Cattle bred: in unplowed Fields began First to appear, that Iron Race of Man:
Wilde Beasts possess the Woods, and Heav'n the Stars.

Mr. Swan, in his Speculum Mandi, pag. 36. and in his Calamus Mensurans, pag. 10. after much Discourse concerning the Worlds Creation, cometh to this Conclusion: That (notwithstanding the strongest and best Objections to the contrary) the World began at the Spring time of the year; and that on the fourth day of the first week, the Sun was in the fourth Degree of Aries: which fourth day according to the Julian account, (saith he) was on the twenty seventh day of April: on which day the Sun was created, and set in the Firmament of Heaven.

These (in brief) are the several Opinions concerning the Worlds Creation, in respect of time: but how near, or how far wide they are of the Truth, Truth, let Reason it self be Judge. Divine Plato, in his Dialogue of the Soul, professeth feels that he knew nothing of it; and that the very Con-templation there it; and made him blinde. Socrates calls those men that busine the interversion their Discourtes or Disputes, concerning the Worlds O-templation Mad, and Inconsiderate. And indeed the Knowledge of this My-Hery's being onely competent to God that made the World, deceiveth the Generations of Mankind in their Disquisitions and Scrutinies after INERO CESARS Savina in Francisa, D. M.

I shall spare to speak here of the vast and irreconcileable Differences of the Computations of Years, that I finde both History and Chronologie to abound with subut to hun the Censure of Scepticism, I will willingly and freely deliver my Opinion concerning the Matter in question, thus : I do believe (with Plato) that the World had a beginning, and that God was ly and to be admired Frame; yet am of Opinion, that He made it neither in the Spring, Summers or Autumn but in all: for it is impossible that one Seafon should be universal or predominant in all the World at once; especially if we consider the Differences of Shadows, and the Diversities and Constitutions of Clymates : unless we should understand the same per Synechdochen de parte pro toto, ut Testum pro Domo: a part of the World for the whole World, and so confine the Conceit to the Land of Judea onely. But this were to subjugate our Reason, and lay our Understandings in Shackles. For (saich Dr. Brown) as the Question is generally, and in respect of the whole Earth proposed, it is with manifest in jury unto Reason in any particular derermined, Pseud. Epid. fol. 241. And, if I should turn Querist, and desire to know under what Elevation of the Pole the Figure of the Worlds Creat tion could be erected, that it might relate total Meridians exactly, I suppose it would trouble the greatest Defenders of such Opinions, to return any satisfactory Answer. Let us therefore credit this truth: That the World had a beginning, but the time thereof unknown to the wifest of Men; and to fee the Figure or Scheam thereof; that it should relate to all Elevations above this earthly Globes is absolutely impossible deal was a good and n in the second partition of the last second second but Cardan's Character (though brief) did exactly correspond both with his body and Minde, Hardy moining to me new the state of the hardh Inclinations, Temperature of Manners and Crueltie, are well depainted, and most lively represented by this Figure of his Birth: for it is (indeed) a Scheam so cross, that is denotes the person born under it of Disposition so strange and prodigiously mischievous, that the very worst of Men cannot possibly be acquainted with greater:

For to fignifie that monstrous and horrid Act of his, cowards his Mother Agrippina, (for that was her Name) hereis Marsin Opposition of Jupiter Lord of the tenth House, and Miroury Lord of his Ascendent in exact Quartile to the Moon; (who ever generally hath Signification of Mothers, if the Learned in the Syderal Science may be credited, of which there is no doubt) and this hateful Aspect happenerh from Angles, and from Cardinal dignes; Arguments most eminent to denote a Marricide: Yet I remember to have read one, that terms his murthering his Mother an ingenious Cruelty in him, his end being to determine the Cabinet of his Conception. Vide Plencegraph. Anthrop. prope finem.

The Quartile of the Sun and Saturn from Angles, made him not onely hated by those whom he by Prerogative Ruled, but inclined him also to commit things worthy of Harred and Disdain. In the Black List of his Actions, it is not to be forgotten, that he did not onely murther his Mother, but first committed Incest with her: then he poyson'd his Brother; killed his Sister-in-Law; destroyed his Wife Poppea (being great with Childe) by a Kick; burnt Rome, and rejoyced at the fight of the Flames. Cam multis aliis. After all which unheard-of Cruelties, and bloody and inhumane Acts, he was by the Senate proclaimed an Enemy to the State: Upon hearing of which, he became his own Butcher; and in the thirtieth year of his Age killed himfelf, as say Calvisins and Isaacson: But Cardan saith it was in the thirty second year of his Age; unto whom I rather affent, in that the Directions for degrading him, and afterwards for cutting off Life, then happen: Which Directions, were the Moon to the Conjunction of Mars, and Opposition of Jupiter, who was Lord of the tenth House: which were most apparent Testimones in Art, both of the Dishonour he underwent, and prodigious End he came to. Thus much for this Nativity.

Rediting the Authority of Plus tarch, we shall finde that this Heroick and Magnanimous Prince the from descended Loyns of Philip King of Macedon, begotten on the Body of Olympias a young Maid, who lived in the Island of Samothravia, and at some time after was married to Philip: yet the learned Plutarch seemeth to differ in the time of this Nativity from Lyndholt; for he recorderh Alexander's Birth to be on the fixth day of the moneth Heea-tombean, (i. e.) July; whereas you see Lyndholt not onely presumeth, but afferted it to be at the above-noted time in the Figure. But setting pass the Errours and Uncertainties of Chronologie, we will first examine how this Figure represents this illustrious Natives Person, Inclination and Conditions; and secondly, how it agrees with the time of both those eminent Accidents, his Coronation and Death.

First, for his Person, &c., He was of a Middle Stature; which is very well fignified by the Politions of the Lord of the Ascendent and the Luminaries in Signes of Brevity. He was (as the Author of his Life avers) Titenecked; (i.e.) he held his Head upon one fide: which Deformi y is plainly seen by Saturn his Position in Taurns in Azimene and Pitted Degrees, he being Lord of the Alcendent: Belices, if (as Hermes faith) Venus adorns that part of Mans Body lignified by the Signe wherein the is polited at Births then Saturn (being an Enemy to Nature) must necessarily deform that part represented by the Signe in which he is found; chiefly if he be Lord of the Ascendent, and in such Degrees as Saturn is here. He was also very Cl olerick and Halty; which is notably proved by the Moons being in Conjunction with Mars, &c. And his Ambition, Courage Magnanimity, and great Spirit, is conspicuously exidenced by the Position of Caput Dracoris in Afcendente, in the Horoscope, and Sainrn (who is Lord thereof) his eing in Trine to the Moon and Mars; together with the Location of the Sun in the Exaltation of Jupiters in Sextile to them all. Thus you see this Figure, and the several Configurations of the Stars therein, exactly co respond with the Description of this eninent Natives Person, Inclination and Conditions, as related by the Author of his Life.

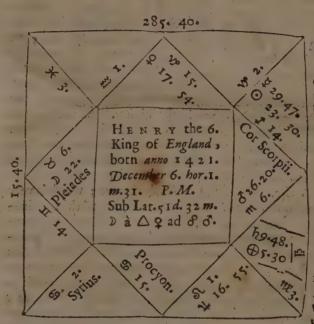

Secondly, I shall observe how it agrees with the times of his Coronation and Death; and what Di ections those Accidents may be caused by. Fifth, for his Coronation; which seems admirably well to be signified by the occurse of the Mid heaven to the Trine of Venus, who is in Conjunction (Platickly) with the Benign Planer Jupiter in the seventh House, and he Lord of the Tenth, which happened near the one and twentieth year of his Age; at which time this Princely Native received the Royal Diadem.

Secondly, for his Death: which Accident was well denoted by the Moons Progress to the Quartile of Mercury, Lord of the eighth House, which happened in the eighth House in Libra, and the Promittor of the Evil posited in Cancer Retrograde; the Moon being Hylech in his Nativity, and Mercury Anareta.

And it is an Evidence sufficient in Art, that he was poysoned, (although Plutarch endeavors to excuse it) because the Direction was celebrated in so obscure a House or part of Heaven, and the Moon being in Conjunction of Mars, in the House of Mercury, whom you see is Retrograde in the sixth House of the Figure. And the matter seems to me the more clear, and fully confirmed, by Olympias his Mother, her making a Discovery thereof six years after, and causing divers Persons to be put to Death for the same.

Hen I consider the turbulencie and unsetledness of this Kings Reign, I begin to conclude our late miserable Times no Wonder: for this King came to his Fathers Crown at two moneths old; and after he had reigned the space of nine and thirty years, was by the Earl of March degraded, and kept a Prisoner in the Tower of London twelve years, where at the last he was murchered by Richard Duke of Glocester. Sir Richard Baker saith he was a Pious Prince, and one of so gentle and mild a Disposition, that sew men could equal; and he gives one remarkable instance thereof:---When being in his greatest Miseries and Afflictions, one rudely struck him, he gently replyed,----Forsoth, you wrong your self more then me, to strike the Lords Anointed!

Upon November the 6. 1429. being aged eight years, he was crowned King at Westminster; the Mid-heaven was then directed ad Trinum Luna: And near ten years of Age, he was crowned King of France at Paris; the Ascendent then came to the Body of the Moon by Direction.

Being aged twenty four years, he was married to that illustrious Lady, Margaret, Daughter to the Duke of Anjon; a Princess of most Masculine Resolution and Courage, as is eminently seen by Mars his being in Scorpio in the seventh House, in Sextile of Venus in the Tenth: he had then the Ascendent directed to the Sextile of Jupiter, who is Radically in Trine and Reception of the Sun.

When this great Prince was aged thirty nine years, he was captivated by the Earl of March, and by the consent of the People degraded of his King-ship, and afterwards sent Prisoner to the Tower of London: the Mid-heaven was then directed to the Quartile of the Moon, and suddenly after to the Quartile of Mars; and the Ascendent nigh about the same time, to the Opposion of Mercury.

On the 21 of May, 1642. being then aged fifty one years, and after his being twelve years imprisoned, he was murchered by the Hand of Richard then Duke of Glocester: the Alcendent was then directed ad Quartilum Saturni.

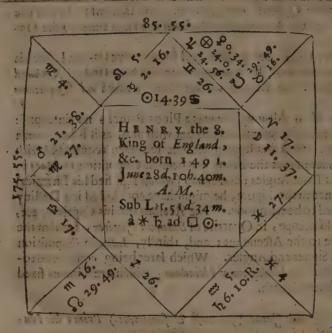

Sir Richard Baker saith, Although he was a Pious Prince, no Enterprise of War, where-ever he was present, did prosper with him, as if it had been a Destiny attended him. Had this learned Knight but been acquainted with Astrologie, and considered that the Moon had been in Opposition of Mars in his Nativity, and this from Angles; and Mars (which signified his Enemies) the most potent Planet in the Figure, he might have concluded it a Destiny indeed, and very hard to be withstood. The Reasons of his Captivity are, Venus, Lady of the Horoscope, in Quartile of Sature: Jupiter, Lord of the Twelsth, in Quartile to the Ascendent: and, thirdly, Luna in Opposition of Mars, from fixed Signes and Angles. Which later being considered together with the Moon her being inter Pleiadum, which are violent fixed Stars, denoted his violent Death.

Thus much for this Great (yet most Unfortunate) Prince his Na-

Henry

His Nativity is the very fame the learned that Cardan hath in Latine printed to the World long fince, among his twelve Genitures; and may very probably be the true one: for this illustrious Native was a perion of a very high and lofty Fancys and of a Spirit inferiour to none: which is admir bly well fignified by the Luminaries being posi-

ted in Angles, and in Cardinal Signes, and the Lord of the Ascendent being located in a Regal, Fiery and Imperious Signe.

One, pretending to Altrologie in England, about fourteen years since, prefents us with the same Figure out of Cardanu; and telleth his Readers, That this Princely Native was cruel, and that his Cruelty was signified by Mars his being to near the Ascendent; but it is obvious to all that have eyes, this consident Pretender was mittaken; for Mars is above five Degrees distant from the Ascendent, and in no Aspect of the Moon and Mercury: Ergo, he can have nothing to do in the Signification of this Princely Natives Inclination or Manners. If he were inclined to Cruelty, it should (in my Opinion) be occasioned rather by the Lord of the Ascendent his being positive in Leo, in Opposition to Saturn, a cruel Planet. But Mercury eing in Sextile of Venus, and she in Trine to his Ascendent, should make him more Debonair, Courteous and Gentle, then Cruel, and of a Temper most worthy to be beloved.

Although this busie Astrologist, mistaking a Non-cause for a true Cause, be pleased to account him Cruel, yet he cloaths him with such Epithets, that do not belong to a cruel Person: viz. We must (says he) acknowledge him to be the first that permitted the Gospel to be preached: — And we have cause to account him a brave man that durst in those times oppose a proud insuling Clergie, &c. — And the English never had any Prince of that largeness of heart, nor any that did so great matters. Sir Walter R awleigh indeed gives but a bad Character of this illustrious Prince; and it is probable, upon his Credit. (which in some things I esteem worthy, chiefly in such where Prejudice beareth not the sway) the before-mentioned pretended Arrith hath endeavoured to stretch his Art, to make that say the same with this Noble Knight. Had his Nativity shewn him so vile, as Envy hath endeavoured to render him, I shold have relyed upon Sir Walters Authority; but finding his Geniture to dissent, I shall rather endeavour to preserve the worthy esteem that learned Knight Sir Richard Baker hath of him.

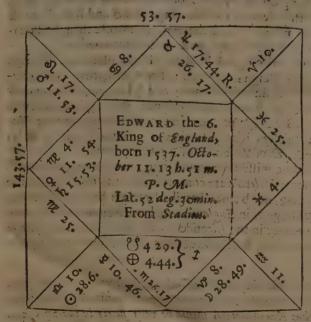

His Manners, Temperature and Inclinations, are to be judged from Mercury's Significations; and he (being in Trine of Luna, and Sextile of Venus, and in Sextile of the Alcendent also) according to Origanus, Facit ingenii acumene. Excellentes, Studiofos, Doctrinarum Capaces, Doctas, Sagaces, antiqua & Secreta in lucem revocantes, Vafros, folertes, cautos, bene conjectantes, & cum dexteritate omnia facientes, &c. And that Prince that partakes of fuch illustrious Qualities, cannot (without Envy) be termed Cruels

The same Gentleman tells us surther. That the Moons being in \square of Q, is one Argument of his having many Wives, or Wenches, C but he is as far distant from Truth in this, as a \square is distant from a \mathcal{K} ; for the P is in \mathcal{K} , not \square of Q. The Quadrate of \mathcal{K} Lord of the seventh with C, and the Quadrate of the Luminaries, together with \mathcal{K} is \square to the Ascendent, might very well portend the unhappy Jars that happened between this Princely Native and his Queens; considering therewith, the P her being in \mathcal{K} , the House of C and in the West Angle, and Q in C of C.

The Cantes of this Heaven-favouring Prince, his changing his Religion, and endeavouring arcfining thereof, following the Steps of Luther and Calvin, may (Attrologically) be referred to the Quadrate Aspect of 11 and 3, and the Position of Cauda Dravonis in the Ninth.

He Reigned 30 years over Great Britain; and lived until he was 56 years old, and upward; viz. until fannary the 28. 1547, at which time the Afcendent was directed to the Square of E; upon the Effects of which Direction, this great King expired.

Have taken this

This Kingly Native received the Crown of Great Britain at ten years of Age, viz. on January 28. 1547. (at which time K. Hen. 8. expired) he having then the Ascendent directed to the Body of Q Lady of the House of Honour, Dignity and Supreme Power. He Reigned sole Monarch of Great Britain fix years and five moneths: after which time he died, being in the fixteenth year of his Age, and labouring under the malicious Influence of three most cruel Directions: First, the Ascendent to the Body of To, (who is Lord of the fixth House in this Geniture) as may more plainly appear:

Archs Directionis The same Author that trifled with King Henry the Sch his Geniture, hath been (to little purpose) busying himself with this likewise sound tells us That the Pleiades Culminating, and four Planets being in their Decriments or Falls, (although in Truth there are but three of them which to fuffer, and the Sun, Moon and Q) together with h's being in the Ascendent of this Nath vity, might well give cause to suspect this King should neither live long, or have any quietness in his Reign. His Reign, I willingly grant, was somewhat difquiered and troubled; and indeed, he did not live very long: but he must needs be an incompetent Artist that shall refer this conthe fore-mentioned Arguments in his Nativity. For King Henry the second and third of France, and divers other Princes and meaner Persons, have had as many Planets de-bilitated in their Nativities, and nevertheless have out-lived this Princely Natives years. And that glorious Prince, of ever famous memory, King Tames of England, had the Pleiades Culminating and S and hin of Q Lady of the tenth House, upon the Cusp thereof, (farworse then the Pleiades Culminating) and yet he was lyable to no fuch Infortunacies.

The eminent and true Aftrological Reasons of this illustrious Natives short Life, and troublesome Reign, are these: The Quadrate of the Luminaries from Tropical and Æquinoctial Signes; and & Lord of the Ascendent being in exact Square of &, from violent fixed Signes, & being in a malitious place of the Heavens. Nor is h's presence in the Horoscope always a Testimony of short Life; chiefly, if he be so tissed, as in this Nativity he is, viz. by the presence of Q, \triangle of U, and X of X his Dispositor.

Had this Pious Prince but missed the eruel Directions before-mentioned, in which the three principal Hylech's are concerned and the Quartiles of the Luminaries, and of 3 and 2, not been so Partile, he might have lived as long as most Kings that ever Reigned in England, and have Reigned quietly too, Norwithstanding h's presence in the Ascendent, or the Culminating of the Pleiades. Ill Positions are bad, but ill Directions are the surest Tokens of a short and troubled Life.

I cannot here omit the false Play that Gassendus useth toward Astrologers at large, and Cardanus in particular, about this Princes Geniture: For (saith he) Cardan predicted that King Edward should be very sickly in the 23, 24, and 25th year of his Age; and yet (saith he) the Records of England assure us that be died in the 16th year of his Life: And immediately after subjoying this scotting Quere; O! if Cardan had had the luck to have foretold that this King should fall into some dangerous Distemper in that year wherein he died, what joy, what triumph, what quacking would there have been among Astrologers?

But is it not a very great Argument that Gassendus either never read Cardan, or else by halves, and with Prejudice? for had he read him impartially, as an Author ought to be read, he would never have abused him, by relating what out of him serveth as an Occasion (though weak) whereon for him to fasten his Cerberian Fang. Cardan, it is true, supposing the Horoscope of this Princes Birth to be the latter Degrees or A; faith, — Ascendens ad saturnum pervenit in annis 13. Mensions 9. diebus 22. Et tunc animi & corporis langurem patieture which are but the Natural Effects of such a Direction. But Cardan, supposing a possibility for himself to erre in the Ascendent of this Radix, chusern to the to renewipon the Directions of the Luminaries, as appeared by these words out of him: second in annual large form.

Deduxi (faith he) postmodum oppositum 3 ad 2 hoc modos ut pracipit Pto-Card. in tomous & fuit distantia par 17. min. 7. que si jungatur parti Septuagesime Edw. 6. R. secunda, pertinged oppositum & and D, in annis 1 5. mensibus 4, quo tempore Ang. p. 19: imminebant insidie à servis proprits & Peticulum Vita. Eodem tempore pervenit o ad [8, hos modo in annis 14, completis paulo plus. Hoc igitur tempore ex presse imminebat periculum amissionis etiam regni rebellionis causa, &c. Where you fee that Cardan dispredict danger of Death, and of Rebellion alfo; and although both were true, Astrologers have neither boasted nor bragged thereof, nor needed they indeed; the Art being demonstrated by so many eminent Examples : but we see Gassendus hath cracked and quacked (worse then the weakest of Empericks) and altogether of a Falshood, onely to colour his Harred against Astrologers at the more splendid rate. And let me tell all Gaffenduffes, that had Cardans Suppositive Ascendent of this Princes Geniture been true, the Judgement he gave thereon had not been Subject to so rash Censure: howbeir, Astrologie is sufficiently verified, and Gassendu proved an insulting Lyar, by Cardan his predicting Danger to the Life of this Prince in the year he died.

By this piece of Forgery, you may estimate the Truth of his Quirks and Quibbles against Nostredame and Morious, and all others, whom he labours Tooth and Nayl to render Infamous, Contradictious, always mistaken, & c. I shall leave the whole to be censured by the Learned; and request the Disciples of this lying Impostor, (for such be was, to say no worse of him) to remember the Orators words. Qui semil verecundia sines transferit, eum bene & gnaviter impudentem esse aportet: He that is once gone beyond the bounds of Iruth and Modesty, it behoves him then to grow impudent to purpose, and to lye beyond all line or measure. Lat. 1 deg. 34 min.

Hete are divers eminent Reafons in Attrologies, that this is the true Nativity of this great Queen.

First, to significe the lostiness of her Resolution, great Spirit, Strictness and Rigorousness in Go-vernment, we finde he Lord of the Ascendent in Sagittarius, a fiery, imperial and commanding Signe, and in nature quite contrary to him; and the Moon in & to 4, nearly from Angles: perhaps a more then ordinary Reason of the grand Troubles and Vexations that then were rise in England concerning Religion.

Secondly,

Secondly, the Parvity or Smalness of this illustrious Ladies Hopours Estimation, Fame and Repute, by reason of the Persecution of Persons for matter of Conscience in her Reign, is eminently discovered from the exact Square of of to the Sun and & in the Ascendent, in the Dignities of 1; and this from Bi-corporeal Signes, & being near Aldebanan, a fixed Star of the first Magnitude, of most malignant influence. Howbeit, I shall not be so bold, 250. thers have been impudent, and lay the blame of all (or indeed any) of the Blood shed in her Reign, at her Door, as if she were the original Cause thereof : for it is obvious in Astrologie, that the Clergie were the eminent Occafioners of that tedious continued unhappiness; which began long before ever the came to the Crown. Doth not 11, oppose D, and that from a fiery Sione? And is not & in Dof O and &, who are in & in X? May not a wilful and a stubborn people precipitate themselves to Destruction, but their Governour or Governess must needs be Tyrannical and Cruel? It were most monstrous to conclude otherwise.

When the Ascendent came to the * of Osthis illustrious Princess came to the Crown of Great Britain; viz. in the year 1553. being then aged near 37 years : a Direction very pertinent for such an Accident.

Suddenly after, viz. in 1554. this eminent Lady was married to Prince Philip of Spain: (and as a Remembrance very common of that inter-marriage, we have a Coyn that passeth among us with the Essigles of Philip and Mary:) this Accident was caused by the Suns Direction to the \(\Delta \) of \(\Q \).

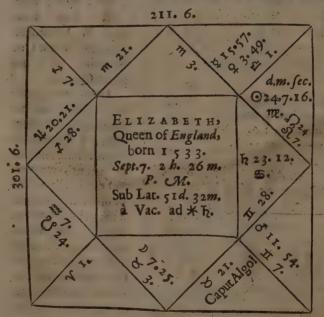

This eminent Native died five years and a half after the began to Reign, being then aged above two and forty. es istant do deg. min.

And this Direction hath apt Signification thereof. Upon the very day she expired, viz. November 10. 1558. the D was in D to the O's Radical place, and in O to the place of O, Promittor in this cruel Direction. The O was then in exact of h's Radical place, who is Lord of the Ascendent; and h was in Partile of the Ascendent of the Radix: all which were of dangerous confequences in regard of the malitions Direction then operating.

Off Arologers that have published this excellent Princesses Nativity formerly, were notorioully mistaken: for they make ve (a cold, dull, earthly, feminine Signe) to afcend on the East-Angle at Birth: when every one, that hath left any thing in print behinde them concerning this magnanimous Lady, report her to have been a most Maculine spirited Psincets; endued with a high, lofty, and undaunted Resolution: One that seared not the Face or Fury of any Man. Which Princely Quilities, are most excellently well portended by the Regal Signe Sagittary, Horoscopating at the time of her Intrat into the World; and Jupiter, Lord thereof, his Polition therein, (though Virtually and Locally in duodecima domo) the Degrees accending being the Dignities of the Planet

One in England some years since, pretending to present unto the World this illustrion Queens true Nativity, tells his Readers, that she died when the Ascendent came to the Pleiades by Direction: and after a confident manner, (as if it had been impossible for him to have erred) he subjoyns these words: - I know no Reason (saith he) why she should have been angry with any Astrologer that should have said, - Madam, about the sixty ninth year of your Age, the Ascendent comes to the Plesades, which denotes not onely sickness to your Person, but disturbance in your Government. But I know no Reason but that she might well have been angry at any one threatning her with so false a Fear: for she must have lived many more years then fixty nine, before ever that Direction could have happened. But besides, if it could have touched in her Life-time, and at the same time that missaken Person would have had it, there is no Astrologer that I know of, (except himself) that ever averred such a Direction to portend Death: for the Pleiades, though appearing to us but as seven Stars, are four great Constellations, containing 126 Stars in number, that are (by the Affistance of good Optical Glasses) to be plainly seen; and to which of these the Ascendent should be directed to have such a fatal Effect, (for sure he intends not all at once) requires his better Explication. But I pass by this, as a point too nice for an Ignorant in

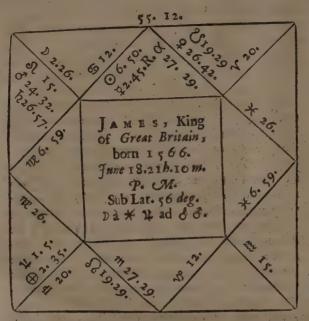

To prove this Nativity the true one, I shall verifie it by these three grand Accidents which happened to this eminent Princess in her Life-time: Viz.

1. In the 21 year of her Age, she was imprisoned, and laboured under many Crosses and Afflictions: The had then operating the Sun ad Quadratum Saturni, and this in the ninth House; exactly denoting the Cause for which the suffered viz. Religion.

2. In the 25th year of her Age, this illustrious Native was crowned Queen of Great Britain, &c. and at this time the Ascendent was directed ad Trinum Solis; the onely Patron of Honour and Soveraignty.

3. Being 69 years old, she died: at which time she had the Ascendent directed ad Quartilum Saturni, in Ariete; a Signe that Saturn most mischievously hares

In the Revolutional Figure for that year, there was a Conjunction of the two Infortunes in the opposite place of the Moon in her Nativity, and the Figure it self nearly in Quartile to that at Birth; the Lord of the Ascendent was in the Eighth, and the Sun was falling into the fixth House: And the very day of her death, viz. 24 of March, 1602. the Sun and Mars were in the place of the Direction, and the Moon was in Quadrate Aspect of them both.

Have Calculated and Reduced the Suns place in this Nativity, by the Tables in my Dottrine of Nativities; and the Planets places I have taken from the learned Stadius his Ephemerides for that time given, having had regard to Reduction.

Without the true place of the Sun, it is impossible to fer the Figure right; and the Consideration hereof neglected, occasioned one among us (some fourteen years fince) to erre no less then a Degree and a half in the Mid-heaven and fourth Houses, and a Degree in the Ascendent and seventh Houses, and (by consequence) the same in all the rest of the Figure: and yet the time given is the same by which I have corrected this Nativity, and the Poles Elevation the same also.

Here are several eminent Arguments of Acquisition of Honour and Dignity: as, (1.) The Sun being in exact * to the Ascendent from the tenth House: (2.) The Moon in Partile * of 12, who is in 6 of Pars Fortune in the second House: (3.) 2, who is domina decime, Lady of Soveraignty in this Geniture, is Culminating with divers eminent fixed Stars, and this in her own Dignities, thence casting a $\triangle$ to the second House: (4.) The Luminaries are in a strong Reception each with other, and the Lord of the Ascendent is in the tenth House, in 6 of $\triangle$, casting a  to the Ascendent.

But notwithstanding these eminent Arguments of Soveraignty, which were truly verified in this prindent and Princely Native, his being vested with the Crown of Great Britain, &c. he had many Difficulties attended his Reign, as our Chronicles expressly mention. I shall not trouble my self to enumerate them here, but shall acquaint the World, they were well portended by the Position so near 3, and in perfect of h and 3, and 3 and 3 their being in of 4 (Lord of the Seventh) from Cardinal Signes.

This Kingly Geniture was chiefly verified by these grand Accidents fol-

First, his Coronation, he being aged near 37 years; which was occasioned by the Ascendents occurse to the Body of 4, and * of 3, just coming upon it.

Some ignorant Artists have Parasitically printed it, that this eminent and famous Prince died by Poyson: which suggestion, as it is most untrue, and scandalous to the memory of an eminent Peer late of this Realm, (whose Nativity was too sympathetical with this Kingly Natives, for the perpetration of so prodigious a Mischief and Murther) it is also purely anti-Astrological, and not to be read in the Heavens at the time of this great Kings Birth; which were it true, must needs have been sound there.

Lis Lord of the Eighth in this Nativity, and in in exact to D, and he friendly disposes of and win his Exaltation: and although he be in to them, it being from fortunate places of the Heavens, it is tather a Fortitude then a Debility, and therefore can no way denote a violent Death. U.Lord of Death, (saith Origanus, fol. 730.) denotes the Native to expire ab angina, Peripneumonia, Apoplexia, Convulsionibus capitis, & Stomachi doloribus, & quotquot à pulmonum perversa constitutione & perveniunt. But by Poyson it is absolutely impossible.

incomparable & marchless Prince, as he did in Vertue excel most of the Kings of England that went before him; so he did exceeed them in Infortunacie and Trouble. Divers Kings have been privately murthered or Arangled; but never any publickly murthered; and this under the pretence of Julice, from the Death of our bleffed until this Saviour 2 Princely Cedar's Fall. The several Verificarions of this remarkable

Geniture, and the particular Calculations thereof at large, I have in a particular Treatise handled, and long since published to the World: I shall therefore forbear to do what I have already done, and refer the desirous Readers to that Piece, which contains a brief History of our late Consusions; and entituled, The Nativity of the late King CHARLES Astrologically performed, &c.

Yet considering this Book may be common when that may be scarce, I shall (for the satisfaction of those that have not seen that Book) demonstrate this to be the true Nativity of this Martyr'd and Murther'd Prince, thus:
—In the 25th year of his Age, he was crowned King of Great Britain, and studdenly after was married unto the Daughter of King Henry the sourch of France: The Medium Coli was then directed ad Trinum Luna, in the Angle of Dignity.

This Princely Native in the 29th year of his Age, had the Mid-heaven directed ad Oppositum Solis; and then he dissolved his Parliament.

In the 38th year of his Age, the Scots pretend Religion, and rebel against him, though their lawful Soveraign: Then was the Moon under the Direction of the Body of Saturn, both with and without Latitude.

In the year 1641. being the forty first year of his Age, he summoned anonother Parliament, and they contend with their King for the Militia, &c., and then (by reason of Sectaries, and their divers pretended religious Outcries and Complaints made against the Bishops) his Miseries and Sorrows began to encrease to purpose: The Ascendent was then directed to the Quadrate of Venus Lady of the tenth House, and the Mid-heaven at the same time to the Quartile of Jupiter.

When he was 46 years old he hazarded his glorious Person in the Scotish Army, and expected safety among them; but they, to their eternal Dishonour, sell him to the English Army, who kept him close Prisoner: The Ascendent was then directed ad Contrantiscium Luna, and an ill Revolution; besides, the malignant Planet Saturn was then transiting his Medium Cali.

Being aged 48 years, he was basely butchered under the pretence of Juffice and Law, by his own Subjects; his Head being cut off by a Vizarded Villain, upon a Scaffold before his own Palace-Gate: The Ascendent was then directed to the \square of \mathcal{S} . All which things you will finde more fully and particularly handled in the Discourse before noted.

After this unparallel'd and prodigious Tragedy was acted, the Regicides allowed some Loyal Persons the Liberty to Interr his Corpse: Which was done at Windsor, in a Cossin of Lead, with this Inscription upon it;

CHARLES, King of England.

A worthy Person standing by at the same timesthrew this Dyslich into the Vault with him, relating to his innocent suffering:

Non Carolus Magnus, nec Carolus Quintus, Sed Carolus Agnus, hic jacet intus.

In English thus:

Not Charles the Fifth, nor Charles the Great, ties here;

Enry, Duke of Glocester, third Son to Charles the first King of England, was born at the time within written, at White half, London.

If I may take the Liberty to speak freely, and according to the Rules of Art, it is one of the most unfortunate Nativities, for a Person of Princely Extractions that ever I beheld, and yet I have seen some hundreds of illustrious Genitures.

For herein we finde the three superiour Planets Retrograde, and Jupiter Lord of the Ascendent under the Earth in Capricorn, which Astrologers term his Fall; then the Luminaries are in Conjunction (besieging poor Mercury) upon the Cusp of the eighth House, the most unfortunate part of the whole Heavens: and all of them in direct Quartile to the renth House, and in Opposition to the Second.

The fortunate Planets are in Opposition from Angles and Cardinal Signes, and the Infortunes in perfect Conjunction in the second House. I spare to urge the Aphorisms Authors afford us for the true understanding of such Positions, their Significations being easily understood by the meanest Artist: all that I shall urge is this: When this Princely Native was in a probable Capacity of attaining Dignities suitable to the Honour of his Birth, Death snatch'd him out of the World; and in the 20th year of his Age, cropt this lovely Flower before he was sully blown, to the unexpressible Grief of England.

I was, I confess, once of Opinion that the Sun or Moon could not be Hylech, if posited upon the Cusp of the eighth House; and thence was in good hopes, this hopeful Prince might have lived past the Sun to the Opposition of the Infortunes: but experience hath taught me otherwise, as by this following Demonstration appears:

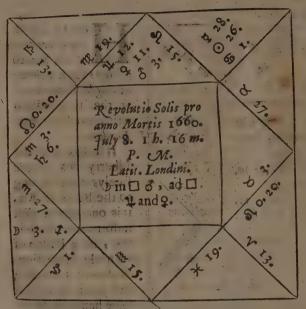

Oblique Descention of O

163. 33.

And at the same time the Sun was nearly directed to the Opposition of do fine Latitudine. This samous Prince being ill of the Small Pox, the Physicans let him Blood, as I have been told, three times; which, together with his Distemper, brought him to such a pass for weakness, that in very few days after, (notwithstanding the best Cordials they could devise) he died. I should judge this sad Effect of Blood-letting, might occasion our learned Physicians to consider, Whether Phlebotomy be at all proper to a person in such a Distemper; and it so, Whether in this Clymate, The Physicians were Learned and Loyal, but this Princes Fate most Cruel.

N this Revolutionaf Figure, the malignant Planet h is polited in the Alcendent, and the Din exact I to the Radical and Revolutional place of & : she also separates from & his [], and applies to the of Q, Lady of the Eighth here, and to a of 4, Lord of the Ascendent of the Radix. And at the same time in which this Princely Native first fickned, the Ascendent was directed to the Body of the D, and I of of in the Revolution; which was at the beginning of September, 1660. And on the 13th day of that Moneth, this Princely Native expired.

His eminent Lady was the second Daughter unto Charles the First, King of Great Britain: and to demonstrate it to be her true Nativity. I have verified it by Accidents both eminent and considerable.

Being aged seven years, the Ascendent came to the Quadrate of the Moon by Direction; at which time this illustrious Lady had the sad missortune to break her Thigh by an unhappy fall; and at the same time she was very much afflicted with the Jaundies: Which two unhappy Accidents, were very aptly portended by the before-faid Direction. It's proved thus:

I have heard it credibly reported (by persons which very well knew) that this young Lady was generally very sickly; and the Report is no way improbable; for here is one Infortune in her Ascendent, and the other in exact Quartile to it; and both the Luminaries are in Quadrate to it also, and this from the fourth House. But it was also reported of her, that notwithstanding her Assistion of Body, yet in the Intervals of Health, she would discover a most Princely Disposition of Minde: for in most things she was very Ingenious, Witty and Apprehensive. She was very curious in her Disquistions after Novelties, and expressed very much Delight therein; as indeed most persons do, that have y in any good Aspect of 3; chiesly, from the Ascendent and third House. She loved Poetry and Oratory, and delighted much in Quaint Language: and this is no Wonder at all; for she hath yin * of 3 in the Ascendent, and in Reception of his Dispositor; and Q in D and Reception of 3. All which are Arguments of a sharp and active Fancie.

As you see a great many Arguments of a short Life in her Radix, so (to shew the Stars are not void of Insluence) she accordingly died Young; being not full sisteen years of Age when she expired; the Ascendent being then directed to the Body of 3 in ...

She had been ill two years before, having laboured so long under the Ascendent ad & Soum Latiendine, of Solis; and underwent many Miseries and Troubles from the time of her sacred Fathers Murther, until September 8. 1650. on which day she died. He was then in exact & to the D in her Radix, and nearly in & to her O, and to her Ascendent, the D being that day in & of H. Brewe finde the I fiery Planet & in the Alcendent, in exact I of 4 Lord of the Sixth in the Radix, and he here in the eighth House; and the D posited in 8 to Ascendent at Birth, and the almost Degree thereof upon the Centre of the eighth House in the Revolution: besides, h Lord of the Ascendent here is in 8 to 2 Lady of the Eighth, and of & Lord of the fourth House. And thus you may behold the fignal Concurrencie there is between Revolutions and Radixes; by confidering which, an Artist may (with pains) predict, what some account impossible, viz. The time of any Natives Expiration.

The

T the time of my publishing the Nativity of our late glorious Soveraign, King Charles the first . I was wrought upon by a Pretender to Astrologie, co publish a false Scheam of the Nativity of this great Lady : and wanting proper Accidents to verifie it by, and being over-credulous of the Fidelity of the Gentleman gave it me, I did, upon his bare Word and Credit, print it; but fince have discovered the Weakness or Wilfulness of him, and cannot but blame my own easiness of Disposition a little, that I should suffer my felf to be (by cracking VVords and Pretences) cheated into a good Opinion of what was most errone-

This (fine dubio) is the true Nativity of that eminent Princess, and nearly agreeth with the curious Observation of that late Reverend Father in God, the Archbishop of Canterbury, who hath (inter alia) set down the same in his Diary.

This Princess was married to the Prince of Aurange in 1641. at which time the Medium Cali was directed to the Body of Mars Lord of the Seventh in the Nativity: which Direction was very proper and pertinent for that Accident.

Upon December the 24th, 1660. this great Lady departed this Life, having some sew days been ill of the Small Pox: the Physicians bled hersas before they had done his Highness the Duke of Glocester, being sick of, and expiring by, the same Distemper. There was then operating the Ascendent to the Quartile of Mars by Direction; a Direction of most dangerous portent.

But, to concomitate this most unfortunate Direction, there happened on Navember 4. 1659. an Eclipse of the Sun in his Radical place, in this eminent Princesses Geniture: nor was the Revolution any way fortunating this illustrious Native, but affilting in the before-mentioned Cruelty; as from the Figure it self doth eminently appear.

TEre in this Revo-Liutional Figure. the D is posited upon the Cusp of the Sixth in the Radix, in 8 of both the Fortunes; and (2.) both the Infortunes afflicting the @ in the Ascendent; and the Lord of the Eighth in d of them all: a most sad and dolorous Position indeed! and most eminently. concurring with the beforesaid most fatal Direction of the Ascendent ad 0 8.

Upon the day this illustrious Princess departed, viz. December upon the opposite place of the D; and S was near the place of Q, which was Lady of the Ascendent of the Radix; and the D that day in the D place of the O, casting the same Aspect to the cruel Planet E, and this from the sourth House of the Radix.

S this Native was a person illustrious and honourable 3 so he had a Geniture conveniently corresponding thereunto.

For here is (first) the \odot in the Regal Signe γ , viz. his Exaltation, thence casting a Partil \triangle to the Ascendent.

Secondly, Lord of the Ascendent, is in A, a Princely Signe, coming toward a Trine of the Ascendent and the \odot , who is his Dispositor.

Thirdly, the D (although she be in \square to \mathcal{U} Lord of the Horoscope) is in \triangle to \mathcal{U} and \mathcal{V} , who are in \mathcal{O} in the second House.

In \times , belieged of h and d, is an eminent Testimony of a Desect in this Princely Natives Speech: and had not the Moon cast her friendly Rays this that sad Position might (for ought I can perceive in the Figure else to asset) have occasioned an absolute Dumbness. I have heard several eminent Persons relate, That this honourable Native was but meanly surnished with Elocution; and that when he spake earnessly, he spake with much difficulty, σc , yet his Understanding and Intellectuals were firm and good; and that he was of Apprehension quick and ready. It is the Opinion of the learned Cardanus, that h with h may impede the Speech, but yet they make the Native of Fancie prosound.

Having laboured long of a tedious lingering Consumption, this Princely Native; in the forty third year current of his Life, upon the 30 of March, 1655, expired, there being then two unfortunate Directions operating together, viz. the Ascendent to the \square of the D_1 and to the \mathcal{S} of \mathcal{V} , both with and without Latitude, and this from fixed Signes.

1. The Ascendent directed ad Quartilum Luna.

But besides these two Directions, the Sun was nearly under the \square of \P in the fixth House, near violent fixed Stars; and for the year of Death, he had the Revolution following.

He Angles of the Figure are Cardinal, and (most of them) violent Signes. 1. Lord of the Ascendent in the Radix, in the Radical place of h: h in []; and & and a nearly in 8 to the D's Radical place: the @ and the D in & in the Ascendent, the one Lord of the Sixth. (and Eighth of the Radix) and the other Lady of the Fourth in this Figure; Argu-ments most dangerous.

of this Princely Natives Death, the Moon was in the Revolutional place of of and opposite to her own Radical place. O.Lord of the Eighth, was in exact of the Lord of the Ascendent at Birth; and this from the prime Angles of the Revolution: the Moon was then also applying to a hateful Quadrate of the Thus much for this Nativity.

Shall not stand to give you any large (Astrological) Account of the Actions, Manners, &c. of this most eminent Prince; but refer you to the History of his Life for that. But this I shall acquaint the ingenious Reader, That it was no hard matter, or Prediction impolfible, for the learned Gauricas to foretel the Death of this Princely Native by a Wound in his Head ; and this to happen in the forey first year of his Age: if it be considered, that the Sun was in γ , (a Signe representing the Head) and squared both by Mars and Saturn. (who are Competitors in the discovery of the kind of Death this illustrious Native should die, as being both of them essentially dignified in the Eighth) and opposed by Jupiter, a Planet posted in the Sixth, and all from Cardinal Signes: and that in the year of his Death, the Ascendent was directed to the Quadrate Aspect of Mars, Dispositor of the Sun.

Now the learned Gaurican having taken pains in the Geniture of this great Prince; (and that five years before he died) did, like a good Artist, (and Christian too) forewarn him by several Advisors, to sorbear running at the Tilt; (the grand Exercise then in use) in the forty sirst year of his Age; for that the Stars did then threaten a Wound in his Head; which would cause either Blindness or Death: which Prediction was most remarkably sulfilled in the same year, and by the same Action before noted; for as he was running at the Tilt with the Earl of Mountgomery, a Shiver of his Lance pierced into his Head, through the Vizard of his Helmet; of which Wound he, according to Gaurican's Prediction, died.

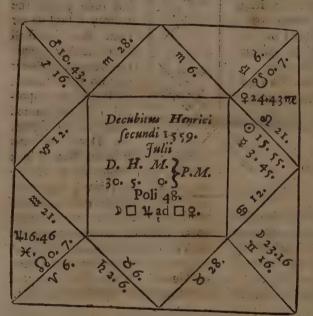

But now, if any shall Question how Gaurieus could hit so right of the Exercise this illustrious Prince should loose his Life by; or whether Particulars of so rare Signification and Portent can be read in the Heavens or Stars: I answer: Gaurieus did not predict the kind of Exercise by which Death should come, but the time of Death onely, by the Stars. The kind of Death, his Reason led him to consider of; Tilting being the onely Exercise then in use, as was before remembred. So that to mix Reason with Art; is not unworthy the best of Artists; and indeed without so doing, a Man can be no good Astrologer.

The Direction	that cut off Life,	was this :

At which time this eminent Prince expired.

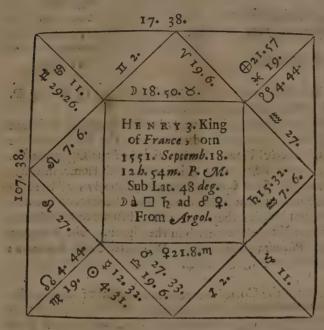

N the Figure of this Princely Natives lying down, the ACcendent is the oppofite place of Mars in his Nativity; and the Seventh (qua Morti adscribitur, sient Ascendens vita, Argol saith) is the place of Mars and Hercules. Saturn, Lord of the Ascendent, is in Quartile of Mercury, Lord of the Ascendent of the Radix, and near the Radical place of the Moon. The Moon is in Quartile of Venus from the Sixth, and Venus, Lady of the Fifth, signifying Pleasures, is Peregrine in the Eighth. Sol, Lord of the Eighth, in the Eighth, (i.e.) within five Degrees thereof. Argol says, D platice Opposite & & ambo in via lastea, quod oculis noceant. I allow they are in the Milky-way both of them; but the Moon is not in Platique Opposition to Mars: howbeit, there are other dangerous Testimonies without it.

Gassends is so much mistaken, as to tell his Readers, that it was (not this Henry, but) Henry the third of France that died of such a Wound, as is before noted: but that is as true as the rest of his vain and fruitless Cavils against either Astrologie at large, or the learned Gauries in particular. What pity is it, that a witty Man should be wilfully vain, and causefy captions!

His is the Figure that Argol (in his Book de diebus Criticis) presents us with for the Nativity of this illu-Arious Prince. He precends principally to correct it by the time of his Death : and to prove it agreeable to the time thereof, he tells us, the Directions which occasioned that Mortal Accidents were (1.) The Afcendent ad Q in my: (2.) Lad Sextilum & (3.) the Dad A Martis. Risum teneatis

That either of these Directions are of Energie sufficient to kill, we may as soon believe, as that the Sun is in our Antaci, or Antipodes, when it is high Noon with us! Did ever any Astrologer before, aver that such Directions which are naturally fortunate, could kill? If they have, I must acknowledge it beyond, not onely my Reading, but Reason. However the mistake came, Argol himself is of a quite different Opinion, in his Ptol. Parus Lib. 2. lately published.

Had Argolin stead of 3. 7 deg. 6 min. given 5 16 deg. 30 min. in the Afcendent. It would then have been placed in the eighth house of the Heavens, and the Ascendent in the thirty eighth year of this Princely Natives Age currant) had come (as without doubt it did) to the 8 of h by Direction; and this in 3., the Detriment of h, and the most malignant and contrary place to him in the Zodiack. Which Rectification, I refer to all ingenious Artists to consider.

Thus much may serve for the Correction and Amendment of Andrew Argol's Errour, and for the Redemption of the Credit of Astrologie, in the Geniture of this eminent Prince. The day he died, the D was in exact \(\Boxed{\text{to}}\) to the Ascendent of his Nativity, and \(\sigma\) was in \(\sigma\) to the D therein: \(\sigma\) was also in \(\Boxed{\text{D}}\) of the Sun that day, and upon (or near) the \(\Boxed{\text{D}}\)-place of the Direction. Thus much for this Geniture.

Anting the affiltance here, that is required in such a Nativiry, I shall content my self with the Authority of Argol, de dieb. Crit. Lib.2. p.33. Where he presents us but with one Accident by which is is verissed, with That of this Princely Natives Death.

The Radical Reasons of a violent Death-he says, are these, viz. Laperante Saturni prope occidentalem angulum in Quadrato Martis junti cum in Cauda Draconis; Pleiades in Ottava, ambo Luminaria in signis violentis nec contiguis: Venus domina Ascendentisi & Ottava, in domo Martis peregrina. And these are not inconsiderable Arguments of a violent Death, but very pertinent pertinent and propes to signifie the same. It is most true, that this illustrious Prince was slain by that bloody Villain Raviliae, on May 14. 1610. at which time the Ascendent was directed to the Quadrate Aspect of h, Lord of the fourth House in this Nativity.

Which Ark of Direction turned into time, according to the learned Najbodes Measure of Time; gives 57 years, 88 days, &c. which wants but a very small quantity of time to agree exactly with the before-mentioned Accident. The D was also directed ad Ocalum Tauri; in the eighth House; a Direction most dangerous.

I shall in the next place present the Face of Heaven under which he was assaulted and slain; which happened on May 14. 4b. 48 m. F. M. 1610. as by the following Figure may appear.

The time of this Kingly Natives Death we finde,-Venus Domina Ascendentis, ac Octave domus inter procellosas Plejades Constituta s Combusta, & in Quadrato Saturnis & Martis; Domina etiam Ascendentis Nativitatis. dy of the Ascendent and eighth House, is Combust, and constituted among the violent and tempethous Stars, called the Pleiades; in Quartile of Saturn and Mars; she is also Lady of the Ascendent of the Nativity, the Figures being nearly one. Mars is near the Radical place of Saturn, and in Antiscion to the Ascendent: The Dragons Taylis near the place of Mercury, (arguing the Treachery by which he lost his Life) and the Moon defluxing from a Quadrate of Mercury, to a Conjunction of Saturn: all of them being most dangerous Transits and Positions. Thus much for this eminent Geniture.

His eminent and illustrious Princess, was Queen to King Henry 4. of France, surnamed the Great; and Mother to the most illustrious Henrietta Maria, Queen of Great Britain, the Widowed Queen of King Charles the first of ever glorious memory.

She was born at the time within written; and in her Life-time subject to many notorious Scandals, Calumnies and Reproaches, &c. and was egregiously injured and dishonoured by the unbridled Tongues and Passions of the Vulgar, as well as of their Leaders, viz. the differing Clergie.

That the latter should be as Goads and Thorns in the sides of her Honour, Repute and Good Name, is plainly to be seen by that eminent Satellitum of the Planets in and near the ninth House; and the D being in the House of 1, in 8 of 3 in the Ninth also. And that the Rabble-Rout, the Multitude, should cherish and believe what Reports and Scandals the others should broach and set on foot, is conspicuously evident from the D her being in 8 of 3, 2 and 2 from double-bodied Signes; and from her being so near her South Node, called of the Greeks Katassish and from her being so near her should House; as also from the cruel Planet 12, his casting a malitious El to the Ascendent from 2, on the Cusp of the Fourth.

This great Queen was most unfortunate in her Relation, although she was the Daughter of a King, Wise of a King, and Mother of Kings! which is eminently signified by the Dof h to the Ascendent from the Fourth, and the Dher being in & with & in the Third, and in & to & Lord of the Third.

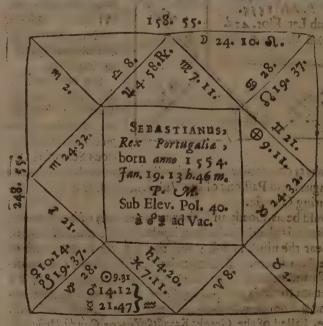

Neither the Happinesses or Missortunes that attended this honoured Ladies Life, shall I trouble either my self or Readers with: a Consutation or Confirmation thereof, cannot reasonably be expected from me. Whether she were better then, or so bad as, the Trumper of Fame hath proclaimed her, I leave to the Artists of after-Ages to consider; who, by beholding her Geniture, will be drawn rather to pity then condemn her. I shall onely say thus much: That notwithstanding the many prodigious Calumnies, Reproaches and Vilissications her whole Life was interwoven with, (by which, as Vertue and true Worth are rated, she may be deemed undeserving and guiltless of all Opprobies cast upon her Name and Honour) yet she went to the Grave in a full Age, wanting not much above three Solar Revolutions of the best of Persons; whereas the Wicked live not out half their days.

The Direction upon whose Effects she expired, was the Ascendent (Giver of Life inher Nativity) to the o of O.

Which Arguments very notably denote, not onely a violent Death, but the kind thereof, viz. his being slain by the Hands of Men. Mars cum Solem infaustum, aut Lunam quadrato aspectu, aut Opposite adspicit, in signis humanis, signiscance ces in seditionibus civilibus, aut intersiciendos ab hostibus, saith Ptol. The time at which this Kingly Native expired, viz. on August 4. 1578, 5 h. 21 m. P. M. is most eminently worth the considering; for then the later part of vascends, and be upon it, it being the Radical place of G; he also is 11 to 3, Lord of the Ascendent at Birth: the 1 then upon the very Cusp of the eighth House, in 6 to 12's Radical place; and 2 Lord of the Eighth, in both Figures is in 6 to the Radical places of 3 and the 0; and the 0 in 8 to 2's Radical place, and upon the Moons place also. Which dangerous Positions and Transits, concomitating so dire a Direction, might very well portend Death. To be 10 and 10 beautiful dangerous 9

The less wonder at Causinus (the Tefuite) his quarrelling at Astrologie, from the Example of this War like Persons Nativity, fince I finde Aftrologers themselves as little agreed upon the true time of his Birth, as that of his Death. Angol de diebus Criti-Gies Part 2. pag . 39. -tells us o he was born mear the time, as in the Figure is noted: bur Mr. J. Swan, in his

Speculum Mundi, fol. 103. avers that he was born (not on Dec. 19.but) upon the last day of November the same year. Argol, in this, comes nearest the Truth, and may therefore be the more credited. But although Argol be credited in the Birth-time of this Potent King, yet in his Death he was much missaken, no less then a whole moneth; for he reports it to have been upon Ottober 16. 1632. when the Gazets or News-books of the particular year in which he was slain, (as my self have seen in Italian, in the Hands of Francis my worthy Friend Mr. F. B. *) report it to have been on November 16.

Bernard, 1632.

This, and other such Missortunes in the Genethliacal part of Astrologie, shew it in as much want of its History, as any other part of Philosophy, (as a learned Person of this Nation, in the year 1653. complained ingeniously of) it being the onely Via Regia, the Kingly Way, to its Persection,

To prove this the true Nativity of this great King, Observe,

1. He came to the Crown of Sweden, &c. being aged 24 years; and then the Ascendent was directed to the \times of μ , and Δ of η .

2. He made War upon Prussia, and went himself in Person, being aged 32 years: Medium Culi came then by Direction to the A of the D.

3. He wars against the Emperour, takes Franck fore, and by his means poor Germany for many years together was made (Sedes Belli) the Seat of War; and this even to its Ruine: The @ was then directed to the Body of 9.

4. Being aged 38 years, and having laboured for a year, (and more) immediately before his Expiration, under many Misfortunes; as well was portended by the Mid-heavens occurse to the Quartiles of & and 4, and to the Body of &. But the Direction that usaered in his Death, was the O to the & of & in the eighth House, and to the D of &, Lord of the Fourth.

Then the which, nothing can be more plain to portend his Death.

The Arguments of a violent Death, are, (1.) Stars of a violent nature Horoscopating and possessing the opposite Angle: (2.) 4 Lord of the Ascendent in 8 of 12, and 11 of 3, in violent fixed Signes: (3.) The 6 with Stars of a Malesique nature. Argel makes another Argument of Luna prope
Caput Medusa servata Latitudine: but he is mistaken; for although Caput Medusa have 22 deg. of North Latitude from the Ecliptique, yet the Disabove 25 deg. distant from him, her Circle of Position considered. Howbeit, he may the better be excused, because the other Testimonies are sufficient.

I cannot cry out with Argol, Digna admiratione est hat fatalis hora! because I know it not; neither in truth did he: but the day of his Expiration is worthy of Admiration enough! for then was the @ upon the very degree of 3, in 8 to 4 Lord of the Ascendent, and in 1 to his Radical place. A day most ominous! as indeed to this potent and mighty King it proved.

the time within Written, as it is commonly received among Astrologers, was this illustrious Emperour born: and it is very likely to be the true time of his Nativity, because it so notably agrees with the Nature , Manner and Quality of his Reign, &c. For, first i he was inactive and remiss; and by thereof, his Reign was but obscure :

(i.e.) comparatively so onely; (for he was not so obscure, but that he was taken notice of, and by all European Princes acknowledged to be Emperour, &c.) The Reason of his Inactivity, and of not making such a bustle in the World as some of his Predecessors, is very significantly seen from the Sun, Moon and Mercury, their Opposition to Saturn Lord of the tenth House, (viz. the House of Honour, Eminencie and Dignity) and he Retrograde upon the very Cusp of the same; as also from Mercury, Lord of the Ascendent, his being Combust; and the Moons Opposition to Mars, who is in Conjunction of Cauda Draconis in the tenth House: nor is the Quartile of Jupiter and Mars meanly to be considered herein.

Secondly, although his Reign was (Comparatively) obscure, yet it was Moderately, Quiet and Peaceable; which is singularly well denoted from the Sextile of the Sun and Jupiter, and the Position of Pars Fortuna in the Ascendent; and the Moon, Saturn and Mars, cassing friendly Aspects thereunto; and from Venus her arising into the same. And for Persons (let them be Illustrious or Mean) that have unfortunate Genitures, to content themselves with Moderation, [the Golden Mean!] is no less Vertue and Honour, then for such that have the most Noble and Propitious ones, to aim at, and atchieve the very highest of Things.

As this eminent Native lived peaceably, so he died a quiet and natural Death: which some may wonder at, by considering the before-mentioned Configurations. But, if we consider Saturn (who is wholly Lord of the Eighth) his being posited in Capricorn, we shall finde that he signifies, not a violent, but a natural Death, according to Peolomy, Lib. 4. Cap. 10. Quadrip. Mortis prafectus, obitus efficit post diuturnos morbos, Pthysin, Rheumatismos, & febres cum rigore: Item per affectiones lienis; hydropicas, Colicas, Oterine affectiones, & quot quot ex frigoris multitudine constant: and of a long-lingering tedious Disease, he did die. The Direction occasioning it, was the Ascendent to the Body of the Sun.

It is eminently worth the noting, that at the same time this Princely Native expired, viz. on April 2. 1657. S. N. 4h. Mane, Mars was upon the opposite place of the Sun, Moon, and of the Direction also; and the Radical place of Mars then ascended on the Eastern Finitor: the Moon was then in Opposition of the Ascendent of the Radix, and unto Venus Lady of the fixth House in that Figure.

Upon the Day of the Revolution that year, Mars was transiting the Radical place of the Moon, and the Moon lately separating from an Opposition of Saturn, Lord of the Eighth, in the Radix. Thus much for this Nativity.

Hiseminent King was Son King Henry the 4. and Father of the present King of France, and Brother to the illuttrious; and of late eminent suffering; Queen of England: He was born at the time within writtens and died in the Moneth of April, 1643. being somewhat above 41 years old.

It hath been controverted very much, Whether this eminent Native died a natural or a violent Death. Some will have it that he died a violent Death, viz. by Poyson: Others, that he died a natural Death, viz. of a Fever, &c. But his Nativity doth feem (tome, and I have no reason to be partial herein) to side with the Reports and Opinions of those that affirm he died a violent Death, (and that by Poyson.)

For (1.) Saturn is Lord of the Eighth, and he posited in Scorpio, a Signe violent, malitious and poysonous. (2.) He is there in exact Quartile of Mars, a violent siery Planet, and his Dispositor. (3.) The Moon (Lady of the Horoscope) is going to the Body of one, and Quadrate Aspect of the other. (4.) A violent Star upon the sixth House, and the Lord thereof Combust; and the Sun and he, both, are in Quartile to the Ascendent from Cardinal Signes. (5.) The Moon is in via Combusta. These are eminent Arguments of a violent Death.

The kind of Death is apparently enough to be discovered; for Saturn being Lord thereof, and posited in a violent venomous Signe, denotes (as I urged before) Death by Poyson. See Cardan, Seg. 2. Aph. 108. Origanus consents to the same Opinion, fol. 726. de Effectib. Albubater says, If Saturn be the alone Significator of a violent Death, he denotes Death by Poyson. And he saith surther, The Lord of the Eighth Peregrine, and afflicted of Saturn or Mars, he being in Cancer, Scorpio or Pisces, the Native shall die by the Sting or Vename of a Serpent, or else by Posson. These Aphorisms I have translated from Albubater, and printed them in my Dostrine of Nativities, Part 1. fol. 148.

This Kingly Native laboured under many Misfortunes, both of Body and Minde, five years together before he departed this Life; as was most notably and aptly fignified by the Ascendents occurse to the Body of Mars, about five years before, viz. in the 26th year of his Age.

Have already published this prodigious Prince his Nativity at large, under the Title of Merlinus Verax ; ac what time Aftrologie (by reason of him) was in danger of an utter and unavoidable Disparagement. For this Prince being engaged with most Princes in Enrope, (so lofty and great an undertaking Spirit had he) the more politickly (as he thought) to bring his Defignes abouts

he bribes a Quack in Astrologie with a Gold Chain, to predict him Victory and Success over his Enemies from the Stars: which unfortunate Bribe, (for so it proved both to the Astrologer and to himself at last) procured such kind of Predictions from his Astrologers Pen, that Astrologie and Reason were never in the least acquainted with. For the Sibyls and Mother Shipton, &c. are conjured out of their Graves to assist the Swedish King for the Gold Chains sake; and he is promised to be greater then Charles the Great; and that he is ordained to Kick and Coff the Hogens of Holland, and to make William of Brandenburgh repent in Sackcloth and Ashes: that be shall beat the Dane out of his Kingdom, and write himself Rex Danix! Gr. (Rare Gipseelike Astrologie!) The strongest Purge that ever Physitian gave, never expelled so much Filth, as did this his Gold Chain.

Seeing Astrologie so basely abused, and this Princely Native so bestattered by his Astrological Parasite; for the Redemption of the Arts Honour, I printed this Kings Nativity; as well to acquaint this Prince how he was abused, as to oppose the Forgeries and Impossibilities of the Abuser of him: wherein I acquainted the World with his Death; which happened as exactly as any thing in reason could be expected. And at the same time the Ascendent, Mid-heaven, and Part of Fortune, were directed to the Terms of Mars, near violent fixed Stars. But above all, there happened a little before his Death, a great Solar Eclipse in the Radical place of his Sun, and opposite place of his Moon; as the certain Predroms of his Exit. And happy it was for him, that his Life so exactly ended with his Honour, Dignity and Greatness: for you must know, the Midheaven to the Body of Saturn, in his Debilities especially, is a never-failing Argument of the Shipwracking of the Natives Estimation and Power. The Figure it self pronounces him a Person prodigious, and all Europe knows it to be true.

Aving published chis great Kings Nativity in a Book by it self, entituled, Nuncius Astrologicus; at what time the Difference between him and the Swedish King was at the highest; it will be unnecessary for me to treat largely hereof a-gain : however, knowing that future Ages may be defirous to be acquainted with so glorious a Nativity, by which Aftro-logie it felf hath been so eminently confirmed, I have thought fit to mention it here, and some Notes upon it, lest the Tyranny of Time should obliviate that lester Book wherein I first printed it. For when the true Astrologer shall read the Story of this mighty Prince, and compare it with this his Geniture, he must of necessity receive it with a Welcome of Admiration! there being, among the best collected, and most choice Nativities of Princes, not a more illustrious Figure of Heaven to be found.

The first caprivated him, and the second blocked him up close in Copenhagens and straitned him much. His Condition, in truth, was very low at these times;

times; and all men in Reason yeilded him an absolute lost Prince: yet notnocwithstanding Vox Populisthe Clamors and Noises of all forts, I resolved to confider his Nativity; and finding it so Princely and glorious a one, as you may see; and observing also, that his Hopes and Assistance (I write now Astrologically) was stronger then his Dangers and Fears; (i.e.) & Lady of the eleventh House, was better fortified then E, Lord of the Seventh; I adventured to publish the same; and therein afferted, That be should overcome his Enemies; and, That notwithstanding this great Kings (then) present Misfortunes, he should recover all his former Greatness and Glory; yea, and more then ever he lost. And behold! in the year 1660. his Kingdome was made Hereditary, which before was but Elective; and he overcame his violent Adversaries, according to my Prediction exactly. And in page 38. of Nunc. Aftrol. I laid down this Axiome, with which I shall conclude: That as this renowned Person obtained his Dignity and Greatness honourably, and hath with much Magnanimity , Courage and Resolution kept and maintained its even in the greatest of Dangers; so he is likely to keep and preserve is to the end of his Life, and to die Quietly, Peaceably and Honourably, possessed there-Thus much for this Nativity.

Have not altered this Geniture above twelve minutes in time from the temряз Estimatum 21ven; and presume it to be the onely true one of this magnanimous and great King, because it so exactly accords with many eminent and remarkable Accidents, which have happened to him already.

i. Being aged year 1630. he was most miraculously preserved from Burning: near which time, of passed by his Ascendent; and a little before, there happened a of of o and hin the opposite Degree of o. Besides these dangerous Transits, there was then operating the Mid-heaven to the of o, and the Ascendent to the Body of he with Latitude, by Direction; and the Sun and h both posited in stery Signes.

2. In the year 1633. he was in great danger of Stabbing; and then he had the Ascendent directed to the Body of h without Latitude: h then passed over his Radical Ascendent, & having led the way a little before.

3. In the year 1649, being then aged 44 years, this illustrious Person was invaded by a very sharp and desperate Fever, & c. which had nearly ended his Life; and beyond all hope, had, but that the benevolent Planet 11 was then upon the Ascendent, in * to one of the Directions that then happened: The Directions

Directions were, the D to the D of S, and the Mid-heaven to his S.

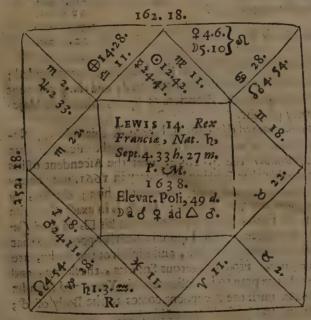

4. In the year 1656 and 51 year of his Age, the War happened between him and Oliver Crommelsthen Protector of England, about the Indies: there was then in force the Sun ad Oculum Tauri, to the Bulls Eye, a violent fixed Star, by Direction; and \bigoplus ad Oppositum Solis, to the Suns of from violent Signes: very aprly and truely fignifying that (to England) most unhappy Quarrel; I so term it, because his Majesty of Spain is, by the Heavens, ordained a Friend, and not a Foe, to England. Hath he not the Sun in γ , Englands Horoscope? Is not his Ascendent and his D, and \bigoplus , all in \triangle to γ ? This Nation may be happy in his Friendship, but cannot gain any thing by being at Enmity with him. And I should think, that although Crommel and he could not agree, because the Sun in his Geniture, was in the place of δ in this Nativity; and δ in this, was in the place of the Sun in his Radix, δ c. yet England and this great King may naturally and friendly unite, for the beforementioned Reasons.

5. In the year 1659, this King made Peace with France, and suddenly after married his Daughter to the King of France: the Ascendent was then directed to the * of 9. Lord of the Seventh in this Nativity; and the I was then directed ad Sextilum Solis. I need not verifie this Regal Geniture sur-ther, for these several Teltimonies are sufficient.

This Princely Native within less then two years, hath the Ascendent directed ad Corpus Jovis; and within less then four years, the D directed ad Sextilum proprium, and Medium Cali ad Trinum Veneris: Before which time, he will (in all probability) regain much of what he formerly lost; and be in a most prosperous and flourishing Estate. The 62 year of his Age will be dangerous in respect of Health; for then the Ascendent will be directed ad Quartilum Martis.

The greatest Kings, as meanest men, must die!

Ith much pains and trouble I have gained this prefent King of France his Nativity; and have verified it by these following Accidents to be the true one.

Native being aged between nine and ten years, he had the Small Pox: the Sun was then directed to the of the fiery Planet 6. Lord of the Ascendent.

2. Being aged about 13 years, many Troubles began to arise in France; the Prince of Conde opposed the King, and the City of Paris shut their Gates against him; but fide with the Prince of Conde, and permit him and his Army to passthorow: the Pretence was to eclipse the Pride and Power of Cardinal Mazarine, but it is most certain the King felt the smart of the Rebellion, and had then the Mid-heaven directed to the D of 3.

This present year 1660, toward the later end thereof, this Princely Native was fickly; I conceive it occasioned chiefly from the effects of that great Solar Eclipse, November the 4. 1659. near the Ascendent of his Nativity. It is very probable that h being Stationary in 1661. near of upon the same Degree, may more unhappily discompose him; chiefly, by reason of the ill Revolution this year affords: For h is in exact & to the Ascendent, and the D in the Fifth, lately separated from his D, in & of Cor Legnis, and in D to the Ascendent. The Figure is nearly opposite to that of the Radiy, and the Lord of the Ascendent, and Fighth of the Radiy, are of the Radix; and the Lord of the Ascendent, and Eighth of the Radix, are in d in the Sixth of the Figure. N this Nativity, neither of the Luminaries or Horoscope are befriended by the Beams of the Fortunes; & is in 8 of the Lord of the Ascendent, and

For the time of Death, I conceive it may be about the fifth year of Age; because, near that time, the Ascendent will be directed ad Quartilum Mercurii; Lord of the eighth House; as may appear thus:

Which will, according to Naybodes Measure of Time, happen toward the latter end of the fifth year of this Natives Age.

I would not have any to mitunderstand me in this Prediction; and shall therefore premise, That I do not maintain, or plead for, a Stoical Necessity; or positively conclude that this Prince will then die; because Life and Death are in the Hands of God, and he can shorten or lengthen the same as himself pleases: I aver onely this, that according to Natural Causes, he will be in very great danger of Death about the time of his Age mentioned : and I have known in several Childrens Genitures, the same, or like Arguments attended with the Effects I fear will befal this Princely Child. Thus much for this Nativity.

Ince the Writing of this, (and Licensing the whole Book also) we have had News in England, that this young Prince, on Nov. 1. Stilo Novo, did depart this Life; wanting (it (eems) some few days of accomplishing full five years of Age. Which inconsiderable Errour, (for it is no other) cannot, I suppose, beget any ill thought of Astrologie in the Breasts of the ingeniously Learned; but rather convince the Antagonists thereto, of its Certainty and excellent Use.

Accendent of the Nativity of this Princes in of the Os and he in of the Os are Arguments of a short Life; chiefly because h is Lord of the Sixth, and in the Ascendent, and & Lord of the Eighth, in & to it, and in & of the D, and I of the O.

This present year 1661. he labours under the Ascendent to the Body of h with Latitude, by Direction; and may possibly combat with the Evils it portends indifferently well, he having no dangerous Revolution this year: but in the year 1662, at what time he hath the D directed to the S of S, and Ascendent to h sine Latitudine, and the O nearly to the D of h, all by Direction, he may be in great danger of Death, should he this year escape: for he hath then a most dangerous Revolution indeed, and h will be no less then twice Stationary upon or near the Suns place, and many moneths together upon it, and in D to the Ascendent.

The © to the of h, happens somewhat latter; but the Revolution for the eighth year currant; is a most malitious one, as is by the Figure thereof seen.

N this Figure the oppolite place of the O, and Quadrate place of he is Horoscopical; and & Lord of the Alcendent here, is in & of & Lord of the Eighth of the Radix, in the feventh House; and bis nearly, returned to the Radical place of the O. both being in & tothe Ascendent herein, they being with a violent fixed Star a called Cor Scorpionis: the Figure it felf is in exact. I to that of the Radix. - I will not be for prefumptuous as to determine the end of this Princes Days in this year; but according to the Canons of, Astrologie, I may lawfully say he will be in great danger of Death; and that by reason of the before-mentioned Directions concurring with sodangerous a Revolution.

Nativity of the Lord Deputy of Ireland; and doth agree exactly with the Actions of his Life, and Manner of his Death. He was a Person of molt admirable Parts; a great Counfeller, States-man, and Politician; and therefore highly envied by such as came short of his worth.

he was a Gentleman to fignally accomplished, that our facred Soveraign, King Charles the King Charles the first, (who without doubt best of any Man knew him) in his Emor Bandun, as he is bemoaning the unfortunate end of the Earl, and his own mishap in consenting to his Death, writes thus: I looked upon my Lord of Strafford as a Gentleman whose great Abilities might make a Prince rather as a shamed ashamid to employ him in the greatest Affairs of State: for those were prone to create in him great Considence of Undertakings; and this was like enough to betray him to great Errours, and many Enemies: whereof he could not but contrast goodstore; while moving in so high a Sphere, and with so vigorous a Lustre, he must needs (as the Sun) raise many envious Exhalations; which condensed by a Popular Odium, were capable to cast a Cloud upon the brightest Merit and Integrity.

To fignifie his great Parts and Accomplishments for Government and Policie, \mathcal{O} c. he had me ascending his Horoscope; a Signe that ever represents a Native admirably ingenious and prudent: \mathcal{D} , Lord thereof, is in \mathcal{D} above the Eatth, with the Sun, who is Lux temporis, cashing a Δ to the Ascendent; and he $[\mathcal{D}]$ being Lord of the tenth House, and the Ascendent also, denotes the Native to acquire or gain Honour and Dignity by his Policie, Prudence which did not onely eclipse the Credit of his great Parts, but argued his Relations and Friends, as well as Enemies, to envy his Honours and Advancements. S, o and D, govern the Eleventh, Twelfth, and third Houses; and h being Locally and Vertually in the eleventh House, in S of 1, argued the Persidions and Falsness of his Friends, and the Violence, Envy and Malice of his Enemies. And to add to these unhappy Configurations, and malitious Significations, the Cusp of the Mid-heaven is the Antiscion of h, and Contra-antiscion of 1.

When this great Earl was aged near forty years, he was constituted and appointed Lord Deputy of Ireland: he had then operating in his Nativity the Moon ad Sextilum Solis, and the Medium Cali ad Antifcium Veneris, by Direction.

Being aged 47 years, Viz. Nov. 12. 1640. he was impeached of High Treason: S was that day in S to his Ascendent, (an ill Programus of his unfortunate end) and in of 2 Lord of his Tenth, and Ascendent.

On Nov. 19. he defired Baile, but was denied it : the D was in & to $, and the Sun in & to his Tenth.

On Nov. 23. he was committed to the Tower: the D was then in 8 of 8's and her own place.

On Jan 28. he was first charged in the House of Commons: the D was in 8 of h's place, and of was then upon the Suns Radical place.

On Jan. 30. he was charged in the Lords House: & still upon the Suns place, and the D in d of the Sun in the Sixth.

On April 15, 1641. this Earl was voted Guilty: In & of the Sun near his Radical place; hin & to his Ascendent; the Sun in of his place, and & upon the place of Q in the Tenth.

On May 10. the King signed the Bill for his Death: 2 was then Stationary, and h in of of his Ascendent; and that day the D was in of of and 2.

Upon May 12. this eminent Native was beheaded, being then 48 years of Age: the D was in exact of to his Sun, and h still in othis Ascendent. But as a more eminent Cause of these Troubles, and (at last) loss of his Life, he had the Medium Cali directed add h, of the parties and the D was eclipsed in the very beginning of his Revolution that year, no less then ten Digits, and of and h both afflicting the Ascendent of the Radix.

His is the Geniture of Robert Earl of Effex, who was so famous in the days of Queen Elizabeth, that the Commonalty generally adored, as well as admired, him. It had been no great Unhappiness to England, if his Honour and Fame had lived no longer then his Person: for without all peradventures the very Name of Essex did more Countenance and Encourage the late never-to-be-forgotten Rebellion, then the Interest either of the Parliament, or the misguided Earl that in 1642, became their General against our Soveraign Lord King Charles the First. But the Tables being by Goo's great Goodness turned, I shall most willingly be silent.

This famous Person began to grow most eminent in the 28th year of his Age, obtaining great Favours of the Queen, &c. he had then both the Luminaries directed to 4 his *.

Being aged 32 years, he was Commissioned to seize the Spanish Elect, and suddenly after (as saith John Ston) he was made Earl-Marshal to the Queen; which latter Honour begat him very much Envy among the Nobles of the Land: he had then the Luminaries directed to the * of Q; and to denote the Envy he thereby contracted, he had the Medium Cali at the same time directed ad Opposium Solis.

When he was 33 years of Age, he was deputed to Ireland, viz. on March 27. 1599. the & was then upon the Ascendent of his Horoscope; and the day of his beginning his March, the @ and h were in & from the Tenth and Fourth Houses; and that which was worst, the M.C. was then directed ad & D.

His Voyage prospered not; for on September the 28. that year, he returned to Court again, the 3 being then in the place of hat his going forth. Ottober 2. 1599, he was committed to the Tower. June following, he was suspended from all Offices. February the 19, he was arraigned, and suddenly after condemned. And on February the 25, being on Ashmednefday, at eight of the Clock in the morning, he was beheaded: he had then the Mid-heaven directed ad Opposium Martin cum Latitudine.

N the day of his Revolution for that year, he had the D in the opposite places of the O, D and & in the Radix; and in the Figure for that year, the Radical place of h afcended, and & Lord of the Eighth was in exact [] thereunto from the fourth Honse: the D was alto with Oculus Tauri, a violent fixed Star.

At the Moment of his Death, the Radical place of Canda Draconis ascended. and b in exact of thereunto, the o and o being in o to the Ascendent of the Revolution. All which feems to intimate his Life to be taken away by Treachery, as to this day is fill believed by many. And it is no new thing for Persons, whom Envy cannot sufficiently blemish or hurt in their Life, to be falsly and treacherously dealt-with at their Death.

The Brigheest Sun, the blackest Clouds dothraise.

The Arguments of a violent Death, are, the Luminaties in d of d, near a violent fixed Star. (2.) The O, D, and Lord of the Eighth, in violent Signes. Sin 1, afflicting the Lights in any English great Persons Nativity, is little less then fatal to his Honour, Life and Fame.

Ohn Cafinsir King of Po land, or in the rear 1655, and part of 1656. Was violently forced out of his Kingdom by the undannted Carobe Gustave then King of Sweden and this in fo strange and miraculous a manner, the fuddenness of ir confidered, that amazed the whole Christian World! But the King of Sweden at last (being intoxicated with Victory and Success) Itriving to get more Honour, and greater Advantages against this (then) unfortunate King; and improvidently endeavouring to grasp too much; behold! he looseth all; and in the year 1657, was totally routed out, and develted of all he had gotten from the King of Poland: and then the exiled King Casimir enjoyed his own Territories and Power again.

For to fignific this great Kings (then) Misfortunes, he had the Medium Cook directed ad D, and the Horoscope ad D Saturm; two Directions most unfortunate; the one falling in the eleventh House, arguing the Inability; Weakness and Backwardness of Friends; the other in the second House, denoting Loss and Deltruction of his Estate, Or.

For to fignifie his sudden Recovery again from those unparallel'd Prejudices, he had suddenly after the Ascendent directed ad & Q cum. G sine, Latitudine, and she Radically posited in & her own House: a Direction most happy and splendid indeed! and so it proved. Besides, the King of Swedens Fate was now declining, as I have elsewhere remembred, and by sufficient Arguments evinced.

And since that ; his Majerry of Poland hath had the Ascendent directed ad Corpus Jovis, cum & sinc Latitudine; which by reason of his having at the same time the D directed ad \square \bigcirc , and \bigcirc his transiting the opposite place of the Direction, and of \bigcirc and \bigcirc also, hath not had those glorious and splandid Essessyer, that naturally attend such a Direction, or as shortly he may (by Gods blessing) have therefrom. His Lord of the Tenth in his Radix, and the Direction happens in the third House. Why his Honour, Dignity and Territories may not be enlarged with the taking in of some Neighbour-Dominions, (perhaps the Smedes Kingdome). I see not. In his next years Revolution, he hath the Moon on the \bigcirc . C. of the Radix, in \bigcirc of Corm, and in \bigcirc of \bigcirc and \bigcirc , and \bigcirc with the \bigcirc in the Radical place of the Moon; intimating a year of honourable Action unto him, and an Increase of his Power and Greatness. It is an admitable Revolutional Figure.

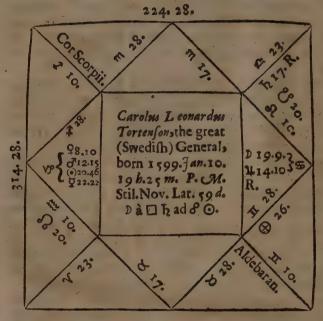

B Ehold the Revolu-tion for that year he underwent his grand Troubles !! First, here is & from the Twelfth of the Radix, but Seventh here; in O of both the Luminaries, and I Lord of the Eleventh in this Figure: then here is the Moon in 8 of the Sun and 11.and going to an & of 2 and 2, from Signes Cardinal and violents then have we h Lord of the Tenth, in exact & to the eleventh House, and nearly in []

This Native lived victoriously, and died quietly; which is not common for the true-born Sons of Mars: but here it is no Miracle at all if we consider the strength of 3 in his Geniture, and the several before-mentioned Positions. It is to be noted, where ever (I mean in what Nativity soever). 3 is fortified the makes the Native fortunate and victorious in War; but more eminently so, if having Dignities in the tenth House, and strong in the Horoscope, as he hath in this great Persons Radix.

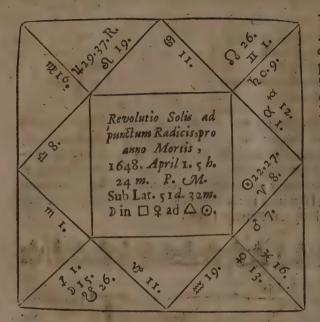

His honoured Native was fecond Son to the great Duke of Buckingham, whose Nativity we have presented before; and had it pleased God to have spared his Life, he might have enjoyed as great Fame as his illustrious Father: for here are three Planets in their Exalcations, and the D in * of Wipon the Ascendent, and she

this bath been under the handling of the molt able Altrologers the World was ever acquainted with, if we may believe that renowned Person Henricus Rantravine in his Treatife of the Certainty of Astrological Predictions, fat. 97. where he meutions the Prediction of Picus's Death by several Astrologers by Name, in these Words: Journ's Picus Mirandula comes, edidit librum adversus Astrologos his (inter quos fuerunt Bellantius Senensis, Antonius Sirigarus Florentinus : & Angelus de Catastivis Carmelita) ut Artem veram Ostenderent, Illum annum atatis 33, non transgressurum pradixerunt, ex Directione Ascendentis ad Marten, quemadmedum ex scriptis binc inde editis constat. (i.e.) John Picus Earl of Mirandala, wrote a Book against A-Arologers; and they (among whom were Bellantius of Siena, Antonius Sirigatus a Florentine, and Angel of Catastive a Carmelite) to prove their Art to be true, predicted that the faid Picus should not live past the 33 year of his Age, from the Direction of the Afcendent to Mars: as is evident from what they have written in Relation thereunto. That learned Knight Sir Christopher Heyden, mentions the same thing, thus: Picus being forecold by three Altrologers, that he should not live above 33 years, (as Lucas Gaurious, and others, do withels) yet flattering himself with a false Comforts as if he could wrangle away Death by writing against Astrologie, while he fought to prove the Art vain, his own Death concurring exactly with the time foretold by the Altrologers, confirmed it to be true; and more cactually confuted that which he had written against it, then if all the world besides had conspired to answer him. Defi Aftrol. p. 193.

But Monsieur Gassendus is so consident as to deny this truth, viz. That the Altrologers predicted Picus Death exactly, as to the time, and yet saith, Is Bellansius camers near the matter therein; he might easily conjecture Picus to be no long-lived Mausstom his weakly Constitution, continual Labours of Minde; &c. When it is more then probable; that Bellansius knew nothing more of Picus; then by his idle Writings, (be not angry I so term them; for whoever writes against a thing he doth not understand, writes idlely; but Picus did so, Ergo, &c.) and the Scheme of his Nativity: Ergo, there could be no such Confederacy. Gassendus most distingenuously infinuates. And he would not be well pleated hould an Attrologer cast the same reproach upon the Cures presented to se performed by Men of his Profession. But behold the great Jullice of the Heavens! Gassendus that quarrelled at Attrologers for so certain and splendid a Demonstration of their Art; had, by an Astrologer, viz. Johannis Baptista Morinus, his own Death predicted from his Nativity, long before it came to pass, to make him amends for his ignorant and credulous Considence.

I allow Picas a different, prudent and learned Man: But Bernardus non vidic omnia. For norwith tanding his great Parts, both natural and acquired, of which before thave rendred Reasons; yet his rashness was such, that he would (Agrippi like) oppose even the best of things: as is obvious by the Moott being in Opposition to Mars, and both in Quartile to Mercury and Surara. Which Arguments are sufficient to Retrograde (if not confound) the Sagacity of the wisest of Men.

But that which is strange herein, is that he being a Kingsshould be expulsed his Kingdom, and subject to Exile for the space of ten years; and afterwards to be detained in Prison not less then twenty six years more. But this is no strange Marvel at all neither, if his Nativity be duely scanned and considered: for here we finde the . Lord of the Ascendent, posited in the twelsth House, the Angle of Imprisonment, &c. there in of of Lord of the Tenth. Nay, although the a Fortune, yet he being Lord of the Eighth, and posited in the Ascendent, is no single ar good Position. The D in I of & Lord of the Eleventh and Third Hou, s, denoted the Instability and Negligence of his Friends and Relations. Lord of the Seventh, being stronger then the O, Lord of the Ascendent, and in I to him from Cardinal Signes, is an Argument of his being at the Mercy of his Enemies. At what time he was expulsed his Kingdom, the D was directed ad Quartilum Martis, Lord of the Tenth, he being then aged somewhat above 42 years.

In the year 1559. saith Rantzovius, Christiernus 2. trium Borealium Regnorum quondam Rex, nempe Dania, Suecia, as Noruvegia, & Caroli 5. assiris in captivitate in qua per annos 27. detinebatur, propter tyrannidem, quam exercuit erga Nobiles subditos. The Eclipse of the Sun in November 1659, being upon the Suns Radical place in his Geniture, argues Infelicity and Trouble unto him, although it be so long past; chiefly, because the cruel Planet h is now passing over the Suns place, and his being thereon near five Moneths together. I wish the Death of his illustrious Mother occasion not too much Grief and Anxiety of Minde unto him; and pray G o D to preserve him from the Treacheries and Conspiracies (of all kinds) of those among whom he abides. His Revolution is most malitiously unfortunate, and nearly the same with that of the Princess his Mother.

The learned Origan saith, if & shall come to the place of the Sun in a Revolution, it signifies.—Tristitiam, labores, ac infirmitates, calidas, & c. Prince

His illufittious Native, Prince Maurice, (second Son to the King of Hungary and Bohemia) was born at Custria, and at the time within written.

This eminent Prince being aged twenty one years, and upward, viz. anno 1642. came into England, and obrained a very confiderable Command over the Forces of King

Charles the First, his Uncle: He had then operating the Sun to the Trine of & by Direction, and the Trine of h Lord of the Ascendent also; and at the same time the Ascendent directed ad Sextilum Jovis: three Directions of admirable Significations.

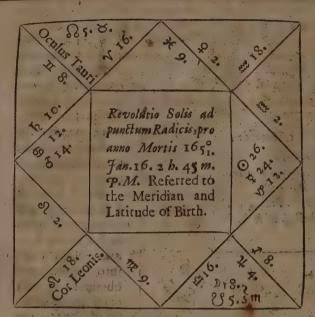

Being aged near 28 years, viz. in the year 1648. this great Prince obtained a Generals place at Sea: the Ascendent was then directed to the * of the @ and $.

Aged a little above thirty years, viz. in the year 1651. as he was coming from the West-Indies, the Ship he was in, was cast away; and he, by that unifortunate Accident, drowned: The Ascendent was then directed ad Quadratum Saturni; and this from Cardinal Signes, viz. γ and s, and therefore the more dangerous.

As he then laboured under a most Malignant Direction, so his Revolution for that year was none of the best; as by the Figure thereof may appear.

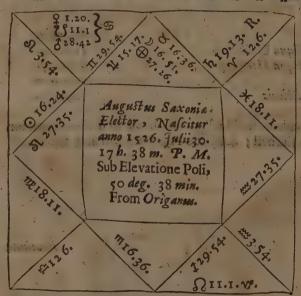

Revolutio

N this Figure the Radical place (or near it) of hascends the Horoscope, and here Lord of the Eighth thereon, being in d of do who in the Radix is posited in the eighth House; the Horoscope of Birth is the Cusp of the Eighth in this Figure: the D is returned to her Radical place; and both the Fortunes are in [to each other: a more dangerous Revolution cannot well happen.

The Arguments of a violent Death, are,

(1.) The Position of the Luminaries in violent Signes: (2.) & casting a D to the © and Ascendent from the eighth House, he being in a violent Signe: (3.) The Lord of the Ascendent and Lady of the Eighth with violent fixed Stars. For the kinde of Death, viz. by Water, & v. Let it be considered, that the D, and h Lord of the Ascendent, (whose D proved Anareta in this Geniture) are in Watry Signes: (2.) & an Infortune in the Eighth, is just entring an Aquatical Signes thence afflicting the @ and Ascendent: (3.) A Watry Signe ascending in the Revolution, and h and & in Conjunction therein; and the Moon near her South Node, in exact Quadrate of the ninth House, she being returned to her Radical place.

Voustus Elector of Saxony > that great Prince, was born at the time within written and had a Geniture as Princely as any of the Princes of his time that ever I yet saw: for here we have the Kingly Signe A Horoscopating, and the Sun in that Signe, in exact * to 4, a fortunate Planet, polited in the Medium Cali. The Moon is located upon the very Cusp of the House of Soveraignty, in her Exaltation; and although she be in of the Sun, neither she nor the Sun are any way way afflicted by the infortunate Planets: and roadde unto the Excellencie hereof, the Moon is in Arong Reception of Menm, who is in Sextile of the Horoscope; and all the Planets are above the Edith.

In the year 1,86. on February 11. St. Wets being aged 59 years of fix moneths, and eleven days, he died of an Apoplexie. Jupiter is Lord of the Eighth, and he denotes Death to the Native, Ab angina, Peripneumonia, Apoplexia, Convulsionibus capitis, & Scomachi doloribus, &c. Vide Orig.

At the time he expired, he had no Direction save the Medium Cali, and the Moon to Canda Draconia, and to several Stars of Hercules, they being of the Nature of Saturn. Nor was the Revolution for that year considerably dangerous, as here following may be seen: there must therefore be some secret Operation more then ordinary in Saturns double Return; chiefly, if a Revolution be any manner of way Malevolution.

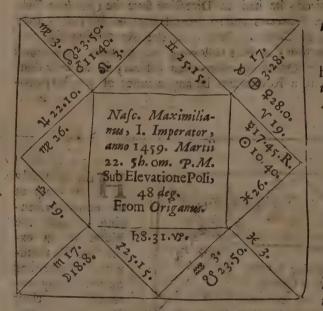

TEre is nearly the Cusp of the Fourth ascenand the Moon is in exact Quartile thereunto; Jupiter and Saturn nearly returned to their Radical places; the latter of which is in Opposition of the Lord of the Ascendent from the fixth House; both being in violent Signes; the Moon is also in Opposition of the Sun Lord of the Ascendent 3

Birth; and Mercury, Lord of the Eighth herein; is in Platick Quartile to the Ascendent. Howbeit, this is not of power sufficient to kill; except we allow that double Return of Saturn to be more dangerous then ordinary. Unless that great and terrible Eclipse of the Sun; (as Leovitim calls it) which happened a little before this Revolution began, vizon April the 19th, should spend part of its Effects upon the Life of this Princely Native, it happenning exactly upon the opposite point of the Ascendent of this Revolution. 'Tis a new Enquiry (I confess) in A-Astrologie; yet not so idle, that I should fear to commend it unto the serious Student, as a Matter most worthy his serious Consideration and Pains. I shall (perhaps) more fully have studied it, before I have accomplished my Second Part of the Collection of Nativities.

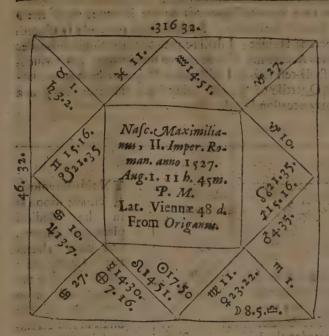

The Day this illustrious Native died, viz. on February 11. 1586. the D was in Conjunction of Saturns in Saturns Radical places in the fixth House of this Revolution, and the Sun was in Conjunction of Mars and Mercury, and Quartile of Jupiter in the fourth House thereof; Jupiter being Lord of the Eighth in the Radixs and in it in this Figure.

Hat Emperour or Prince that half have the Sun and Saturn in Quartile from Angles, and Mars and the Moon in the same Aspect from fixed Signes; and shall have nothing good in his Nativity, save a Trine of the Sun and Mars by Reception; might well fay with this great Prince That if any man knew the weight of a Diadem, he would never stoop to take it up.

The learned Ranbeing then aged fixty years: he had then the Moon (if we confider she hath near five Degrees of North Latitude) directed to the Body of Saturn, and this in the fourth House. And had Origanus but removed his Ascendent but a small matter, and in stead of 26 Degrees of Virgo, made it 28. the Ascendent (which must in this Nativity be Hylech) would have come at the same time to the Quadrate of Mars, Lord of the eighth House. But Origanus minded not (it appears) so much the true Correction of the Scheme, as the Signification of Saturn in Capricorn in the Fourth; who being in Trine of Jupiter, and no way afflicted of Mars, signified those rich Mines and Quarries he is reported to have been Master of; and by means of which, he encreased his Power. Origanus then treating of the fourth House onely, his Observation was the more considerable, and he the less to be blamed for not correcting the Figure.

Presents us with this Figure for the true Nativity of this great Prince; and, to the purpose he cites it: it is not improbable, but it may be the true one.

He, treating of the fifth House, notes it for a Geniture of great Fecundity, because the Moon and Venus are in the fifth House, and Inputer in a Prolifique

Signe, in Sextile not onely to the Cusp of the fifth House, but nearly of Vermutherein. My Author saith, he married Mary, Daughter of Charles the Fifth, and by her had four Daughters; and nine Sons; whose Names; and times of Births, he giveth thus:

- 1. Anne, Nat. 1549. Nov. 1. 11 b. P. M.

- 13. Charles, Nat. 1565. September 27. 9 h. 30 m. A. M.

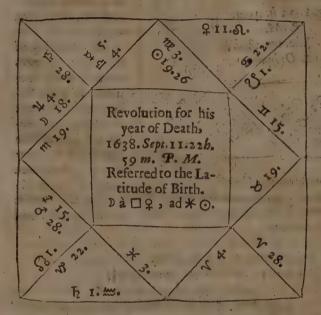

The Arguments of his Soveraignty, are, (1.) Din \triangle to the Ascendent and tenth House, and her being in Reception of \mathcal{H} , Lord of the Tenth. (2.) The \odot , the natural Significator of Greatness, is simply the most strong in the Figure, and he casts an amicable Aspect to the Ascendent. (3.) His very strong, and in Sextile of \mathcal{H} Lord of the tenth House; he is also in some small Reception of Mars, who is in Sextile of \mathcal{H} , Lord of the Horoscope.

The \square of the \odot and \mathcal{V}_{2} , and the same Aspect of the \mathcal{V}_{2} and \mathcal{V}_{3} , together with the Position of the \mathcal{V}_{3} in the first House, and the \odot his \mathcal{O}_{3} to the Tenth, might well denote a troubled Life and Reign.

Hen. Rantzovim saith he died on October the 12. 1576. being then aged 49 years, and somewhat above two moneths: at which time & was upon the opposite place of the O, in \square of \mathfrak{P} , his Significator.

If this be the true time of his Birth, he died upon the @ ad [] 1, by Direction:

rection; having some two years and upwards before laboured under the D ad & B. & O ad & D cum Latitudine. But being not particularly assured, that the Horoscope hereof is right, I shall request the Astrological-Reader to consult it with other Accidents, if so be he can obtain any: until which, for my own part, I shall rest satisfied with what Origanus hath done, believing the Sun to the Quartile of U, (he being Lord of the seventh) in a Climasterical year, may occasion Death.

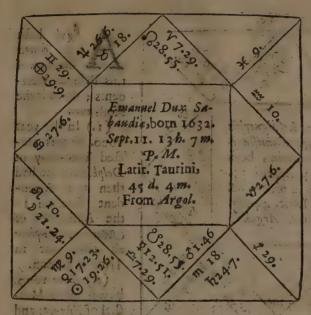

N this Revolution on the Moon is in the Radical place of Saturn, and both ascend the Horoscope : Mars, Lord of the Ascendent, is on the Cusp of the Sixth in the Radix, and in the Quadrate place of the Sun, and the Moon in her own Quadrate place. But above all, there happened a great Eclipse of the Sun in Opposition of the Ascendent of the Radix, at the beginning of the year. All which considered together with the before-mentioned Directions, are Arguments eminent enough of the Fatalness of the year unto this Princely Native.

On the day he expired, there was no eminent Transit; but the Moon was in her Radical place, lately separated from the evil Aspects of h, u and d. But upon the day he sickned, viz. September 18. the Moon was in exact Conjunction of h, Lord of the Eighth in the Radix, and in Quartile of u, Lord of the Sixth, she being Lady of the Ascendent of the Radix.

Thus much for this Nativity.

His is the Nativity of a Prince that died at fix years of Age, viz. on Offober the 3. 1638.

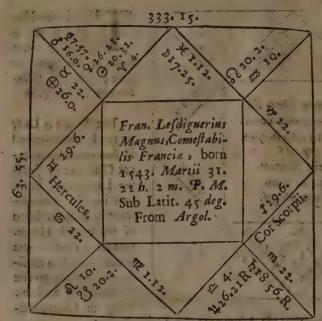

of the Horoscope, and in Lee, posted in exact Quartile of Jupiter, Lord of the Sixth, and in the same Aspect of Saturn, Lord of the eighth House.

Mars from the Fourth, casts a malicious Quartile to the Ascendent; and he being in Conjunction of Canda Draconis, makes his Aspect the more mischievous.

These are Arguments of a short Life in any Nativity. Argol is pleased to make the Cadencie of Sol, and Saturns Trine to the Ascendent, two other Arguments of a short Life; but I understand not how Trine-Aspects can be any way unfortunate, though of the evil Planets, unless we will make the Oppositions of the Benevolents fortunate. Nor yet, that the Sun can suffer Debility by his Cadencie in the third House, it being the second Angle of the third Triplicity, and honours each Native with the Friendships of Men and Kindred, &c. as may be seen by the Cabal of the Twelve Houses, Printed by my learned Friend, Captain George Wharton, in his Calendarium Ecclesiasticum 1659. But there are Arguments sufficient without these, of a short Life to this illustrious Native; and Arc need not be forced.

The Directions that occasioned his Death, were the Ascendent ad Quadratum Martis, and the Moon (absque Lutitudine, as saith Argol) to the Quadrate of Jupiter, Lord of the sixth House; and herein, the true Significator of Diseases: but the Moon was then (cam Latitudine) under the Square of Saturaby Direction, and he Lord of the eighth House.

Rgol hath iet down but few of this Princes Accidents; three is the most, viz.

1600 he was ele-cted Vice-Roy in Delphium; he had then the Alcen-dent directed to the Antiscions of Mars, and Jupiter all that year in Trine of his Sun.

(2.) Anno 1609. he was made Marshal of France; and had then the Sun directed ad Sextilum Mercurii, Dominus Ascendentise

(3.) In the year 1626, he died, being aged 83 years; and had then the Sun directed to his own Quartile.

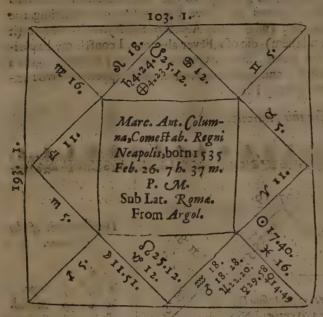

A little before his Death, he was much molested with a Diarrhea and Vomining.

My Author faith, - Obitum Saturni in Sexta cum Opposito Martis confituti inter Pleiades plurimis fuit agritudinibus Obnoxius, &c. And it is not unlikely at all: for Mars, Lord of the Sixth with violent Stars, in Opposition of Saturn upon the Sixth, always makes the Native Obnoxious to violent Sicknesses. He should have been a Person of most admirable Accomplishments, as is seen by both the Fortunes, and the Sun casting friendly Rays to the Ascendent, and the Moons Trine to Saturn, and Sextile of Mars from the Mid-heaven.

He Fame of this worthy person was, and yet is, such, that it needs not the flourish of the best Pen (much less mine) to set it forth further: I shall therefore make some short Observations on the Figure Astrologically, and then refer it to the Judgement of those that are able to censure.

Cardinal Signes possess the Angles, and the Moon, Lady of the Tenth, (though in her Fall) is in exact Sextile of Venus, who is Lady of the Ascendent, and in her Exaltation, and in Platique Sextile of the Sun: all Arguments of very great Fame, &c. And they are not meanly strengthned by the Conjunction of Mars and Jupiter, and their Trine to the Ascendent; as also by the Trine of the Sun and Venus to the tenth House. As Saturn and the Dragons Tayl are posited in the Mid-heaven, he could not want Scandals and Disgraces to be cast upon his Honour, and his highest Actions and Attempts; nor did he.

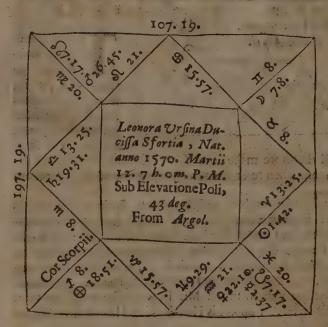

After the great Fight against the Turks; 1571, he was made Prorex; or Vice-Roy in Sicily, where he remained many years: he had then to fignific that Accident, the Sun directed $ad \times \delta$, and the Direction fell in γ ; Ergo the more, eminent,

He died in the year 1,584, being then aged forty nine years: he had then the Ascendent directed ad Quartilum Martis.

A little before, he went a Progress with the King into Spain, and had the Ascendent directed ad \triangle \bigcirc ; which any one may see by the Figure onely; and on the 20th day of July, he died there: h was Retrograde in Opposition to his Ascendent, and the Moon in \checkmark , in Opposition of Q, Lady of the Ascendent, and both in Quartile to it, and to the malignant Planet h also. My Author saith, he died of a Fever: whether Q, Lady of the Ascendent and Eighth, being in Conjunction of \bigcirc (who is Hot and Dry) on the Cusp of the Sixth, or \bigcirc his Trine to the Ascendent, may signific the kinde of Discovery.

sease by which he should expire, I leave to the Astrologique-Physician to consider: Or whether Persons that have Cardinal Signes possessing the Angles of their Nativities, and d in any Aspect of the Hylech's, do not (if a Natural Death attend them) die of a Fever always. I confess my Experience of this kind is but mean, but by Observation I may be able to give a better Account hereafter; and shall endeavour it, if I happen not to be anticipated by some more worthy Pen.

His Prince is of Courage and Confidence equal to the Significations of d in A, in * of the O; and hould be of a more then common Prudence, by reason of the \triangle of \mathcal{H} and \mathcal{G} : and according to this Nativity, (he having five Planets essentially dignissed) his Soul should not be more Generous and Liberal, then his Fortune Large and Confiderable.

I have been told by those that have often seen him, that he is naturally troubled with sore Eyes: the Moon (you see) is among the Pleiades, and in [] of & from Angles, aptly denoting the same. It is a Rule among A-strologers, The Pleiades with the Moon in the Ascendent, denotes great Defects in the Eyes of the Native. In this Nativity the Moon is with them, in Opposition to the Ascendent; which is, in effect, all one: for without doubt, the fixed Stars emit benign and dangerous Rays, as do the Erratical.

Anno 1656. in June, this valiant General obtained a great Victory over the French at Valencienne, and gained extraordinary Honour thereby: he had then the Sun directed ad Trinum Jovis.

And at the same time, It was upon the place of his Moon, I upon his Suns place, and I in Trine to his Ascendent. Being not certain that the Ascendent is precisely true, I wanting Accidents to verifie it by, I shall say no more of this eminent Persons Geniture.

wanted not an admirable Sympathy between their Genitures for the same: for this eminent Persons Nativity is not onely near the same (in respectu Zodiaci) with that Glorious Kings, but 4 herein, is upon the place of the O therein; and 4 therein; is upon the place of the O herein; the D's place is the fame in both Genitures, &c. A Harmony and Concordancie fo excellent and confiderable, that a greater is not to be found (nay, scarcely one so great) between any two Nativities whatsoever.

No Wonder therefore, that there was so great a Concurrencie of Judgements and Affections, yea, and Familiarity between them. This eminent Person wanted not private Enemies that used Means and Endeavours to alienate, or abate of, the Kings Grace and Favours towards him: but in vain they accempted it; for where the Heavens make a Union, it will be too hard: for the Subtilty of the greatest Policitian to dissolve it.

In the year 1627, on the 27 of July, this great Duke (being then aged near thirty five years) embarqued for the Isle of Rhee; the Success of which Undertaking, proved nothing so well as by the Noble Undertaker was: expected: for on the very Day he set sayle, & was in exact Quartile to his Ascendent at Birth, and to the Sun there also: the Moon was then in Square to the places of o, 9, and of the Sun, and in Opposition to 4's place. All which unfortunate Transits, argued the Voyage as unsuccessful as at last it proved.

In the year 1628. upon August the 23. this eminent Native (being then aged thirty fix years, within five days) was basely stabb'd to Death ar Portsmouth in England, by one John Felthom: the D that Day was in of the Ascendent at Birth, and the @ was upon the Radical place of d. And the very day of his Revolution that year, the D was in exact of of 3 and 1.

But besides this Troop of Transits, which in themselves are mischievous enough, there was a dangerous Direction then operating in this great Duke's Nativity, viz. the Ascendent ad Corpus Martis.

HeEminencie, Honor of this illustrious were they not, his Nativity doth super-fufficiently set them forth: for here are no less then five Planets most Royally dignified and the Luminaries are above the Earth in admirable Reception of each other; the Light of the time being in the House or Angle of Dignity; and the Lord of the Ascendent is in his Essential Glory in the Mid-heaven also I. All which were Arguments of this eminent Natives great Atchievements, and of the heighth of Honour and Fame he enjoyed in his Life-time. But now, although his Life for the most part was honourable, yet his End was Cloudy and Tragical; for he died by the Hands of his Enemies in the 42 year of his Age; having at, or near that time, the Afcendent directed to the of the cruel Planet To, in the beginning of a, he being Radically posited in the fourth House. Upon the very day he was being Radically posited in the fourth House. routed by Cromwel in Lancashire, viz. All which malitious Transits, were eminent Arguments of this eminent Natives being worsted by that (ill) undertaken Engagement; and this the rather, he having then the Medium Cali directed ad Oppositum Saturni.

ry bad Revolution he had also for that year.

Toward the latter end of the year 1642. King Charles the first entertained him very honourably, and advanced him to Employment considerable: he had then operating the Mid-heaven to the \(\Delta \) of \(\Psi \).

To conclude: Upon the very day of his being beheaded, viz on March the 9. 1648. the Moon was in Conjunction of h, whose Quartile was Promittor in the Direction at his Death; and the Sun was then upon the very Degree of the eighth House of his Nativity, nearly in Opposition of 1, and the fiery Planet of had but newly passed Retrograde over the Horoscope of

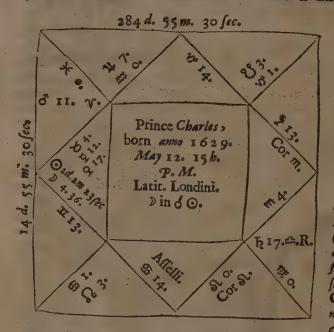

Loss of Honour. Loss of Life.

Under the Effects of the first of these, he raised his Army in Scotland, which proved the Ruine of his Honour; Under the second, he lost his Life: he at both times being contending with, and under the Power of, Oliver Crommel; a Person of so prodigious a Fortune, that the World yeilded not his parallel: for, he was born poor, yet to be great by the Ruines and De-structions of the most excellent Men of the World.

N the Diary of that Reverend Prelate William Laud, late Archbishop of Canterbury, page 14. I finde the time of this Princes Birth; his words are these :---- Wednesday, May 13. this morning about three of the Clock; the Queen was delivered (before her time) of a Son ; he was Christened, and died in short space; his Name CHARLES. The next day , being Afcention-day, paulo ante mediam noctem, I buried him at Westminster. That this Birth should naturally be but of short Life, is apparent, in that it was upon a New Moon: for it is the Opinion of the Learned in this Science, (and Experience vouches it) that those which are born in the Full Moon, die suddenly by the excess and super-abundance of Humidity; but those born in the New Moon, for want of Moisture.

But this must be when the Luminaries are either applying, or separating to, or from each other: for according to Ptolomy, Cent. Aphor. 18. Cum ambo Luminaria in codem minuto fuerint, &c. When both Lights shall be in one and the same minute in a Nativity, the Native shall live, and be healthful, & c. Besides, in this Nativity, the New Moon was celebrated near violent fixed Stars, and the Lord of the Eighth (though a Fortune) in exact of the Horoscope, and the Lord of the Sixth in the Ascendent.

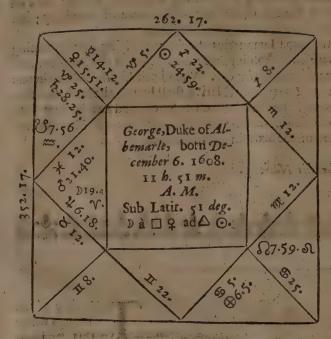

Thus much for this Nativity.

He time of the Day in which this eminent Princess was born i could never obtain; but the Day I found in the Diary of the Archbishop of Camerbury, fol. 21. The Planets places to the Noontime thereof, (fine Reductione) by the Tables of DavidOriganus; are thus :

On December the 8. 1640, this hopeful Lady died at Richmond, being zhen aged near four years. It is very probable she might die upon the Moons Direction ad Quadratum Saturni, h being potent to do mischief. On the day of her Revolution that year, there was a Platique of it and of. and both of them in 1 to the O; the Dallo was near the of h and 2: all denoting a fickly and dangerous Revolution. His is the Nativity of that renowned Person, (the Miracle of his Age) the Duke of Albemarle; as I had it communicated to me by a very good Friend: and I having an Opportunity to transmit it to Posterity, with the Genitures of divers other Worthies, have adventured the Publication thereof; as well for the Honour of the English Nation, (who in this one Example of true Valour, Honour and good Policie, may vie with the whole World) as for the fignal Merits and Deserts of the Noble Duke himself: whose Princely and unparallel'd Adventures, cannot be too seriously or often acknowledged by any English Man.

To prove this the true Radix of this Princely Native, let it be remembred, that in the twentieth year of his Age, (as I am informed) he had the Small Pox: he had then the Ascendent directed ad Quartilum Saturni; and this in v. the greatest Dignities of d.

Being aged 21 years, he was preserred to some Martial Employment in the Low-Countries, and increased in Honour, &c. the Moon was then directed ad Oculum Tauri.

Being aged 31 years, he was created Captain of Horse: he had then to significe the same, in his Nativity, the Ascendent directed to the \triangle of Q; and this in \otimes , her chief Dignity.

Being aged 32 years, he was honoured with the Command of a Colonel; and to fignific that is he had the Medium Cali directed ad * 3; and this in vp his Exaltation is an eminent Argument of that Honours encreasing.

Being aged 35 years, he was (unhappily) taken Prisoner: the Sun was then directed ad Corpus Saturns, and the Moon (nearly) ad Quadrajum Martis: the first Direction fell in the twelfth House; and h, the Promittor therein was Lord of the Twelfth:

But above all, let it be remembred, that in the 52 year of his Age currant, viz. May 1660, he brought in his Glorious Majesty King Charles the second, who had been twelve years kept out of his Kingdoms; and brought the Consusons of the three Nations, England, Scotland and Ireland, into a calm Condition of Peace and Tranquillity: He had then the Moon directed ad * 1. Origanus, fol. 751. saith, Dad * 1, nature dignitatibus & honoribus sublimibus auget, &c. and 1 being Lord of the Tenth in his Nativity, made that Action the more eminent and honourable: besides, to en-crease the same, the \oplus was at that time also directed ad Trinum jours. Now, to signifie the Opposition and Struggling he met with in that honourable Undertaking, he had the Ascendent directed ad Contrantiscium Mercurii; perhaps one Reason why the City of London (in some respects) seem'd not satisfied with his Noble Actions and Undertakings.

That this eminent Native was born for illustrious Undertakings, is plain; he having the \odot in the Tenth in a Noble fiery Signe, and thence in \triangle ad Lunami, in a Signe of the same Triplicity. And to add to this, he hath \mathcal{U} (Dominus Ascendentis) in \triangle of \mathcal{V} and \mathcal{V} in domo undecima. S in the Ascendent in his Triplicity, gave him Courage and Valour; being in \mathcal{K} of \mathcal{V} , that added Reason to his Resolution, and made him not onely Souldier, but Politician. He hath the Moon placed in the very Degree of the Suns Exastation, and perhaps the Ascendent of England in general; which might apt and fit him for great and to-be-admired Deeds in his own Native Kingdom. I shall say no more hereof, but conclude in the words of the Epigrammatist:

Had Plutarch liv'd till now, to blazon forth His Life, (as sure he would) what Prince of worth, Or Greek or Roman, had his single Story Selected out, to parallel his Glory!

Thus much for this honour'd Persons Nativity, and for a Conclusion to the first Part of the Book.

The SECOND PART.

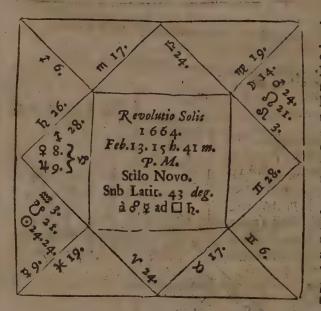

His is the Nativity of the present Pope of Rome; and for a Person of such eminent Power, it is a very suitable Genesis: for here we have m ascending, the greatest Dignities of p, and that part thereof in which he is exalted; as if God and Nature had from his beginning appointed him for the enjoyment of the highest Ecclesiassical and Political Dignity.

Next, we finde $\mathfrak U$ in the Tenth in his Exaltation, in \star unto the Ascendent, and in Δ to $\mathfrak P$, Lord thereof; and $\mathfrak P$ (though in $\mathfrak P$ his Detriment and Fall) is in Reception of the benign Planet $\mathfrak P$ by Triplicity and Exaltation: there is likewise a great Reception between $\mathfrak P$, and a Δ also. The $\mathfrak P$ and $\mathfrak P$ are in Δ , and the $\mathfrak P$ with $\mathfrak P$ enjoys the same Aspect; and that which is as eminent, as what is most considerable, is, that there are no less then five Planet.

In the year 1655, being the 56 year of his Age compleat, he was (after much struggling, and with great difficulty) elected Pope: the Medium Cali was then directed ad Sextilum Luna, that brought the Honour; but then having the Sun directed ad 12 12, that occasioned the high opposition he met

In the year 1662, and 63 year of his Age compleat, the Moon (which is Hylech in his Nativity) will be directed to the Quartile of the Sun; it happening in his grand Climacterical year, may denote it the more dangerous and cruel: howbeit, the Revolution being not very bad. I am of opinion he may (by the affiftance of that) withftand the Danger threatned. But then the year 1664. will (Go p not contradicting Natures Edicts) prove fatal unto him: for then the Sun will be directed to the Opposition of Saturn; and a dangerous Revolution also, as you may discover by the Scheme thereof. an with a with ship

His Nativity
I have taken from Cardan, but he having (among his twelve Genitures)

treated largely thereof. I shall be brief in my Observations on it.

The Geniture is not onely considerable in that it was so great a Person's; but in that the Person born under it, should from a private Life rise to the greatest Dignities and Government of the Church or Priesthood. My Author says, he was well learned in the Greek Tongue, and a Person most Prudent and Discreet, and well versed in the Mathematicks. All which are admirably well discovered by the exact Trine of Mercury and Jupiter from Angles and Aëreal Signes: Nor doth the Quartile of Mars and Mercury other then adde unto his Parts; nay, it makes them the more eminent and excellent, although at some times it might note a perturbed Fancie and Judgement.

It is always observed, that Aëreal and Fiery Signes possessing the Angles of a Nativity, adds to the Fame of the Native according to his Condition, be it what it will. Mercury in the first House, in Trine of Jupiner Lord of the Tenth, and Saturn (Lord of the Ascendent) in Sextile to both, are Arguments of great Honour, Dignity and Renown: the Sun in Conjunction of Venus, in Sextile of Mars and the Moon, the same: all which are to be found in this Nativity. But the kinde of Dignity is known from Jupiter chiefly, and partly Mercury, in that they are here in Trine; and Attrologers tell us, when they have Signification of Dignity, & e. the Native riseth thereunto by Learning, and by Ecclesialical means.

I am apt to believe, that although the Planets places may be nearly true in this Nativity, the Figure it self is not: for were it, at the time of this Natives Expiration, he had the Ascendent directed ad Δ 2, σ 6 μ ; which is an apparent Solecism in Astrologie. I do not deny but that a Person at 81 years of Age, may die without a killing Direction, it being an Ennearical year; but then there must be none to support Life, as those before mentioned are, and (faith my Author) his Dignity and Felicity was not much unlike to his.

To denote his Greatness, here is (1.) a happy Conjunction of the Sun and Jupiner in the Ascendent: (2) The Lord of the Tenth is in Conjunction of the Lord of the Ninth in the Ascendent: (3.) The Lord of the Ascendent strong in the second House, in Trine of the Moon, who is in Conjunction of \oplus in the Sixth.

In the 64 year of his Age, he was created Pope: he had then the Midheaven directed ad Corpus Solis.

Popes true Nativity, (as Argol avers) it feems to me that he attained the Pa-

by Policie, then Desert; and was made the Head of the Church more for Necessity, (perhaps to curb aspiring Factions; as it is subset of the Cobler, who was said to be made Pope) then for any Religion, &c. For although the hath a ascending the Horoscope, and I strong in X, in Conjunction of the Sun; yet his upon the very Cusp of the ninth House, in A is greatest Debilities: a sad Position for either Pope or Priest! They are the very Words of Argol in Ptolomem Parom, Lib. 1. hill dignified in the ninth House, denotes the Native to be an absolute Hypocrite or Dissembler; makes him Heretical, and guilty of great Errours in Matters of Faith and Religion, Anno 1592. and 56 year of his Age, he attained the Papal Chair: he had then the Mid-heaven directed ad * 2.

succeeded in the Popedome Clement the Eighth, whose Geniture we presented you with before. Argolchinks the Comet that appeared in the Knee of the Serpent, anno 1604, was the Prodromns of his great Honour. I have elsewhere proved that Comets (if they have any Signification at all) cannot portend Good, but Mischiefs to Men : See Nocoun Aseinojos, page 44. and cannot therefore be of his Opinion. I acknowledge with Argol; that the Lord of the Tenth with a Kingly fixed Star, may be an Argument of Grandeur and Greatness: soalso is the strength of the Lord of the Ascendent, and his Trine to Mercury; and Jupiter's being in Sextile of Mercury and Luna, in the same Aspect with Mars, together with a Royal fixed Star culminating. All these (I say) are Arguments of acquiring great Dignity and Renown; and these are sufficient, without being beholding to the unknown Effects of Comets or new Stars.

Anno 1621, on the 28th of January, he died: the Ascendent was then directed ad Cuspidem domus quarta, & ad Antiscium Martis; and this without the Assistance of any Direction of the fortunate Planets. He learned David Origanus, fol. 601. Writes, $, $, DO Do conjuncti prasertim in As-cendente, faciunt Oratores doctiffimos. (i.) Q, Q, D and the No polited of a Nativity make most learned and admirable Orators. And this, he faith, (and it is true) is in part to be observed in the Genesis of this excellent Person :.

Cujus judicium gravissimum, & oratio copiosissima, ex scriptis editis eruditissimis, omnibus nota est. He hath & in Conjunction of & in the Horoscope, in an Aëreal Signe, viz. A, and the fortunate Planet 4 beholding them both from the ninth House, and an Aereal Signe, with the most friendly of Aspects: from all which, his most excellent Parts are singularly well disco-

The learned Cardan (who hath this Nativity as well as Origanus) says, the Reason of his undertaking so many Journies, and travelling out of his own Country, is feen from the Luminaries possessing the Dignities of &; and although they are not, yet & is . Cadent from an Angle. In my Opinion there is another Argument for Travel as eminent; and that is , the Lord of the Ninth (not onely in the Ascendent, but) in Conjunction of the Lady thereof, in a moveable Signe. Cardan faith also, that while the M. C. was under the Direction of the Sexuile of Q, he enjoyed times of happiness: this was about the 34 year of his Age 3. though he says the 32. I spare to speak of what he relates while the Sun was in Opposition to 11, because it is mot improbable but that he may be abused by his Printer. The 56 year might very well prove (as it did) a most dangerous year unto him; for he laboured under the Sun and the Moon to the Opposition of to and Quartile of 8. But he lived until near 70 years; viz. until the fourth Ides of July, 1536. as saith Rantzevius, fol. 175, who concludes thus in his Commendations: is twin it and Q, and they are both:

Eloquio clarus qui vicit Erasmus Athenas, and has e co Ani d Mon minor eximio qui Cice cone fuir do noi a ten de chino T edition

* Hartgil nfluence as vell as their Bodies

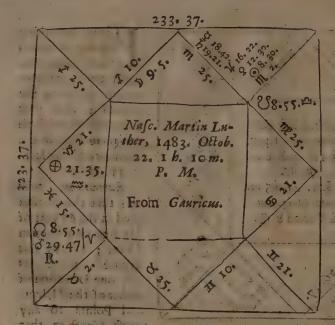

The Ascendent at that time (if my Authors were exact) came to the Heart allows the of the Scorpion by Direction, with Latitude; and (if the learned Hartgil? fixed stars, of the Scorpton by Direction, with Latitude; and (if the learned Hartgil their Rays may be credited) its Direction at the same time to the Opposition of Oculus Aspetts, Tauri, did not meanly add unto the Effects thereof.

Tis no new thing among Artists to take Nativities upon trust, without fifting them to the utmost; and thus I amperswaded hath Origanus done in the Geniture of this learned Native.

Ranzovius tells us, that this Person died in the 63 year of his Age of a Tertian Fever; but by this Figure there is not one Direction of either of the Hylegiacal Points to any cross Aspect at that time.

the time of his Birth, the Ascendent at the time of his Death will be directed ad Corpus Mario; which is proper, not onely to signific the Tertian, (of which he died) but to cut off Life, (non obstante 4 being so near the place of the Direction, and strong also) it happening in so dangerous a Climacterical year. Origanus main Reason for giving my to ascend, is, because this Native was but short of Statute, and of Temperature Dry, &c. and saith fol. 577. That a Signe of Brevity ascending, and the Lord thereof disposed of by h. might very melt denote the same: but allowing the Statute and Temperature of this learned Native to be as Origanus saith. I should judge that the latter part of mascending, and & Lady thereof in & h in &, the House of &, and the Luminaries in such Signes as they are may much better signific them then those Arguments before mentioned. Q in & of h, in & of & and h, and the Moons being in m; and & in the Dignities of h, very plainly denote the excelling Parts of this worthy Person, his great Acquirements in Divinity, his Learning, and Love of Arts. Let it be remembered, that this learned Person (although a Divine) as he was a Friend to all Literature and all commendable Arts: so to Astrologie in particular; as appears by his turning the two last Books of Ptolomy out of Greek into Latine; and in divers Epistles, especially in that to Gryness, wherein he hath not onely commended, but most strenuously defended the same.

Have feen o-. Nativither that are reported to Martin Luther's, viz. one done by Paulus Eberus, his Contemporary and Friend; and another by a third petion: and all the Reason they give why this should not be the true one, is, that they believe him to have been born, not on Octob. 22. but on Nov. 11. which is a Festival held in honour of St. Martin; and thence (fay they) he had his Name given him: which if true, I conceive their Plea to be the better. But why Gauricus should not meet with those Nativities, as this, I understand not; and if he did, without controversie he saw good Reason to reject them, for this I know Gassendar spits his Venome at Astrologers to purpose for the same Reason; yet I know not but Gassendars may very well be deceived for neither he, not others give any good Authority, or any at all, (but their Presumption) for his being born on St. Martin's day. And if probable Reasons in Astrologic may take place, this Figure best suits with Martin Luber his Temper and Actions: for hand 2 are in Conjunction in m, an eminent Argument of the Activity of his Fancie, and of his great Parts and Learning; and sive Planets in the Ninth, noted his Eminency in Religion, and (they being in Sextile to the Astendard) his great Abilities to perform what he did therein. I meddle not with the Addle-headed stories of great Conjunctions; it being impossible for the short-lived Experience of Man to affix a Judgement on such things that happen so rarely, as great Conjunctions.

His Reverend Prelate was born at the time within written, and under a Posnion of Heaven suitable to his Birth, pious Inclinations, good Actions, and his great and to-be-admired Acquirements in Honour and Learning, & c. For here is (which of Aftrologers is termed Signum justice) ascending, and & the true Patron of Arts and Learning, is in Conjunction of Spica Virginis in the Horoscope; and & is in the ninch House with Oculus Tauri, (another eminent fixed Star) in perfect Trine thereunto: the Moon and & are in friendly Trine with the Cusp of the Angle of Honour and Dignity, and enjoy the same banism Configuration with each other, and that from good places of the Figure and (to make the Nativity the better to correspond with the Dignity of this learned and pious Native) there are several Stars of the nature of A and Sculminating. It is an Aphorism in Astrologie, that—

Stelle since dam donagrandia, & ex panpertate sublevant ad sublimitatem eam quair non family septem Planeta. The fixed Stars do raise Men even from a low Degree land give greater Honours, then do the seven Planets. And this was exactly verified in the Original and Progress of this honoured Nativel in 1900.

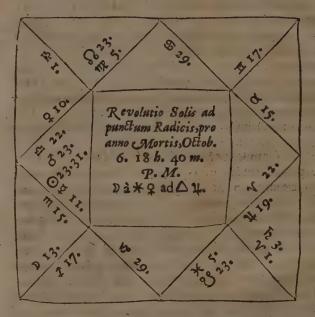

Another Argument of the Grandeur of this worthy Native's is, Cardinal Signes possessing the prime. Angles of the Figure: For as the greatest Actions of the World depend upon the Cardinal Points of the Heavens, viz. 19 50 me World depend upon the Cardinal Points of the Heavens, viz. 19 50 me World depend upon the Cardinal Points of the Heavens, viz. 19 50 me World depend upon the Cardinal Points of the Heavens, viz. 19 50 me World of the Marine Forms (I mean now, where there is in the rise of a Man any Wonder, or that it seems prodigious to the general or common way of Advancement) have those Points upon the Angles of their Nativities. Thus it was in the Nativity of Marcus Tulius Cicero; whose Parentage (if Authority may be credited) was scarce known, yet was he at last elevated to such a Degree of Honour, that he was called, The Father of this County, in Thus it happened in the Nativity of Charles Gustave, lare King of Swedens who (though not born to a Kingdom) had one given him by Queen Christian, and afterwards did such Acts, that History cannot often parallel. So it chanced in Oliver Crommel's Nativity also, who by Birth was but a Gentleman of mean Fortune, yet by the prodigiousness of his Fate, he attained (I will not say here by what means) to the greatest Dignity that could be, in, and over three flourishing Kingdoms.

If we shall enquire Astrologically into the Reason of this eminent Na-A a tives Missortunes, viz. his tedious Imprisonment, and violent Death; we shall finde (by observing the Figure) that the Lord of the Twelsth is in the Ascendent: and Argol and Ogier Ferriersay, If the Lord of the Twelsth be posited in the First, it argues (not onely Imprisonment, but) many eminent Enemies to the Native; also many Labours, Griefs and Troubles, attended with grievous Treacheries and Deceipts, &c. besides, the siery Planet Marsis upon the Cusp of the Twelsth, in Opposition to the Moon, and in Quartile to her Dispositor. That he should die a violent Death, is obvious, because 3, Author Mortis, is in a humane Signe, in Opposition to the Moon; and the Lady of the Horoscope is in Signo violenti, going to a Conjunction of an Infortune, and he Lord of the Fourth.

I shall not in this place give you many Demonstrations of the Truth of the Correction of this eminent Natives Geniture, because I intend a particular Treatise thereof at large; onely take notice, that the Medium Cali ad Corpus Martis, was the cause of his Imprisonment, though not the instrumental cause, for that was the over-heated Conceptions of the Vulgar, being urged on by some in Power, as mad as they, to so causes an Animosity. And sour years after, the Ascendent came to the Body of houm Latitudine; at which time he was most barbarously murthered.

N the Diary of this learned Perfons Life, (written by his own Hand) I finde the time of his Birth as it is within written; and do conceive it to be somewhat near the Truth, because about the time of his being imprison'd in the Tower of London, (by reason of that popular Fury that then prevailed against that sacred Function, of which he was an eminent Member) he had the Medium Calidirected ad Canda Draconis: he was then aged 67 years, and upward. And for to signific his Death, which was in the 82, year of his Age, fere; he laboured under the force of the Sun to the Quartile of the Moon. Other Accidents in general I finde scattered among the Passages of his Life; but the times of them being not therein set down, nor I in any probable way to obtain them otherwise, renders me the more incapable of confirming it by surther Astrological Observations.

For to fignifie this Reverend Divine should be subject to Imprisonments, there need no other Testimony then the Lord of the Ascendent in the Twelsth, it being the same Position that that illustrious Prince Christiernus King of Denmark had in his Nativity; and how he suffered by Imprisonment, I have in his Genituse mentioned.

This learned Divine saith, that at the beginning of the Parliament, he was sent for, by the Kings Writ; to sit therein; but how he took the Tower in his way, he knoweth not. For his Commitment, and the other eleven learned Bishops with him, I never yet heard any just Reason rendred; nor indeed any at all, except such that was niged for our Blessed Saviour's Suffering, viz. to satisfie the raging and incensed Multitude. Yet had this learned Bishop been acquainted with Astrologie, and thereby considered his own Nativity, he might have found an eminent Signification of danger of Imprisonment at that time impending over him: viz. an Eclipse of the Sun in the place of 3 in his Geniture, but a little before; and 3 (at the same time he was Committed) was upon the Radical place of his Moon.

These several eminent Accidents so exactly corresponding with the Directions they are compared withal, evince the Hours and Minutes within written, to be the true time of this great Church-mans Birth. We shall in the next place consider how it agrees with him in things of more general Concernment.

He was a Person of great acquired Parts, a sharp Student; and gained much Honour and Esteem thereby: yea, so much, that the Author of his Life compareth him with St. Remigius; of whom it was said, with the primum disciplinarum capax fastimes — Non modo nasu majores, ingenis felicitate, discendiq ardore, sed of morum maturitate singulari excelluit. That from the time of his sirst Capacity of Learning, he out-stripped even those that were his Superiours in Age, both in Excellency of Parts, Prosiciency in Learning, and Maturity of Moral Vertues.

In his Nativity to denote the same, we finde the Moon in Trine of 2 and 2; and although 2 be in Pifces, he is befriended by both the Fortunes, and in no ill Configuration with any one Planet: therefore is his single Debility of being in X, most super-sufficiently supplyed; and accidentally his Position is very good.

The Pleiades Culminating, and the Sun in his Exaltation, in Trine of h, a superiour Planer, and 2 Lady of the Tenth in her Exaltation also, are eminent Arguments of the Honour and great Preferments which this worthy

Person enjoyed

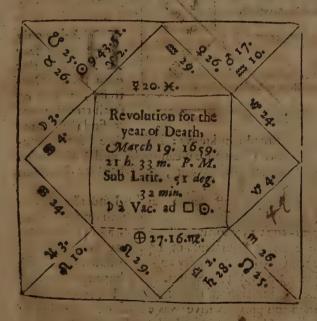

The Dragons Tayl in the Tenth, occasioned those unworthy Scandals cast upon him by divers, of which the History of his Life maketh mention; and was perhaps, by being in I, the Dignities of I, a main Reason of the several Contests in print, wherein he was in his Life-time engaged: yet nevertheles, by reason of the forementioned Arguments, the Engagements he underwent, and the Prejudices of his Adversaries towards him, turned still to his Honour and Advantage.

One Passage in his Lise, I shall take the Opportunity to relate, it being of so eminent Concernment to all; and therefore cannot be too often printed, nor by too many read: and it is indeed a Demonstration of his great Parts, and of the Profundity of his Judgement; and shews him to have been a Perfon so curiously scrutinous, that he would pierce the very inside of what he once undertook. The Story is thus: The Son of one Edward Perry near Woolver-Hampton in Staffordshire, (commonly known by the Title of The Boy of Bisson) being uncapable of Learning, and therefore negligent of going to School, (yet apt enough it seems for Villany, which made Dr. Bermick, when he came to mention him and his Practices, to term him, Little less then a Devil) was wrought upon by some, to counterfeit himself posessesses then a Devil; and was promised a good Reward, no doubt, for his Labour of Which Importure, this Boy (it seems) had practised so long, that he began to conceive himself to be possessed; and accordingly caccused an old Woman for bewitching him: which Counterfeit this Knave · managed to subtilly, that the Woman at the Affizes was condemned for to This learned Bishop hearing thereof (it being in his Diocess, he being then Hishop of Lichfield and Coventry) and perswaded in his own Thoughts that the Boy did but counterfeit, (though so strangely, as made it almost bee yourd discovery) and again, that if it should not be discovered, the poor · Woman must loose her Life; he requests of the Judges that then went the «Circuit, that he might have the Boy home with him to his own House; affuring them, that he would ute his best Endeavours to finde out the Impo-· Aure before the next Assizes: which he did, but not without great Difficulty, & e. as may be seen in a Book of that matter set forth by Mr. Richard Baddely, this Reverend Bishops Secretary. The Boy would counterfeit · so exactly, that every Man (learned, or not so) would believe that the whole frame of Nature was out of order with him: his Urine, that was always black, yet proved the bett Discoverer of the Cheat at last; for there being a hole made through the Wall that belonged to the Chamber where chis Boy lodged, he was found thereby to colour his Urine with Ink, or other such-like stuff: in which he being first discovered, the remainder of other his Impostures, himself confessed. And this learned Prelate, upon his Contrition for it; bound him an Apprentice to a Shoe-maker in Bristol; from whence he went to London, and is still living (as Doctor B. thinks) s in the Parish of St. Marting in the Fields.

Thus we see how easie a matter it is for Innocents to be robb'd of their Lives; and also how dangerous it is for Judges to permit the Malice and Wickedness of an Evidence, to heighten the Ignorance of a Jury, or indeed their own Negligence or Credulity.

I Do not infert this Revolutional Scheme, as iffic contained any Significations of Death therein; but to shew, that when there are dangerous Directions operating, a good Revolution cannot totally enervate their Effects; especially at ninety five years of Age.

Let but any Astrologer consult Authors about the Significations of these excellent Positions, and he shall finde that this searned and pious Native was eminently deserving of the honourable Epithets several learned Men, both Papists and Protestants, have fixed on him; as you may read in the History of his Life at large, which

Mr. Selden terms him, Most Reverend, and a Man of great Piety, singular Judgement, learned to a Miracle, and born to promote the more severe Studies, &c. In this Nativity there are fix of the feven Planets supra terram, and 2, Lord of the Ascendent, in the very Heart of Heaven to the Degree thereof, and in d with 3, and the Sun upon the Cusp of the ninth House; which Astrologically portended the spreading of his deserved Fame; and made him not onely noted, but honoured and beloved for his exquisite Pains and Parts. This in general. I shall in the next place compare some Directions in his Nativity, with some of the particular Accidents of his Life; from which it will follow.

that this Nativity is this Reverend Bishops true one.

1. Anna 1600. being then aged twenty years, he commenced Master of Arts, (a thing not commonly known in any University; and indeed, a great Demonstration of this pious Persons Pregnancie in his yonger years) he had then operating the ① to the * of Q, and to the Mid-heaven also, which aptly portended the same.

2. Anno 1612. being aged 32 years, he proceeded Dr. of Divinity: he had then operating the Medium Cali ad Sextilum Lune, by Direction.

3. Anno 1624. in the 44 year of his Age, he was created Archbishop of Armagh, and Primate of Ireland; but was not possessed thereof, until two years afterwards; at which time he had the @ directed ad Sextilum Fouis: which Direction fell upon the Cusp of the eleventh House, in the Dignities of \(\mathcal{U}\); ergo, very fignificant to that purpose.

A little after he was elected Archbishop, &c. he had a Sickness that continued with him nine moneths together: which was said to be a Quartan, but I believe not truely; became the Ascendent then was directed ad & O, and O ad O d, which Directions sell in 5 and X: I rather adjudge it a Consumption. Anno 1640, he being then fixty years of Age, viz. at the beginning of the Miseries in Ireland, he came to England; he had then the Medium Cooli directed and Quadratum Luna, and D and Antiscium & Sextilum Martis.

Preach among them (they having a great Honour for him) and allowhim a confiderable Maintenance, it then being the time of the Bishops Persecution in general: he had then the Moon directed ad * 2 and the Ascendent ad Trinum Veneris

6. Anne 1655. on March 21. this learned and pions Church-man (after he had been 75 years a Pilgrime on Earth, and 55 years thereof a Preacher of the Gospel, and a strenuous Defender of the Truth thereof other ways) died at Rygate, in the County of Surry in He had then operating the Ascendent to the Opposition of Saturn, and he Lord of the Eighth in the Nativity, and the Part of Fortune (which Ptolomy calls the Lunar Horoscope) directed ad Oppositum Mercarii, quiest Dominus Ascendentis.

From all which Arguments, I conclude this to be the true Nativity of this eminently learned Prelate.

of his Birth, and several eminent Accidents, by which I have endeavoured to finde out the true Ascendent thereof: yet shall not be so consident or overweening, as to affirm it to a tittle true; I may perhaps (in tanto) fail of the verity hereof. However, I shall adventure to publish some Reasons in Arts that I have been at (no small) pains to excogirate, which teem to me to evince it probably (at least) to be his true Nativity.

1. The learned Author of his Life faith, That in his younger years he was so pregnant in Learning, that at 13 years of Agehe was admitted into Maydalen Colledge in the University of Oxford: That he should be of Paris to admirable in his Youth, need not aftenish anything shall Astrologically view this Figure: for 2 . the Patron of Learning ; is simply the most powerful therein; and the O. Lord of the Ascendent, is in Conjunction with him: and that which so notably sharpned his Understanding, and gave Wings to his Ingenuisy, and made him honour detherebys was & in his Ascendent and he Lord of the tenth House. And that he should at such years fas the Author of his Life affirms) be so serious a Student, char he generally spent thirteen hours of the Day at his Book, may be denoted by the Lord of the Afcendents being in Conjunction with &, in his greatest Dignities, and this in a melancholy and earthly Signe : the great Reception between want of nor inconsiderably add unto the same. But as these are Radical Positions, so they are generally to be observed, as well at one time of the Natives Life, as at another. But to fignifie that particular Accident, I finde by Calculation that the M. C. about the 13 year of his Age, came (by Direction) to the D of

2. Aged 24 years, he entred into Holy Orders; and anthat time he had the Medium Cali directed ad Trinum Jovis, and Luna ad Sextilum Jovis: which Directions are properly natural to cause the Honour they produced.

3. Being aged 34 years, he commenced Doctor of Divinity: the Ascendent was then directed ad & Solis, & & Q, cum Latitudine.

4. Aged 39. made Canon of Christ-Church in Oxford by the King, and chose publick Orator by the University: he had then a most advantagious Revolution, and Jupiter transiting his Medium Cali most of the vear.

5. He was made Chaplain to the King at 42 years of Age, and more then ordinarily in favour with his then facred Majetty; as may appear by the Kings Message to the Parliament, in 'Euro', Barrana', wherein his Majesty is pleased to request his Attendance on his Person in the time of his greatest (and most to-be-lamented) Sufferings: He had then the Medium Cali directed to Aldebaran, a Kingly fixed Star of the first Magnitude, and to the Quartile of the Sun also; which in other things wanted not its Significations.

6. Aged 55. on April 24. 1660. he died; having (like Moses of the promised Land) but a Glimpse of his Majesties access to the Throne of his Ancestors, (for whose Cause he had been so great a Sufferer) but was not permitted to see him settled there: he had then the Ascendent directed ad Quadratum Saturni.

These concurrent Directions, to me, prove this to be the true Nativity of this learned Person. Take however one or two more Testimonies in general, which very much seem to strengthen the truth of these several Particulars.

He was (saith the learned Author of his Life) of a just heighth for Stature, and all proportionate Dimensions; avoiding the Extreams of Gross and Meagre. And in fol. 85. of his Life, 'tis said, — His Face carried Dignity and Attractions in it; scarce ever clouded with a From, or so much as darkned by Reservedness. Which Characters of Description, Mars in Leo in the Ascendent, may justly challenge, as all Astrologers consent.

In Page 59 of his Life, we read,—— His Memory was serviceable, but not officious; faithful to Things and Business, but unwillingly retaining the Punctualities of Words: which Defett be frequently lamented, it being harder for him to get one Sermon by Heart, then to Pen twenty.

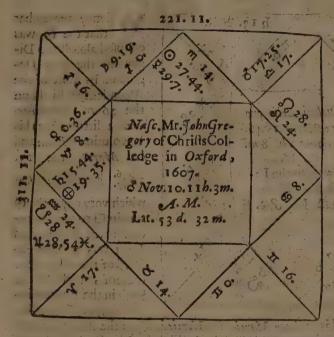

This may justly (in Astrologie) be attributed to the Combustion of g; for although he be the most potent Planet in the Figure, yet his Combustion must necessarily have its Effects.

Persons Geniture, we finde to the Lord thereof, very potent, denoting him most apt and propents to Study. The Trine of the Sun and & to 14, from the tenth House, gave him the great Honour he enjoyed by Learning, and his skill in Languages and Antiquity. He was indeed a general Scholar; no Science, either Liberal or Mechanick, but he was acquainted therewith.

He was born at Amersham in Bucking ham-thire; of Parentage (in the Eye of the World) but mean; yet he being ordained from his Nativity for great Acquirements in Learning, &c. was about the 1-th year of his Age, preferred to Sir William Drake, to wait upon him at Ch its Colledge in Oxford: he had then operating Medium Cali ad & D. & D., & S. which singular Directions, were the mediate Causes (next under G o D's Providence, of his saying a Foundation to his suture Honour and Preferments which he sailed not to enjoy and partake of, until the Iniquity of the Times prevailed so highly among us, that Learning began to be neglected.

When he was 26 years old, he published his Notes on Ridley's Civil Laws and a little before, was made Chaplain of Christs-Church, Rebendary of Chichester and Sarum: Ascendent was then directed ad & D, and Medium Cali ad & D, cum & sine Latitudine.

WE may remember that the O was eclipsed almost 10 Digits fin the very Degree of h. Lord of the Ascendent at Birth, on the 26 of December, viz. a little after this Revolution began; and on March the 13. 1642. he died : On which very day, the O was in to the Ascendent of the Radix; and Luna was in 8 of h, Lord of the Ascendent thereof, and of the Sixth in the Revolutional Figure. In the Revolution it self, the D is in domo Martis & Mortis, in to the Ascendent and its Lord, at Birth: an intercepted Signe in the Eighth of the Radix, ascends in the Revolution, and h is in & to & Lord thereof. Thus all things concurring together, might well denote the year dangerous: but besides all these, the O was directed to the eighth House in the Revolution, just about the time he died; and about three weeks or a moreth before, it is most probable he first sickned to death, because about that time, the Ascendent of the Revolution was directed to the of of, and & of h.

Thus much for the Nativity of this worthy Person; whose loss, not onely Amersham, but England, may lament! but yet rejoyce in this, that they were truely blessed, in bringing forth so great a Son of Learning.

Lthough this learned Perfon (for fuch beyond all peradventure he was) was in his Life-time a great great Enemy to Altrologie, I shall not refule to give his Nativity a place in my Book, because it doth not meanly evince the Power and Influences of the Stars, in as much as it truely describes his Person, Temper and Dispositions The Man, I mult confess, I never law; but relying on the Credit of the Muthor of his Life; I believe him to have been a Person of Middle Stature; Thin Body, Lively Countenance, and Fresh Complexion, &c. to fignific which Altrologically, we finde ve, a Signe of Brevity and Spareness, to asto the Ascendent. The Author of his Life reports him to have been Grey berimes; for fignification of which, we finde in his Nativity h. Lord of the Ascendent, posited in 2, a fiery Signe, (quite contrary to his own nature) near Cor Scorpii, a violent fixed Star. Now, a Planet Cold and Dry, being posited in a Signe Hot and Dry. may very well abate of its own nature; and receive an Impression of the Nature of the Signe; as we see it apparent in Vegetables, the hortest Ground ripens any thing the soonest. This Native mult for the same Reason have been also very Cholerick, although the Author of his Life hath mentioned no such Character of him, and by that Humours wasting of the Humidum Radicale, it is no wonder that he should feem Antient in his Youth. And to affure all Men (that shall Read this) that this is no Fiction, or faigned Story, cunningly compelled to agree with the Significations of his Geniture, viz. that he was Cholerick, I can demonthrate the same from his own Writings: for he contended with divers eminent Persons under Pretence of Zeal to the Truth, that never were known to begin with him; as Mr. Saltmarsh, Mr. Sympson, Mr. Walker, Mr. Canne, as the Author of his Life maketh to appear : fo that one may justly say of hims as a learned and ingenious Person once of Gassendus the French Physician, He made that to seem the Severity of his Devotion, which in Truth was the Moroseness of his Nature.

To prove this his true Nativity further, let it be considered, that he was most fortunate in Wives, as U in S in the seventh House, might well denote, together with 2 her \(\Delta \) to \(\Delta \) from the seventh House. Nor could he be but very Uxorious, as U's disposing of \(\Delta \), aptly argues.

Aged 27. he went to Preach at Lincolns-Inne, where he continued ten years together: the Ascendent was then directed to the * of o, the D to the D of the Sun, and the Sun to the * of Q.

Aged 37. he left Lincolns-Inne, and went to Redriff, where he continued 43 years: he had then the Ascendent directed to the \triangle of \mathcal{U} , and to the \mathscr{K} of \mathcal{D} .

Aged 69 years, he was chosen one of the Presbyterian Assembly: Medium Cali ad \(\Delta \) Solis. The colors of the Presbyterian Assembly:

Aged 80 years, he died: Ascendent ad & h, and to the Bulls Eye.

He Ascendent of the Revolution is the opposite place of the Sun in the Racix, and the Lord of the Eighth is in Quara tile to the Ascendent: h, Lord of the Ascendent at Birth, is here polited in the afixth House; and the Sun with & is there also: the Moon is in Oppofition of Brane Quartile of Os and of beholds the Sun with a Quartile alfo, an All w ich are Arguments very dangerous in luch a Revolution, wherein so dire a Direction happens, as before hathbeen remembred. But besides this, to make the year the more cruel and satal, we finde that the Moon was eclipsed 19 Digits in the place of the Sun, a sew moneths before the Revolution began, and operated in sull force near the time of his Death. Nor is it improbable, but that the Suns Eclipse in August 1654, happening on the eighth House of the Radix, and upon the place of h in the Revolution might considerably add unto the foregoing dismal Presages. Thus is a Judice in the Decrees of God and Nature most eminently observable, viz. To cut him off (partly) by the Influences of Eclipses, that in his Life-time so surface outly endeavoured the Obscuration of their most apparent Effects. See his Discourse against Lilly. Let not any mistake me; I do onely affert the verify of Influences in Desects of the Luminaries, but cannot defend Lilly in any point, because he deserves notoriously to be condended, in that he presented dunto the Science of the Stars, and was not able to answer Mr. Gataler's Sophisms against the same.

On July the 8.1654. he was first taken with a fainting Fit: the Moon was then in the opposite place of the Ascendent, going to an & of u, Lord thereof, who was newly become Retrograde.

On July 17. his Tertian grew too strong for Nature: & was then in & of the O, and both near the fixth House of the Revolution, and the D was in the Ascendent of the Radix.

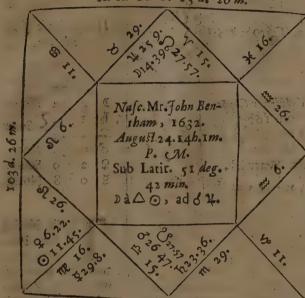

On July 22. he began to be at a little case, and to talk and discourse freely: the D was then in d of U, Lord of the Ascendent of the Revolution.

 $f_{n}/y = 6$. in the Morning he was in great pain: the D was in \square of \mathcal{S} and the \bigcirc .

July 27. about seven of the Clock at Night, he departed this Life: the Moon was then exactly in Quartile of h, Lord of the Ascendent of the Radix.

The o in m in the Eighth of the Nativity, in of o, may very well portend a Tertian Fever to cut off Life; also a violent watting of the Vital Spirits before Death: both which were true in this Nativity.

A Bout the

of this Natives Age, he was admitted into Orders, and at the fame years was married e he had the Medium Coli directed ad Trinum Veneris.

Aged 25 years and two moneths, he died of a surfeit: he had then the Afcendent directed ad Quadratum Saturni, near Cor Leonis, a violent fixed Star.

He was a Person of Parts most pregnant; a great Scholar, (let his years be considered) as the Sextile Rays of Mercury to Saturn, admirably well denote. His Inclination was apt to any thing of Study: for he had the Suns Moon and Mercury all posited in earthly Signes. He was of a large Spirit, and was aiming at Honour sufficiently; as most do that have Leo ascending but to add to that, here were the Luminaries in Trine to each other; and one in Conjunction of, and the other in Trine to, Venus; which in some sense did not want their Significations.

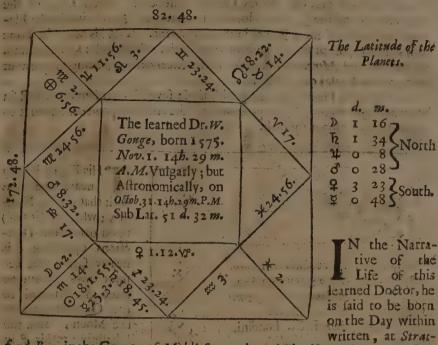

For his kinde of Death, viz, by a Surfeit; let it be confidered, that Saturn, Lord of the Sixth and Eighth, was in Scorpio, on the Cusp of the Fifth, and the Moon going to his Opposition.

Thus much for this Nativity.

gions; it being observable, that (while he was at the University, and afterwards) few of his years were able to equal him. His Acumen, and admirable Memory, are plainly discovered from the great strength of Verm, and her being in so happy Aspect with Mercury, Lord of the ninth House, who is in Trine to the Ascendent. I know the Opposition of Mars and Jupiter, and their Quartile to Mercury, are of no good Signification in Matters of Religionsbut rather encline the Native to Enthusiasmas all Astrologers will judge that shall see it; yet they do not abate of his great Parts, but rather occasion him rashly to employ them. And thus hath it fared with this learned Person: for in the 31 year of his Age, (he having the M. C. directed ad Quadratum Saturni) he unhappily wrote a Book, entituled, The Fiery Flying-Rowle; for which the then Powers (thinking Religion not so much honoured (therein) as it ought to be by a Divine, committed him to Newgate, where he lay a year and half. Origanus says, h. 3. 3, in 9 aut 3 in signis mobilibus, Jove peregrino, aut in detrimento, atq; in cadente, a malessicis damnato, significat natum non mansurum in una Religione. Here & is in the Ninth, in a moveable Signe, and Impiter cadent, and afflicted of Mars, and from moveable Signes; ergo the Aphorism in the greatest part is herein made good. Argol and Ferrier say, If Mercury be ill dignified in the ninth House, the Native will be noted for Errours in Religion: Mercury (you see) is so in this Figure; and the then Powers (though perhaps as guilty themselves) were pleased to call his Writings Errours.

Many other things might be noted in this Figure; but I, intending not a Calculation, and thence Observations at large, forbear all further scrutiny herein.

ford-Bow, in the County of Middlefex; viz. within three Miles of London: but the time of the Day is not mentioned. Howbeit, I have been at the pains to discover the true time thereof; as by the following Correction may appear.

He being aged 20 years, he was sent to Cambridge; viz. Anno 1595. he had the Sun then directed to the Scorpions Heart.

When he was aged 28 years, he married an Orphan in the City of London; formerly the Daughter of an eminent Citizen and Mercer of London; he had then the Sun directed ad Trinum Jovis, Lord of the seventh House; and at the same time \bigoplus ad Sextilum Mercurii, Lord of the Ascendent; the Direction happening on the very Cusp thereof.

Anno 1608. being aged 33 years; he became Rector of Black-fryers; London; where he continued above 45 years, viz. to his Death: he had then by Direction the Moon to the Conjunction of Mercury, Lord of his Ascendent and Tenth, and the Ascendent ad Spicam Virginis, & Sextilum Saturn; which Directions fell in the second House.

Anno 1628, when he was aged 53 years, he commenced Doctor of Divinity: he had then the Moon directed to the Trine of Jupiter, and the Sun to the Body of Venue, cum Lavinding.

Anno 1653. December 12, at eight of the Clock in the Evening, being aged a little above 78 years, he died: the Sun was then directed ad $\square \delta$, and the Ascendent under the Direction to the Body of the Sun, and Canda Dracenia.

The Author of his Life saith, he was Ahstmatical, and sometimes troubled with the Stone: Here is the Sun in Quartile of Jupiter, Lord of the Sixth, and Saturn in Quartile to the Ascendent, aprly denoting the first; and the Sun in Conjunction with the Dragons Tayl in Scorpio, and the Moon and Mercury (who is Dominus Ascendentic) in the same Signe, are very significant Arguments of the last.

That this learned Native should be so eminent a Divine, and so much honoured for his Learning and Parts, is apparent from these several remarkable Configurations: viz. the Moon her being in Sextile of Q, Lady of the ninth House, and the posited locally therein. 2. 4 his being in the Eleventh, in Sextile of d, a Planet in the Ascendent. 3. 4 his being in Trine of E, the Dispositor of the Lady of the Ninth, of whom he also disposeth.

4. The Sun and Mercury in Sextile to the Ascendent; 4 being Governour of the prime Angles of the Figure.

Thus then the Figure agreeing with those several Accidents, as well in Particular as General, I dare pronounce it the true one, and commend it to the honest Astrologer for such.

His Figure is very nearly the same with that of the Nativity; which (of it felf) rupon dangerous Directions operating is nearly fatal: but besides this, herein we finde o returned to the Quartile-place of the Moon, and the D hattning to his & in Cardinal Signes; & is also in platique of y, the one being Lord of the Ascendent, the otherLord of the Eighth in both Figures: the Is posited on the Ascendent, and g is returned to its Radical place, there applying to a of the o in the Combust way. All which are most eminent Arguments of a dangerous time, (in respective vita) as to this learned Native it proved.

And if we shall follow the Doctrine of the learned Johannes Baptifta Mori-

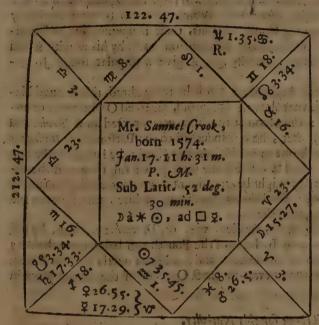

Figura Cali, ad tempus Mortis, anno 1653.

mus, and direct the Significators in a Revolution, we shall find that about the time he departed this Life, the D was directed to the Body of h, and this in N; which denotes the Direction always to prove Mortal, it governing the most Vital Parts in the Body of Man. And this is further demonstrated by the Figure of the time of this worthy Divines Expiration; the Revolutional nal Degree of Saturn (nearly) ascending therein, therein, and 4, Lord of the Sixth in his Nativity, (but Eighth in the Revolution) in Opposition thereunto.

Thus we see a Harmony in Astrologie; and so certain a Dependencie of one Figure of Heaven upon another, that the ingeniously Learned may discourver, and read the Power and Wisdome of Almighty God, in his Creatures the Stars, and thereby be raught to magnific the same.

Re Samuel Crook was not no on the Day within written are Great Walding field, in the County of Suffolk:

but the time thereof, I have endeavoured to finde out Astrologically: it being either the Moroteness, Ignorance or Negligence of those that write the Lives of famous Men, not onely not to set down the time of the Day of their Births, but sometimes not the Day it self; and content themselves with a bare knowledge of the Year: which Errour (in this, as other things of moment) hath not onely caused Consusion in Chronologie, but in Astronomy also; and is like yet to occasion much more, if the Pains of some serious and industrious Pen and Brain do not endeavour a Rectification there-

This learned Native in his time was so famous in his Profession, that the Publisher of his Life terms him A Prophet, and The Son of a Prophet, (his Father having it seems been a Preacher of the Gospel) and the University of Cambridge, in honour of his great Parts and Accomplishments, in their Library have done him a particular Honour, (as he in his Life-time had done them) of which the History of his Life maketh mention.

Upon the first light of this Nativity, many Artists would wonder where there should be that therein, sufficient to signific, not onely such Honour and Fame, but the Natives Deserts and Merits thereof. Howbeit, upon a serious View, we shall finde many Arguments of weight that fitly portended the same, viz. 2. Lady of the Horoscope, her being in Conjunction of 2. Lord of the ninth House; (a most singular Position for a Divine.) 2. 4 his being posited in 25 his Exaltation, in the House signifying Religion; partly in Dispositor of the Moon, and Q, Lady of the Ascendent, in the same Aspect of him. 4. The Luminaries in Sextile of each other, the one being Lord of the Mid-heaven, and the other partly Governess of the Ninth. 5. The Moon in Trine of h, who disposes of Q, Q and the Sun) and he in friendly Sextile to the Ascendent. All which, are not onely Testimonies of great Honour and Fame in the Profession he was bred up unto, but of eminent Ingenuity and Learning.

The Author of his Funeral-Oration hath this Passage, relating to his great Parts. Two things (tarely met in one Man) were equivent in him; A quick Invention, and a sound sudgement; and these accompanied with a clear Expression, and a graceful Elocution. Which seems to be most admirably denoted by all the foregoing Configurations, their happening in the Dignities of h, 4 and 6, 6 sharpens the Invention; and by his * with 2 and 2, adds to the Elocution: and h and 4 give a singular sound Judge-

To come to particular Accidents: Let it be remembred, this learned Native, when he was somewhat above 26 years old, received Ordination, or entred into holy Orders: the Moon at that time was directed ad * Jovis; and within a year (or less) after, he was inducted to the Parsonage of Wrington in Samerser-shies, by the means of Sir Archur Capel: he had then the Sun directed ad $\Delta$ Jovig. And $\Omega$, being the most powerful Planet in the Figure, (I mean effentially) might be an eminent Argument of his continuing in that Benefice fo long: for I do not read in all his Life, that he ever had any other, but still remained there.

When he was aged 75 years, he died, viz. on Decemb. 25. 1649. he had the Ascendent directed ad & h. Lord of the Fourth; & being upon the very Radical place of the Sun at that time, and the Moon newly separated from his Conjunction, and the Sun was in exact Quartile of the Moons place in his Nativity also.

Thus much shall serve for this Nativity.

THe Accidents by which this Nativity was verified a are those following s i. Aged 13 years a dangerous Fall from a Horse; it happened about Mid-Jummer: 648. And it was accasioned by the Ascendents occurse to the Opposition of ham, an secassisme, near the Stars of Auriga, of the nature of 3, and partly 2. 2 posses by the place of the Direction at the same time, and abated much of its evil influence.

Aged near 17 years, the Small Pox; in happened in the moneth of May 1652. the Sun was then directed ad & D, and \bigoplus ad & J. In July following, went to the University: then the M.C. came to the Body of the Moon with Littrade, the being strong in the Tenth of the Nativity: the Moon then came to the Terms of \Im , and Trine of \Im ; the \bigcirc was under the Trine of \Im . Lord of the Tenth.

In the moneth December 1627, elected Fellow, aged then about 24 years: the M.C. to the Terms of Q, and going to the Q: the Q ad Ter. Q. Alc. to the Body of Q, and going to the Terms of U: the D and O to the Terms of J. might occasion tome difficulty about it. And this be confedled was true.

Aged 23 years, in the moneth April 1658, a Terrian Ague of thora con-

From the Nativity thus corrected, the Questions propounded by the Native, received from me these sollowing Answers.

1. When like to come to any Preferment ? If durable?

Resp. The Native may obtain Preserment in the 26 year of his Age; and it may be durable: for then the Mid-heaven comes by Direction to the Trine of Q, and the Sun to the Conjunction of Q: both which signific admirable and durable Preserment.

Quelt. 2. Whether ever like to marry? and when?

Resp Q being in a Prolifical Signe, near the Body of 3, and both in Sextile to Q Lord of the Ascendent, are eminent Testimonies of the Natives Inclination to Marriage. The time when, may be in his 27 year of Age: for then he is under the force of the before-mentioned Direction, and the Sun at that time comes to the Sextile of Q in main the sith House of the Nativity. But the Moon being about that time directed to a Quadrate of h, falling in the eleventh House, may denote some kinde of unexpected Crosses to the Native; and this from some of his Elderly-Friends, perhaps his Mother, & c. by reason of the fore-mentioned Business: which may not onely prove (somewhat) obstructive to his Proceedings therein, but may occasion some Discrasiness in Body, and Grief and Trouble of Minde by reason thereof. But the best on't is, it may go over without much Danger.

Quest. 3. Whether thrive by his Profossion? and in what place most like?

Resp. The Native may thrive and advantage himself by his Profession: for U, the natural Significator thereof, disposes of E. Lord of the Ninth and Tenth Houses, and casts a friendly Sextile to the Ascendent. The Place the most like to do good therein, should be the North-East part of the Nation; for both the Fortunes are in that Quarter of Heaven, and in Signes representing the same Quarter also.

Quest. 4. Whether many, or few, real Friends? and what kinde of Persons they shall be s in reference to Temperature and Profession?

Resp. A double-bodied Signe upon the Cusp of the Eleventh, and the Sthere, should portend many Friends: 4, Lord thereof, in St., a fixed Signe, and in Sextile to the Ascendent, denotes them to be real. For the kinde of Persons, they should for the most part be Civilians and Clergie-men, or Persons of a considerable Quality and Degree: for 1 naturally patronizeth such Persons; and the rather in this Nativity, because he is in the House of the Sun. Those of a middle Stature, sull bodied, well made, oval Visage, and a brightish Chesnut-coloured Hair, will be the most friendly. The Native may also receive Friendship by the means of Female Persons: for 9 being exasted in the Eleventh, and in Trine to the same from the Cusp of the Second, prenotes no less.

Quest. 5. Whether ever like to Travel? and when? 10 source

Resp. The Lord of the ninth House in an Angle, and disposed of by a Planet in an Angle, argues small Inclination in this Native to Travel. Nor would it be either pleasant or profitable for the Native so to do, because the Lord of the Ninth is Retrograde, and in a Signe contrary to his nature, and in Opposition to the Ascendent.

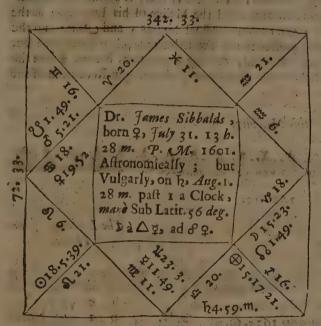

Quest. 6. How long it is probable I may live?

Resp. The Native according to Rules of Art, may live many years, if he escape the thirty third year of his Age, which (according to Natural Causes) cannot but prove very dangerous; for then the Ascendent is directed to the Body of 3, and this happens in 5, and 3 hath great Dignities in the eighth House. The Moon at the same time is directed to the Quartile of Q; Lady of the fixth House; and both these Directions fall in Cardinal Signes. But Sapiens dominabitur Astric.

In this Nativity, hand are in Trine-Platique, the one being Lord of the Ninth, and the other of the Alcendent, and the Moon in sextile of he from the tenth Floule: the Sun and 4 are in Sextile to the Alcendent; & and of hold the fathe Alpect with the Lord thereof, who is in me: Argue ments not onely of an accomplished Scholar in general, but of a good Divine.

This learned Person in the late Times of Consustion, (when Loyalty was held a Crime, and to be Orthodox, no less then Heresie) after several years being envied by the (then) prevailing Factions, was in the year 1651, most disgracefully (and without just cause) committed to Prison, and had his Benefice of Clerken-well (not long before) taken from him: It was then upon his Ascendent, and opposite place of his D, above a year together: but that which was more mischievous then this, he laboured under the malevolent Direction of the M.C. ad Oppositum Saturni, sums & since Latitudine.

The Effects hereof continued until towards 1657. all which time he was kept out of his Right; and then was admitted into a part of his Living again: the Moon was then directed to the Antiscion of he and this in the ninth House, and his Part of Fortune at the same time to the Trine of p. Lord of the Twelfth; perhaps one Reason why his Enemies became kinde to him.

Other Accidents I have not; howbeit, these seem sufficiently to correct it, because they agree so aprly with the general Significations of the Scheme, as with his Person, Profession and Parts. Nay, there is an eminent Signification of his suffering by restraint, and the Malice of his Enemies; as the Moon in Opposition of Mars from Cardinal Signes, and Mars and the Deagons Tayl their being posited in the Twelsth House, clearly declare: but such Mischiess should not commonly, or long attend him, because Q is in the Ascendent, and U in Sextile thereunto, and I his being in Reception of the Moon.

His Nativity doth differ fome-what from the time the Author of it gave me: but if the Accidents which he communicated unto me at the same time, be considered, the ingenious Artist will finde a Reason for the Alteration I have made, which is 28 min. in time. The time given was October 2. 3 h. 50 m. P. M. and the corrected time (you see) I have made 4 h. 18. P. M. And now I shall compare it with Accidents.

Anno 195% on January the twenty second day, this Native told me, he had the greatest Miss fortune befel him, as ever did in his Life, for the impairing his Estate: He had then the Ascendent directed to the Opposition of $\psi$, sine Latitudine; but that which was much worse, was, the Sun directed ad $\Pri$ $\infty$. Lady of his second House, and to the Scorpions Heart; and $\phi$ ad $C. A. $\infty$ $\infty$ h: and on the day of the Miss fortune, $\mathbf{Q}$, Lady of his second, was Retrograde in the Twelsth House of the Nativity, and $\infty$ was upon the Radical place of the Sun: which Directions and Transits, would not

onely have afflicted his Fortune, but Perlon, had not the Moon at the same time been directed ad Trinum Veneris, and to her own Sextile-A-spect.

Anno 1656. August 24. he had a Quartan Ague, that held him until September 9. 1657. He had then the Sun directed ad [] his which Direction happened in exact Quartile to his Ascendent: and (2.) the Part of Fortune directed ad 8 3, a Planet posted in the Ascendent. On the Day the Ague took him, the Sun, Mars and Venus were passing the opposite place of the Moon, and in Quartile to Jupiter. Lord of his Ascendent: Whence I should adjudge, the Ague to be accompanied with a Fever.

Anno 1658. this Native was entertained Chaplain to an honourable Peer of this Realm: He had the Sun directed then ad * 1. Lord of the Ninth, and the Alcendent ad * 3, and Moon nearly to the same.

Here again we see a Sextile of Saturn and Mercury, and this from the Houses of Mars and Mercury, and the Moon in exact Trine of Mercury, & c., as if a Divine were necessarily compelled to partake of such admirable Positions. But this learned Person, is Philosopher and Astrologer, & c., as well as a Divine; as is testified by his learned Labours already in Print: Viz. His Indago Astrologica; Collection of Eclipses; Britannia Baconica, & c. In which tegard, I shall sorbear all further Enquiry into his Geniture; referring this (as a Testimony of my Respects) to his own Consideration and Examination.

and L are in Trine and Reception of each other, and the Moon collecting both their Lights from 25, by a friendly Sextile: but besides these, there is a Conjunction of hand 2 in the Dignities of 3. All which are eminent for Signification in the Nativity of a Divine; and make him not onely learned, on but much delighted in the Business of his Profession, which things are eminently true in this Native. The Quartite of hand with on Lord of the Sixth, I know denotes many Prejudices, Accusations, Scandals, or and at sometimes redious Sicknesses: the first of which, are unhappily heightned by the Presence of the Dragons Tayl in the Ascendent; but the other good Configurations, abate much of the Fury thereof: and for the latter, vie. sharp and tedious Sicknesses that is most certainly true; for by one of them, I have corrected his Geniture; viz.

I have corrected his Geniture: viz. Anno 166 il. November 5, he had, not onely a high and violent Fever, but the Dropile, attended with the Scurvy, seized him at once; of which he was compelled to take his Bed, and lay languishing under the same until November 1 7: on which Day he was given over for dead. On the Day he was first taken si the Sun was upon the Radical place of his and hithere in Conjunction of him; and o, Lord of the Sixth, nearly Stationary in Quartile to the Ascendent of Birth. In his Revolution that year, & was in Conjunction of the Sun, and hin the Ascendent thereof, all the year; the place of the Dragons Tayl ascending, and the Dragons Tayl in the Sixth of the Figure: All which portended a fickly Year. But besides all these Arguments, the Ascendent was then directed ad & Saturni cum Latitudine, and also ad D 3: which most aprly signified those violent and tedious Distempers he then laboured under. From the time he was given over for dead, until toward May following, viz. near fix moneths, he never went abroad. It is my Opinion, had not 2 beheld of (one of the Promittors in this Evil) by a friendly Trine, and the place of the Direction by a Semi-Sextile, it had been impossible for him to have recovered. The Applications of his Physicians (as I have heard him fay) were rather prejudicial and tormenting, then any way affiliant to him : Nature at the last turn'd the best Physician; and by Vertue of his next years good Revolution, and the Abatement of the Force and Fury of the ill Directions, this Native unexpectedly recovered, to the Amazement and Wonder of his Doctors, the Joy and Comfort of his Relations and Friends: is now (by G o D's Mercy) alive, and may live until a very confiderable Age.

His Nativity the learned Perfon whose it is, gave it me; and for some things remarkable therein, I

in, the chiefest Dignities of g, ascends the Horoscope; g, Lord thereof, is (it istrue) in X, but in exact Conjunction of Q, Lady of the Ninth, and in Platique Sextile of U his Dispositor; where is great Reception between he and U, and a Reception also between Q and S: he and S are in Platique Trine. No contemptible Configurations in the Nativity of a Minister; nor indeed do they want Significations accordingly: for this Native is a great Student, read in most Arts and Sciences; a singular Divine, and most industrious. Yet I cannot omit to relate his being subject to believe, that he converseth with Angels and Spirits many times in the likeness of Scarabees, & c. who often inform him of Unh ppinesses that shortly after (as he saith) attend either himself or Finily.

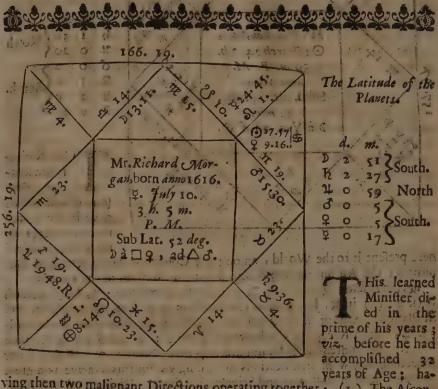

The house be in the Dignities of g or Q, and d therein, is denotes learned and famous Persons; and such as will be a terrour to (and it may be terrified by) evil Spirits. And this may be admitted for a Truth in some sense, & c. and the rather, because he casts a Sextile to & there; nor doth the Moon in Opposition of the Sun from Cardin's Signes, he being posited in the eighth House, meanly augment hereinto; pethaps a great Reason why this Native is so far perswaded into the Belief of such things as before I have related.

If we may credit the learned Casaubon, Enthusiasm (in some Men) is an Ornament to their Parts; and he seems to prove Cicero and Demostheness, cum multis alies, embettered by it: nay, he avers, there was hardly any excellent in any Faculty, but in some sense he was Enthusiastical. If therefore this learned Person be so in some measure, it is no great Wonder, he having an earthy Signe ascending, the Lord thereof in Opposition to it, and 3 in the Ninth, in an earthy Signe, in Trine of 12. Author of Melancholy.

Being aged 39 years, he obtained a Benefice: M.C. at that time directed ad $\triangle Q \in \mathbb{R}$, and the Sun to their Sextiles, and all in the eleventh House.

From the 41 year of his Age, to the 53. he was troubled with Sectaries, could not be quiet in his Living, (it was indeed in our late Times of Confusion) but yet he overcame them: he had to yex him Alcendent ad & O, and M. C. ad & D; and to help him, Ascendent ad Spicam me O &, and Oad DI.

ving then two malignant Directions operating together: (1.) The Ascendent ad Oppositum Martis: (2.) The Moon ad Oppositum Saturni, and both of them with and without Latitude; which was the main Reason of their Effects proving so facal.

In this Nativity there are divers good Arguments of a good Divine, and a great Scholar; and such this Native was. (1.) The Sun Lord of the Ninth, in Trine to the Ascendent. (2.) The Moon in Trine of &, Lord of the Ascendent, and both of them in Platique Sextile with a Planet in the ninth House. (3.) 14 and 2 their being in exact Trine to each other. The Opposition of 1 and & might denote him somewhat Enthusiastical, and give him a greater Measure of Zeal then ordinary; and that he was known to have all the time of his being a Preacher, which was near upon feven years.

In the twenty fourth year compleat of his Age, he entred into Holy Orders: he had then operating the Medium Coli ad Conjunctionens Luna, and this on the Cusp of the eleventh House.

Thus much may ferve for this Nativity.

Here follow the

Lavvyers & Physitians, &c.

N the time of this ever-famous Persons Nativity, both Cardan and Lyndholt agree: Yet Plutarch in his Life reporteth, that some have supposed him born in anuary, &c. I confess, the uncertainty of Chronologie is such, that the best Judgements know not where (in some Cases) to centre. Yet it seemeth probable, that the latter is onely presumed upon the Credit of blind Report; and that for two Reasons:

(1.) The Credit of Cardanus being confiderably valuable among the Learned, I adjudge he would have hardly adventured without affured Grounds, and a thorow Scrutiny, to have pu lished the Nativity of a Person so eminently considerable, as this: besides, had it been erroneous, Lyndholt coming many years after him, would not (I perswade my self) have offered to present the same again unto the World without Correction.

Secondly, the Figure it self (which is the best Reason) exactly agreeth with the Description that Plutarch hath given of him. (1.) He was a lean Person, weak and sickly: and this is aptly discovered by the Moon her being in vy, in the fixth House, she being Domina Ascendentis; and her Dispositor, in Quartile of the Sun and his in the Ascendent, from fixed Signes. (2.) Concerning his Oratory, he saith, that he had a good loud Voyce, but it was harsh, and he lacked both Grace and Comelines: which seems well signified by his conjunction with he in Ascendente, there afflicted by the presence of Cauda Draconis, and his Quartile, and in Combustion of the Sun. (3.) He attained to great Dignity, and was eminently honoured for his eminent Skill in Science: which is lively denoted by the Essential Dignity of the Sun; and both he, h, h and d, casting a Trine to the Angle of Dominion and Soveraignty, the Sun having Exaltation there: then h, Lord of the Ninth, is in Conjunction of h in the Fifth, thence emirting their being Rays to the Horoscope. All eminent Arguments of Honour, Oc.

Plutarch tells us, that his Nurse was told by a Vision, that she gave suck to a Childe, which in time to come should do great good to all the Romans. And yet he was but the Son of a Bond-woman; or at the best, of mean Extraction: which occasioned Juvenal (when writing of the force of Fare) to bring him in, as an eminent Proof thereof, Sat. 7.

Si fortuna volet, sies de Rhetore Consul; Si volet hac eadem, sies de Consule Rhetor. Ventidins quid enim? Quid TULLIUS? anne aliud quam Sydus, & occulti mir anda Potenția Fați.

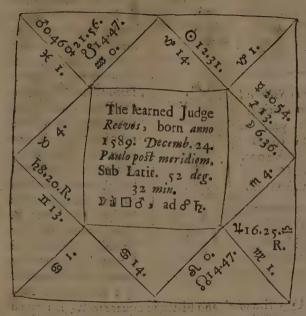

And in process of time, he was twice made Consul of Rome: and for discovering and preventing Catiline's Conspiracie, he was by Cato called, Pater Patria, The Father of his Country.

He died in the 64 year of his Age, he having underwent the chiefest of his Miseries in his grand Climacterical year.

Being in Exile, he was by a Prodigie forewarned of his Death, viz. a Shole of Crows coming toward the Ship in which he was failing, and ferling upon the Mast thereof; at which being terrified, he went to Land; but the Crows (as if not fatisfied till they had done their Errand) followed him even to the Chamber-Window where he lay; yea, some of them to his Bed: which caused his Servants to hasten him out of Doors into his Litter for Sasety, (hearing of his Enemies approach, and deeming this strange Army ominous) and behold! he was betrayed by a Youth he had bred up, into the Hands of Herrenins and Popilius Lana, who basely murther him. Thus ended this samous Person by the Violence of the Sword; who in his Lifetime was wont to say,—Cedant Arma Toga.

Let Sword and Shield give place to Gown; And give the Tongue the Lawrel Crown.

This prudent Person in the 58 year currant of his Age, but 57 compleats died suddenly at Kingstone upon Thames, near London: having then the Sun directed ad Quadratum Saturni.

The Arguments of a sudden Death, are, (f.) the Moon being in Oppofition of R., and Quartile of 32 (2.) She being near a violent fixed Stat.

Albubater saith, When the Moon is in the eighth House, in Aspet of the Infortunes, he who is then born shall be subject time a sudden Douth. See it as I have translated it from him, in my Dostripe of Nativities, 101. 148 It is true, Albubater confines the Aphoritm onely to a Birth Nocturnal: but Experience teacheth us, that it is of the same signification and import to those that are born in the Day-time.

His learned Person (though a Lawyer) had the happy Unhappiness to be engaged on the Kings Behalf in the late Ctuel and Unnatural Wars; and in the year 1647. (at what time our then gracious Soveraign was a Captive by an unheard-of Fate, unto those that had sworn Allegiance to him) was this worthy Person sequestred for his Loyalty. He had then the Mid-heaven directed ad [] D, and the Afcendent ad d O & h. And by reason of this Mil-sortune (which for his Loyalty and good Affection), he fultained, and feeing no probable Hopes (in those times) of amendment, he fell into a deep Melancholy, which held him near seven years, viz until fanuary 1654. at which time he died thereof. It is remarkable, that in these seven years time, he had many unfortunate Directions operating: viz. O ad & 3, & 2; and D ad 18; Asc. ad C. A. &, & C. A. U. And at the time he died, he had the O directed ad & Dindomo Martis, he being but little patt the 2 , Lady of the Eighth, and wanting but a little of the I h: the Moon was then under the C. A. of h, by Direction. All which confidered, it was little less then 2 Wondershe combated with his Diffemper so long. That Melahcholy should be the Distemper by which this Native should expire, is very eminently denoted by h, the Natural Patron thereof, his afflicting both Luminaries, and he in his great Dignities. The Fortunes in *, made him famous in his Profession, viz. the Law. Din * of g, and O and hin * of d, gave him both Personal and Intellectual Abilities to manage the same. But all these Endowments, both Natural and acquired, were compelled to yeild to a cruel Fare: and herein was the Wise-man's Words made good, is not always to the Swifts - nor Riches to Men of Understanding.

He Lord of the Ascendent, and Lady of the 8th in the Radix, in this Figure are in exact Opposition from Angles; and the Luminaries are in Opposition also. The Figure of Heaven is nearly in Opposition to what it. was at Birth; ergo; most dangerous to Life. He died in January following; which may not unaptly be referred to h his possessing the East-Angle of the Figure 1, and at the time of Death, & was upon the place of the

His Gentleman by Profession was a Lawyer; and in his Life-time so great a Lover of Astrologie, (having

Dr. Fisk (my honoured Friend and Tutor) an hundred pounds for the Calculation of his Nativity; as I have heard the Doctor several times to report.

To denote this Native apt for the Study of the Law, here is 3. Lord of his Ascendent, in Conjunction of the Sun, in domo Jovis, and both of them in Sextile of handin exact Trine to the Ascendent. U also is very strong in his Exaltation, in a friendly Trine of the Moon; and the Moon is in Conjunction of Q and Q, in the House of 3. Which Arguments do also admirably well denote his great Parts: for in his time, there was hardly any Man (of that Profession or Study) that equalled him, much less surpassed him. And to denote his great Fame, we finde, not onely U, the Significator of his Pration also and (according to his Latitude) in Conjunction (almost) of that Noble fixed Star called Spica Virgins; and in Sextile of the Sun and 3, who are in Conjunction of Cor Scorpii, another eminent and Kingly fixed Star. He died in the 48 year currant of his Age: had then the Sun directed ad 8, 1 in 19, a place that U so eminently hates. If any ask why the Sun ad 1 him 19, a place that U so eminently hates. If any ask why the Sun ad 1 him 19, anight not kill as the other? I answer: hath no Dignities in the Lighth nor Fourth Houses; so hath U in both. That some Persons were born to spread and promote Lyes and Deceits, as others to believe them.

House, and in exact Trine to the Ascendent also; besides, they are both with eminent fixed Stars. (3.) The Moon, Lady of the Tenth, is in Conjunction of Q, Lady of the Ascendent, and both in * to & their Dispositor, in the Eleventh.

This Native (at what times I could by no means learn) left his own Country, and came to England: and notwithstanding the many learned Physicians that this Nation did afford, he was accepted of beyond them all, and sworn Physician in chief to King James; an Honour that few Aliens any where artain too. Shall not need to observe any more in this. Figure, then I finde already done in an Appendix to an Appendix to an Appelogie for Astrologie, published lately by my loving Friend Mr. Vincent Wing: the Author of which Appendix, is Mr. F. B. and my very good Friend also; who hath responded both like an Artist and Scholar to Gassendus's chief Objections against Astrologie: for a sight of which, I refer the ingenious Reader to the Appendix it self; and shall here onely present him with what relates to the Scheme: Viz.

Here you may see the malignant Planets hand & have the chief Dominion in his Scheme: his the Lord of his Horoscope; Peregrine, Retrograde, in his Detriment; and unfortunate in $\mathbb{G}$; which made his Lungs much oppressed with Phlegm rotten and corrupt: of an ill Habit of Body, very siekly, subject to Catarrh's, & c. That for Manners, hin Quartile of & both in ill Aspect with the Ascendent, made him of an evil Disposition; envious, suspitious, revengesul; angry, peevish, contentious, injurious, fraudulent; a Lyar, a Calumniator, an Impostor; Covetous; a Robber of other Mens Honour; a false Friend, a persidious Traytor, a notorious Hypocrite; an Atheist; and (to say no worse of him, then he does of Mr. Des Cartes, though unjustly) a Toad swelled with Pride and malitious Venome? as you may see in the Book against Des Cartes, and other of his Works.

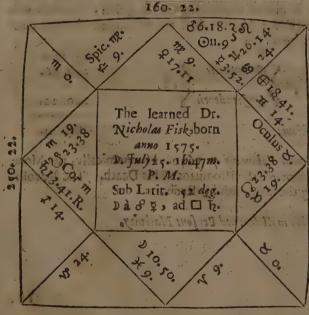

As he had a in Sextile of &, and in the House of h; so he had a Wit appenough for Mischiess, Quarrels and Contentions; sharp in Disputations; as in Quartile to the Moon, so it was turbulent enough; and had not applyed to a Sextile of 4 also, he had been so ill natured, that he had not been sociable: but that good Aspect gave him so much Wit, as hypoctitically to dissemble it, and clock it under Zeas to Religion; and make that seem the Severity of his Devotion, that was the Moroseness of his Nature.

But if we go further, we shall finde it egree with the Accidents of his Life, as well as his Disposition. About the time the Medium Owli was directed to the Sextile of the Moon, we finde he had a Journey into Holland. When the Sun was directed to the Trine of 4. he was made Prapositus Diniensis; where for the most part he was Non-Resident.

During the Effects of the Sun to the Trine of Q, and the Mid heaven to Q, he was made Mathematical Professor. Upon the Direction of the Moon to the Quartile of S, he had an Inflammation of the Lungs: which also returned upon him again, when the Horoscope was directed to the Body of S, and after to the Quartile of h; which produced a Consumption: in which Disease, his Physicians being over-free of his Blood at threescore and threes brought him to that excessive weakness, that he never recovered; and died whining, that his too much obsequiousness to their Prescriptions, had snatcht him out of the World in virial senestate. Take his Friend Borellus Relations and his own Words, Observiti. Cent. 3. Possem his viril semper lugendi mortem dolorosam toti Europa, imo mundo recensere, nimio illo remedio sanguinea, & verba ab ejus ore deprempta referre quibus ante obitum fassus est se nimio obsequio periiss. & cum heroe suo ad inferos cum viridi adhuc & stante senestute descendisse.

His learned Doctor was a Practitioner in Physick threescore years, and had fingular success therein; which is plainly known from the great Dignity of the Lord of the Tenth, and the Position of Q, Lady of the fixth House, in the Mid-heaven, between the Sextiles of 4 and the Ascendent.

dent. He was excellently well versed in the Mathematicks, viz. in all the parts thereof; chiesly in Astrologie and Astronomy: in which Sciences, it was my good Fortune to have and receive Instructions from him: and no other Tutor had I ever; nor indeed needed I any, he being the ablest and the best (for Instruction of Tyroes in those Mysteries) in his time. So excellent he was, that in all respects, I am perswaded (and dare undertake to predict it) that England will scarcely (in many Ages) produce his Equal; and yet I am consident that this Nation hath brought forth as many excellent Sons of the Mathematicks, as any Nation in the World, and may again. The Reasons of his Excellencie in these Arts, is, (1.) The great Fortitude of \(\frac{1}{2}\), he being not onely in his own Honse, but Exaltation, and in the ninth House posited, which of Astrologers is termed Domus Scientiarum. (2.) 4. a Fortune in the Ninth, in Trine to the Ascendent. (3.) A Platique Trine between the Moon (who is Governess of the Ninth) and \(\frac{1}{2}\), and a great Reception also. (4.) \(\frac{1}{2}\) in \(\frac{1}{2}\), (a Signe signifying great Ingenuity and Study) casting an exact \(\times\) to the Ascendent.

Although his Skill was great, and his Rationative Faculty very strong, yet his Elocution was but mean; which made many to set the lower Esteem and Value upon his great Acquirements: this I conceive may be occasioned by the Platique 12 of 12 to 23, and 2 her being in 12 to one, and 2 to the other.

The Lord of the Second strong, and the Sun in Trine to the Second, together with Part of Fortunes being in the Eighth House, gave this Native a competent Estate of Annual Rent, near rook besides great Gains by his Practice: Yet the Position of hupon the second House, in Opposition to the Part of Fortune in the Eighth, destroyed all again; so that it was this learned Natives Fate to die not worth much: yet by reason of U's great strength, viz. his being in Exaktation, and in Trine and Reception of the Moon, &c. he was not absolutely necessitated, (it is true) but carried Matters even with the World; and so lest a good Name, though not a good Essate, behinde him.

After this worthy Person had lived 84 years of Age, (partaking both of good and bad Fortune) he died of a lingering Consumption, attended with a Meagrim toward his last days: He had then the Ascendent directed ad 8, with and without Latitude.

In his Nativity, we finde the Moon in & (her Exaltation) in Trine and Reception of 2 mand the Sun (the other Luminary) is in Conjunction of 2, who is Lord of the fixth House, and both of them in Trine to d, the Lords of the Tenth, viz the Angle fignifying Physick, &c. and he exalted in the Ascendent. Besides, if (as some Astrologers contend) we should allow? Reception to be an Essential Fortifude, hete are no less then five Planets effentially dignified in this Scheme. All which confidered, might aptly denote this Native not onely fortunate and successful in the Practice he used but famous and eminent for the same : for it is a great Truth in Astrologie; The more Planets there be effentially fortified in any Nativity , the more splendid and spreading is the Natives Fame and Hondur. Let his Condition be what it will still (quand Capat) this Rule holds tone.

There was at the same time the Sun directed to the Head of Hercules, a violent fixed Star of the Nature of d. And in the Revolution that year, the Moon was in Conjunction of &, and the Figure was (nearly) the same with that of the Radix. All which considered together, intimated the year to be ominous and fatal to Life; as unto this eminent Native it proved.

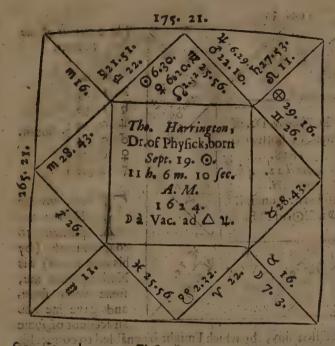

as his feveral Books on that subject already published, &c. do sufficiently prove. To denote which Astrologically, he hath m, the most ingenious Signe of the whole Zodiack, ascending the Horoscope; and $\frac{1}{2}$, Lord thereof, is in $\pi$, in Sextile of $\frac{1}{2}$ and $\frac{1}{2}$, (who are in Conjunction in the eleventh House) and in Trine of $\frac{1}{2}$, the Moons Dispositor; and to add to these $\frac{1}{2}$ the Sun and $Caput Draconis very considerably (by their presence) fortisse the House of Physick.

Howbeit; this Native hath been subject to Misseriumes, as Imprisonments; &c. very much; which are aptly (in the general) occasioned by the Sun his Partile Opposition with \(\mathfrak{U}\), and both of them being in Quartile to the Ascendent; as also by \(\mathfrak{U}\) his being in Platique Square to the Sun. Which Positions Astrologers tell us, portend to the Native many Vexations, Crosses and Contentions; Scandals, Envies, Conspiracies, Suits in Law, &c. of all which this Native hath largely participated. But besides these general Arguments of evil, he hath had the Sun by Direction to the Opposition of the Moon: besides, notorious Transits, &c. as in 1655, and 1656. \(\mathfrak{U}\) was upon his Ascendent, and the Quadrate place of his Sun, and \(\mathfrak{M}\). \(\mathfrak{C}\). And in 1659, & was upon his \(\mathfrak{M}\). \(\mathfrak{C}\), and the Suns place, near six moneths together. And the latter part of 1661, and beginning of 1662. & was passing over the opposite place of his Moon near seven moneths together; such prodigious Transits that are not commonly known to succeed one another at so swift and malignant a rate.

But a time there will be for those turbulent Significations to pass away, and good ones to possess their seat; and this will be, when he hath once passed the opposite Points of \mathfrak{P} , M. C, and \mathfrak{O} .

Thus much for this Nativity.

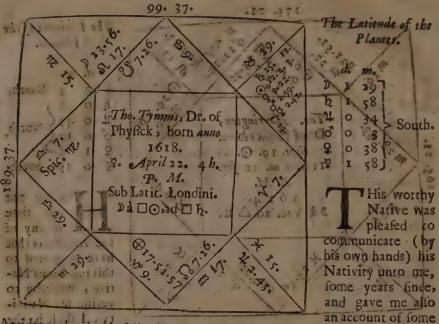

The Latitude of the

Aving not the time of any of the Accidents that have happened to this ingenious Native, whereby to verifie his Nativity, I shall be the biefer in my Ob-

Lord thereof, is posited in me on the tenth House, thence catting a Sextile to the Horotcope: an eminent Argument of an able and learned Poysitian. Secondly, there is a Sextile of be and be, which declares a sharp and serious Understanding, and a Judgement capable of any mysterious Knowledge. It is not improbable, but that this happy Configuration (for such it is) between he and be, they being both near eminent fixed Stars, might encline this Native to the Study of Chymittry; in which Science he hath had such singular success, that his Application of Medicines hath been, and is, (mostly) by way of Chymical Preparation.

Thirdly, the Fortification of the tenth House by the presence of the San, 2, and 3; and the Lord of the Ascendent his being in Conjunction of 4, and the Moon applying to his I ine, give the Native not onely good Fortune in his Protession and Practice, but great Credit and Esteem thereby. Indeed he is so highly respected so his Parts, and the success which attends them in his Practice, in Leicestershire, the place of his abode, that there are hardly any other Physicians who have an equal Honour with him; as I have heard several Persons of that Country to aver.

He is also Astrological, as the former Arguments do aptly intimate; and that may be neleminent Cause of his so great success in Physick: for it is impossible for any Man to make a good Physician, that is not acquainted with Astrologie.

Accidents that had befallen him, by which I might be enabled to correct his Genitare truely, viz.

dent came then by Direction to the University of Cambridge: the Ascendent came then by Direction to the Virgins Spike 1 a Noble Star of the Nature of 3 and 2, and of the first Magnitude.

Being aged 20 years, he was married on the D (who in this Nativity is Lady or Governess of the Medium Cieli) was then directed ad A 2.

3. Being near 30 years of Age, this Native commenced Doctor of Phyfick: he had then the Sun directed ad 14, and 4 exalted in the Tenth, and Radically in \triangle thereunto.

4. Anno 1658. he was troubled with a Rheum in his right Eye, in the moneths of June and July & 3. Was then upon the Quadrate place of the Sun in his Nativity, and upon the Radical place of the Moon: he was at the same time Stationary in his Ascendent: all dangerous Transits.

The Nativity is partly the same with Sir Theodore Mayern's; and (notwithstanding so grand a Satellitium of the Planets in the eighth House) it is no inconsiderable one for a Physician: for the fortunate Planet 1 is in Sextile unto four of them there, and they respect the Mid-heaven with the same friendly Aspect. All which argue not onely Fortune, but Honour unto the Native in and by his Practice; and most eminent Advantage from things fignified by the eighth House, whether it be by the Lands or Goods of Persons deceased, or by Legacies, Deeds, Wills, Administrations, or Portion of the Wife, or by all: his good Directions must acquaint him, and point out the time or times thereof. The Dignities of both the Fortunes, and their friendly Aspect to each other in the descending part of Heaven, (were there no fuch Knot or Conjunction of Planets) must have fome more then ordinary Significations toward the middle or third part of the Natives Life. But I transgress, while I glance at things particular, when my Business is onely of Generals. Let it therefore be remembred, ever is born under such a Position of Heaven, sannot but make a good and fortunate Physitian.

Shall spare to speak of the several Accidents that have happened unto this ingeniously learned Native they having been very little (if any thing at all) answerable to his Deserts or Merits. This is a Nativity that may well make the Native (that is born under it) ingenious and industrious in his Profession, rather then fortunate or rich thereby: for here is the Moon in the Dignities of \mathfrak{P} , in exact Δ to the Sun and \mathfrak{P} , near eminent (though violent) fixed Stars; in the eleventh House; and all three of them are in good Aspect of the Ascendent. But then to darken their good Significations, and prove the truth of the latter part of my Assertion; here is the Moon in \square of \mathfrak{P} , \mathfrak{P} , and \mathfrak{P} ; and \mathfrak{P} (though in it his own Dignities) is besieged of the Infortunes; and the Sun and \mathfrak{P} are in exact Opposition to his Part of Fortune.

Any man versed in the Genethliacal part of Astrologie, will easily see, that this Native hath passed a great many very dangerous, and some very good, Directions: all which, have (according to the Letter of Astrologie) had their Significations on the Person and Affairs of this Native most exactly.

I observe, that the Moon in good Aspect with some Planets in the eleventh House, and in evil Aspect with others there, gives the Native, some faithful, and some persidious Friends; and our Native is eminently sensible of the same. Argol says, hand dill assetted, and posited in the Eleventh, declare sew, and faithless friends, Ptol. parv. p. 153. This Native hath sufficiently proved the same to be true: for some pretending Friendship unto him, were the occasion of his probable ruine, when he was in a very flourishing Condition; and afterwards perswaded him into a willing and voluntary Exile: which in the latter part of the year 1658. or beginning of 1659, he consented unto, and accordingly less this Native Country. The Ascendent was then directed to the of o, and to he who is Lord of the Ninthin the Nativity.

a Student in Phyfick, but in feveral other parts of Philofophy; as his feveral Translations of Paracelfus, Sendivogius, Johannes

And indeed it is no wonder that that Native is of an enquiring Brain and Fancie, who hath the Lady of his Ascendent in Conjunction of &, in the House of &; and & in Conjunction of the Sun and Dragons Head; and in exact Sextile of &, who is the Moons Dispositor. Nor is it a mean Argument of Ingenuity and Apritude in him to Science, that hath one Planet governing both the Ascendent and ninth House, as is in this Nativity: it is a Position that happens in some of the eminentest Genitures of Physitians before mentioned. The Moon being Lady of the Tenth, and in Opposition of &, & and &, doth abate much of that Splendour and Fame other Physitians enjoy, whose Parts (perhaps) may not be so meritorious and deserving, as are our Natives. But Fais agimur, &c.

Being aged nineteen years, he had the Small Pox, and that to purpose:

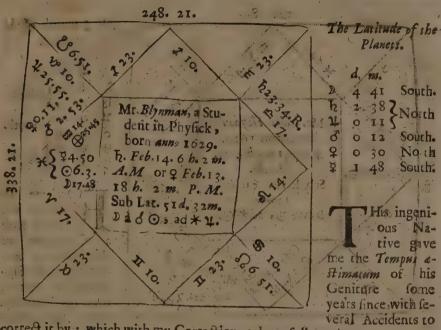

the Sun was then directed ad & Martis, cum & fine Latitudine.

Being aged thirty three years, he was afflicted both with Dropfie, Ague, Scurvey, &c. and this in so strange and tedious manner, that very sew of his Friends believed that ever he would have recovered thereof again: the Sun was then directed ad Corpus Saturni, both with and without Latitude. He had also an ill Revolution that year, and h but a little before, transiting his Ascendent a long time together.

There are divers other things to be observed in this Figure; but these I have already taken knowledge of, being of the most Practical Concernment to the Sons of Art, I shall forbear all further Discourse here-

Por me to present the Reader with a Catalogue of this Natives Accidents, & the Significations thereof from his Nativity, were but astum agere; he himself having done the same in one or two Books already by him published; viz. in The Harmony of the World, and The Holy Guide. In which said Books, he hath been to plain with himself, (as best knowing his own natural Inclinations and Dispositions) that since Cardan's time, I have read and heard of but few Men to ingenuous.

That he should be apt to enquire after many curious Arts, and occule Mysteries, and make them his quondam Studies, is plainly seen by the great strength of g, Lord of his Ascendent, viz. his being not onely in m, his own House, but in the fourth House, and in the Degrees thereof, which Astrologers hold (and that truely) to be his Exaltation; and this in the Imum (cli; and the Moon is in m, in exact Sextile unto him, and holding the same Aspect with 4, who is in Partile Trine of the Sun.

Now the Reason why I bring his Geniture among those of the Doctors and Students in Physick, is, in regard he hath writ several things of Physick; as in his Holy Guide, the way to prepare most Chymical Medicines, naming them particularly; and then a Treatise of Rosie-Crucian Physick, printed some years since: and in several other his Books, something or other tending thereunto. Divers other Secrets he hath published, which (because they come not within the Perimeter of my Apprehension) I shall in modesty judge tenderly of them: but the grand Reason why some persons cavil at him for them, and that they are not (by many Men) with other things equalty referred; (though perhaps in themselves may be as deserving) is, the Quartile of the Sun and &, and the Suns beholding the Ascendent with the tame Aspect; and hand 4 their Quartile from Cardinal Signes likewise. Howbeit, it is Wisdom for every Man to judge tenderly of what he doth not understand. I may also note further, that & in the Ascendent, in Quartile of the Sun, doth aptly fignifie his being subject to Imprisonments, and to the Frowns of great Persons, &c. as it happened unto him in the late times of Usurpation and Tyranny; of which himself hath largely made mention.

His Nativity was calculated by the Natives own Hand, (for he is Aftrologically, as well as Physically, inclined) and some years since given unto me by himself.

Herein we finde aftending, and Q, Lady thereof, in Opposition of & in the Tenth: but by reason of the double Disposition that here is between the chief Significators, wie. & his disposing of 2, and Ther disposing of 3, and the common Amity that is between 8 and 2 naturally , the Effects of their Apposition are very much abated. Howbeit, of as posited in the Tenth. will have his Signification; which is, (if we believe not onely Authors, but Experience) to subject the Native many times to Hazards and great Dangers, together with an eclipse of Honour and Estimation: all which this Native hath confessed to me to be true. And to add hereunto, here is the Moon in Opposition of h, and both in Quartite of H; which in many respects prejudice the Native in the course of his Life, and will not permit him (fed cum diffcalcased to mount high in the World. Nevertheless, these Arguments of Unhappiness operate no manner of way upon the Noble part of him, although they do upon his publick Concerns, as Estate, &c. For here are several good. Tellimonies of Ingenuity, and of the Natives apriness to the Study and Practice of Phylick's Cell vie. The Ascendent fortified by the presence of a Noble fixed Stat. (2.) 4. Lord of the Tenth by Exaltation, his Trine to the Ascendent, and Sextile to the Sun, who so be olds the Ascendent likewife. (3.) The Moon, Lady of the Medium Cali by House, polited in her Exaltation, (though in the Eighth) thence calling a Trine to g. who is Lady of the Ascendent. (4.) A fortunate Sexule between hand so being posited in the third House. All which are proper Arguments of Ingenuity, and a nimble active Fancie; both of which, this Native hath a very good title unto.

I could have here presented unto the Reader several Accidents of this Natives, and the Reasons of them from Directions, &c. in his Nativity; but I onely take Cognizance of Generals; and conclude herefrom,—That bad Testimonies in a Nativity, in relation to Honour and Fortune, cannot enervate the good ones that are therein of Ingenuity and Study; and of this I could give a multitude of Examples, but they are needless, conis in the Ascendent, and the Moon in Opposition to J. Lord thereof, very plainly portends. But notwithstanding his many Mis-fortunes, Imprisonments, Law-snits, Go. that he hath been extreamly subject unto, yet still in the end he hath met with Assistance convenient to draw him out of those troublesome Wires: and this may be portended very well, by the Sun his being in exact Sextile of 4, and in the same Aspect and Reception of h, who is Lord of the eleventh House; as also the Moon her being in Time of 2.—

For it cannot be, that that Native can long mant Friends or Assistance, who hath in his Geniture both the Luminaries befriended by the Beams of the Formanes.

To descend to particular Accidents. About seven years of Age, this Native by a Blow had like to have lost his Right Eye: the Ascendent was then directed ad & O; and had not the same Promittor been at the same time directed ad & U, it's very probable that he might have lost it quite.

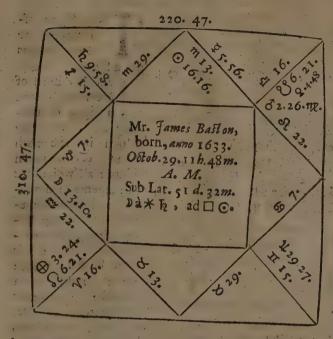

Aged 19 years, a deep Consumption, Scurvie, &c. which lasted with him a great while, viz. near a year and half: Ascendent then directed ad \square h, and a little before the \odot had been directed ad \square \(\mathbb{L}. \)

Aged 21 years, he married, (and that a considerable Fortune:) the Sun was then directed ad & Q, cum Latitudine.

Aged 30 years of Age, he was imprisoned upon a publick Account, but soon released; and a little after, viz. about 31. being with a Company of resolute Persons, among whom there unfortunately happened a Man to be kill'd; this Gentleman, together with the rest, was laid hold on, and put in Prison; but after much Trouble, Scandal and Cost, was acquitted. The M. C. was then directed add &, with and without Latitude.

The Quartile of 3 and D with & and Sextile of 3 and & together with the Sun his Sextile and Reception with & Lord of the Tenth, might make him a Physician, and that an able one: but the Moonbeing in Opposition of 3, together with what was before urged, doth, in some respects, eclipse his Fame and high Deserts, and prevents his Merits shining.

Thus much for this Nativity.

Present the Reader with this Geniture, just as I received it from the Hands of the Native himself, he having been his own Calculator; and therein (as I by enquiry have found) he followeth the Tables of David Origanus. This Native hath been a Student in Astrologie, and in Physick; and is at the present a Member of the Inner-Temple, and a Student in the Laws. For to denote him inclineable to Sciences, he hath in his Nativity a Sextile of & and \(\pi \), and a Trine of \(\pi \) and \(\pi \); \(\pi \) being in exact Sexile to the Ascendent, and Q (who is Lady of the Ninth) in the same Aspect with h Lord thereof; as also an admirable Reception between of and g. Greater and more numerous Testimonies of a sharp Fancie, and an active Understanding, are hardly among an hundred Nativities to be found: and had this Native had but Education, suitable to his Inclination, (for you must know, he hath been his own Guardian and appointer in the several Studies he hath followed) he might have proved an absolute Encyclopadian. But this is an imisens in Reason onely, and not to be directly favoured by Altrologie. For to shew that his Honour and Fame should not equal his Fancie and Inclination, we finde a malignant Square between the Lords of the Ascendent and the tenth House, and this nearly from the Eighth and Twelfth Houses of the Scheme; and the Moon is in Quartile of the Sun and a also, and the very Degree of the Medium Coeli.

These latter Configurations did not onely hinder this Native in his Education, and subject him to Employments Antipathetical to him in his Youth; but in his riper years hath occasioned much Prejudice, many Scandals, and Troubles in Law, and otherwise, to invade him: the Particulars of which, he being so generous and free of minde to discover them himself to any one, I shall in this place forbear to mention any of them in particular; and so conclude what I have to say of this his Nativity.

The Signe afcending the Horolcobesis ve a Signe of Brevitys and h, Lord of the Ascendent, is in &, a Signe of Brevity also, and the Moon in the fixth House decreasing in Light: all which are Arguments of a middle Stature, and somewhat a spare lean Body; Complexion darkish or (waithy; hair dark bown Virage more long then round; Eyes quick and piereing , Oc.

And the Person of this Native was exactly such. He was also full of Agility, very active and nimble: which I presume was occasioned by the Moons Position in the House of 2 in Sextile to 3, and h in the House of 2, having South-Latitude.

His Temperature, according to Astrologers, should be Melancholy, Cholerick, as is plain by an earthy Signe ascending, and h's Position in an earthy Signe also, and the Moon being among Martial fixed Stars, and Stars of the same nature in the Ascendent, are very strong Testimonies of Choler prevailing over this Native. But the greatest Argument of Choler predominating, I take to be the Suns Reception with &, from violent Signes; which seems to signific that Choler should over power the Humour of Melancholy, not-withstanding an earthy Signe ascending, &c.

He was indeed of such a Temperature: I remembred to have heard him confess, that Melancholy was an extraordinary Enemy unto him; so great at sometimes, that wanting Company he would seem like a dead Man: and at other times would his Choler macerate him very strangely; yea, more oft then the Diffemper of Melancholy.

2, the Patron of Ingenuity, & e. is the most potent Planet in the Figure; and he being in m, the House of &, and so near the benign Beams of Q, argued the Native to be of an excellent Wit, sharp Fancie, admirable Conception, and of an active Understanding.

For proof of this, let his many worthy Works now extant, be summon'd to give in Evidence: viz. (1.) His Translation of the Dispensatory, so exquisitely done, that the best Physitian need not be ashamed to own it. (2.) His English Physitian: a Work of such tarity, that never any Herbarist before him durit adventure to do. (3.) His Astrological indgement of Discases from Avenezra and Duriet: in which he hath so ingeniously sollowed the Text of his Authors, that if any Copies may be presumed or thought to improve, or excel their Originals, this very Book of his doth so.

He was very eloquent; a good Orator; spoke both freely and fluently. And if I shall speak the Truth in all parts, he was very conceited, and full of Jests; as the Quartile of of and & aptly denotes: but the Knack of Jesting was so inseparable to him, that in his writing things of most serious Concern-

ment, he would mingle matters of Levity, and extreamly pride himself in so doing; as is evident in all his Writings; but the Poets excuse is sufficient:

Quedam cum prima recensentur crimina barbas, und

The Lord of the Second is Retrograde upon the Cusp of the Fourth, in Quartile to the second House; and 2 his Dispositrix Combust in Quartile of 3, and in Quartile to the Secondalso; which plainly portends a Consumption of Riches, and a Destruction of what Patrimony should descend unto him from his Parents. And 3 afflicting Pars Fortuna, in an obscure House of the Heavens, and opposing the Second; and the Sun, Dispositor of the Part of Fortune, in Opposition of b, caused him to squander away his Estate both carelessy and negligently, and sometimes by reason of retiraint or imprisonments, our long bas deciding should receive the Manager and Manager

It is most true, that he was always subject to a Consumption of the Purse, notwithstanding the many ways he had to affish him. Indeed he had a Spirit so far above the Vulgar, that he contemned and scorned Riches any other way then to make them serviceable to him. I could parallel this his Generally with Arguments of the same stamp, from some Genitutes very emitment; but I am confined. I shall close my Discourse of his Estate with this and Had not he had Caput Draconis in the Second, he would have been permally poor; for the Arguments of Poverty in his Radix are such, that had he been born to Grasse Estate, he would have made it like to that of Discours, to one some means bit radical and send stays against an nies; and & Lord thereof, in A, in the eighth House whe most unfortunand short nate place of the whole Heavens: as saith Ludovicus de Rigiis, — Nulla Fournies. divisio Circuli tune pessiona, tamque crudelis in omnibus quam chavaest. And he being there in Quartile of sour Planets, with O, Quartile and in an Argument of great infortunacie to the Native from his Kindred and indeed no great happiness to him in his Inland Journies. Besides, y being on the Third, and & in a sterile Signer, portends very sew, or no Brethren of Sisters to the Native: and in this case the sewerthe better.

It would be too tedious to make repetition of the many Mitsfortunes this Native hath suffered by his Kindred, and the Perils and Dangers he hath escaped in travelling or going short Journies. It is confirming enough of the Art, that he never gained good by either. Nor had he ever any Brethren, the general Significator of Fathers, and Q the particular in this Nativity, are in Opposition; and & Lord of the Tenth, in Quartile to both and that from fixed Signes, together with Q her being Combust: all which clearly denote, that the Parents of this Native should die before him: but had they lived, I cannot see in Art how he should have been bettered by them, their Significators are so squaring and opposing his. He hath often averred that his Father, according to report, died before he was born; and his Mother lived till the twenty third year of his Age: and a good Estate he acknowledged that they did leave him; but he was cheated thereof.

Wife and Children.

BTIVATE.

D, Lady of the Seventh, in a double-bodied Signe, might feem to denote two Wives: but 2, a general Significatrix of Wives, being Combult, and in evil Aspect of the Infortunes, seem to contradict it; and that so strongly, that did the not cast a friendly Beam to the Alcendent a and another to the Seventh, he would hardly have ever married; but that is an Argument that once he should.

2 being Governess of the fifth House, and in m a fruitful Signe, irradiating both the Ascendent and Seventh friendly, signifies that the Native may have many Children: but Capac Medufa being upon the Cuip of the Fifth, and 2 Combust, and in Opposition to he that Enemy to Nature, and all natural Existencies, and in Quartile of &, a Planet posited in the House of Death, presages that very few of them (if any) thall be long lived.

This Native had but one Wife, (viz. Mts. Alice Culpeper, now living, and Wife to John Heydon Esq;) and by her he had seven Children, (although himself died young) but they are all dead but one, which is a Daughter.

His Enemies, both publick and private, are fignified by Landahe Moon? publick and but principally 1, because he hath great Dignities both in the Twelsth and Seventh Houses & also will have a share in Signification of his Enemies, because he is in Trine of 4, and Sextile of the Moon, and beholds the Lord of the Ascendent with a Quartile. Now if the Question be demanded what kinde of Person these Planets signifie ? I will signifie Physicians, Aporhecaries, &c. and & Divines. And those two kinds of Men and Protessions should be his most potent Adversaries, both publick and private; of the most publick de la min

It is notoriously known, that his most publick Enemies were Physicians, and his most private ones Divines. The first hated him, and made their Hatred publick, for his discovering the use of Medicine in his Mother-Tongue. The second did disgust him for his studying Astrologie: but neither of them durst to enter the Lists of Dispute with him, albeit I remember he hath made publick Challenges to some in prints, who pretended to fault his doings. Whereby it appears, that the Doctors questioned not for cavilled at the matter, but the manner of his Writings: They were not fimply forry that fuch things were done, but that he that did them was not one of the Col-Medgel a Brother of their Order. Origanis, fol 699, tells us, that the Son in the Tenth House, (as in this Honour and Nativity) is a certain Argument of Honour and Preferment; and Q, a ge-Prefermen neral Significatrix of Honour, being in the Tenth also, portends the same Din Sextile of 39 and O in Reception with him, he being Lord of the Tenth, are certain Arguments of Honour, Fame and Renown: and indeed had not Who is Dominue Ascendentis, been in Opposition to the Sun, the general Significator of Honour, & a band in Quartile of &, the particular Defigner thereof in his Radix, the Native would have obtained a farthigher Degree; of Honour and Preferment then he did; but he was an Enemy to his own Preserment: Yet nevertheless he did in the latter part of his Life increase very much in his Reputation, and his Honour and Fame were generally taken notice of. If you would know by what means he should attain Fame and Credit, &c. Dbeing in Sextile of &, Lord of the Tenth, and Q, Lady of the Ninth, locally in the Tenth, thence casting a Sextile Aspect to the Ascendent, and g. Lord of the Sixth, there also, being the throngett Planer in the Figure : All which Arguments laid together, presage his Pame and Honour to come by studying Arts and Sciences; and that he should rise in the Opinion of the World, chiefly thereby: but this not without some difficulty, as one Quartite to 2 aprly lightles. It is very well known that he gained his Honour by Arts and Sciences, but chiefly by Physick; in the knowledge of which, he was most excellently skilled; and it was purely by that alone Study and Practice that he hath left a Name behinde him , which will remain until ame shall be no longer.

The fiery Planet & in the eighth House, in Quartile to h. Lord of the Af- what death cendent, and three Planets more, seems to portend a violent Death: but he might die the Sun being upon the Curp of the Mid-heaven, near the Body of Q, and in Reception with & and the Moon in the Sixth, in Sexcile to him also, takes off the edge of that suspition, and abates much of the Fury of &, and seems rather to portend the Native to die of a Consumption, or by a decay of na-

I have heard it credibly reported by some that were with him at the time of his Death, and contiantly in his Sickness, that he died of a Consumption which had been long upon him; and much Means (and that of the better fore) was used to enervate it; but it still prevailed upon him, wasting and consuming him by degrees, until it reduced him to a very Skeleton, or Anatomy; and afterwards, viz. on Munday the tenth of January 1653. released him, and gave him his Pasport to a better World: The Moon then being in Quartile to the Radical place of 3, and the Sun in Quartile to his own. and to the place of h in his Nativity ; h and 4 being then in a direct Op polition.

Nor was it truely reported, that some Physicians designed his Death, by setting their Engines at work to poyson him. I do believe they were Enemies great enough unto him; yet I am confident, by this Report, they are egregiously scandalized, it being customary for Ill-will to speak the worst.

The Accidents by which this Nativity was verified, are these:

Aphorist. p. 395. In this Nativity this Aphorism is most exactly verified; and in truth, his Nativity was most happy to himself, though deltructive to many others. It is a general Rule also among Artists, Thus in what Geniure soever Cardinal Signes possess the Angles of the Figure, that Native is egregiously eminent, and violent and tyrannical in all his Astrons: The truth of this was verified in the Nativity of Carolus Gustavus King of Sweden, as welland as largely as in this Natives.

Had this great-spirited Person (for such a one he was; and as it was said of D' Amboyse in the Tragedie, Nature had breath's a Minde into his Entrailes,—to swell into another great Augustus Casar! had he, I say) been any thing but English, he had been the most accomplish'd and to be admired Person in the World! (as he was, he lived not onely the Wonder; but Terrour of it.) But for a Subject of England, (so born, and sworn to Obedience and Allegeance) not by Degrees, but by prodigious Leaps, to attempt the Soveraign Rule thereof, and this through the deepest of Difficulties, wie, the blest Blood of his sacred Soveraign; whose Priviledges he had vow'd to defend, and Person he had sworn to preserve; leaves such a scar upon him and his most daring and adventurous Actions, that the Canker-worm

Presuming that divers Artists will be curious in the scanning and perusing of this Genitute, Ishall, for their Assistance, and prevention of Trouble, present them with a Catalogue of several Accidents of his Life, and the Directions, &c. that were (in an Astrological sense) the proper Occasioners of them: and (with no small pains to me) they are these following.

An eminent Lady hearing of which, (as I have been credibly informed) went unto him, and defired him to forbear so vile an Action, for the Judgements sake it might bring upon the Kingdom, if not for the Perjury himself might be guilty of, and the whole Parliament also: unto whom he angerly, and like a Tyrant, reply'd, Madam! forbear to move me in this matter; for by the Life of GOD he must die, and the world cannot fave him. He had now the Sun directed to the Quartile of h, and his Part of Fortune to the Oppolition of 9.

7. In the year 1649. having done his Villany in England, and hearing of some Matters that might prove Impediments to him and his defired Soveraignty, in Ireland, he in haste marches over thither to allay the Fury of what that Opposition portended. He was fortunate in that Undertaking more from his general then particular Fate: yet he was fick in Ireland of a Flux and Fever; the Moon being directed ad Quartilum proprium, and Contrantiscion of 11.

8. In the years 1650, and 1651, having been glutted with Success in England and Ireland, and his Irch of Soveraignty still prevailing, (being drunk with the same Ambition as was Rollo Duke of Normandy, (and in some sence a greater Pride) who was always crying, (as rendred by the Tragedian) A Crown, a Crown; O sacred Rule now fire me!) he marched into Scotland to subdue all Opposition there, that endeavoured to confront his Aims. And

It is observeable, that when he came to turn out his Masters, the Rumpers, (such was his then hatred to Superstition, that) he cryed out at the fight of the Speaker's Mace, Away with this idolatrons Bable! yet afterwards held it no Vanity to have three such carried before his Tyrantship: He had now the Sun directed to the Body of 4, and to the Sextile of the Moon, and the Part of Fortune to the Sextile of Q. I need not tell you how this Villain made use of the basest of Instruments in the best of Professions, to uphold this his usurped Dominion: viz. both in Law, Divinity, and Astrologie y allowing them liberal Pensions for their Services performed on his behalf.

Fortune was now directed to a Sextile of h, Lord of the Tenth; a good Revolucion, &c.

knowing his Friend Oliver's Wiles, was unwilling to undertake this weighty Affair, until he had been advised by Lilly what the Success thereof would amount unto; and therefore gives him his Nativity to direct him by. But Lilly being Sir John's Masters Creature, viz. Oliver's, would never predict any thing contrary to his blessed Patron's Undertaking: and so deals by Sir John, as in the Swedish Business he did by Sir G. A. one lost his Life, the other his Honour. Howbeit, Oliver's Designes went on somewhat the better for this Parasites Knavery: for he had now the Sun directed to a Sextile of 2; a fir time to advantage himself by Traytors and Trepanners.

England died at White-hall in London; (a Palace never built for him.) This was a day remarkable with him; which he idolizing in his Mock-thanks to God Almighty, it pleased God to give Satan leave to put a Period to his Tyrannies: which he did, having before sent him a Monition of his intention, by a strange and prodigious Storm of Winde, the like hath seldom been known. But he whose Head and Heart were full of the Tempest of Tyranny, Murther, Dissimulation, Perjury, &c. in his Life-time, it could not be expected but Nature should give a Groan to be delivered from him at the last. The Ascendent (which is Hylech or Giver of Life in this Nativity) was then directed to the Quartile of the cruel Planet Mars in Cancer his Fall; and this in the fourth House of his Radix, viz. the end of all things. Which malitious Direction being attended on with the progress of the Sun to the Head of Herenles, and the Part of Fortune to the Square of the Moon; and all these concomitated with a most strange and remarkable Return of the three superious Planets (but a little before) to their true Radical places; were Arguments both eminent and sufficient of the Death of this (to England) prodigious Native in that year.

For a Proof of the Concurrencie of Revolutional Figures with Directions, I shall present you with his last Revolutional Scheme; which (because it is eminently considerable) take as followeth.

N this Revolutional Figure we finde (as most ominous and fatal) h returned to his Radical place, in Opposition to the Ascendent of the Radix, and the Lord thereof: and in of 1, and this in the fourth House, viz. the Grave, or the end of all things. And as a fit second to so remarkable and cruel a Position, here is 3. Lord of the Ascendent of the Radix, in Conjunction of 4. Lord of the Eighth thereof; and

All which dangerous Configurations. Politions and Transits, concurring with such malignant and cruel Directions; as before I have largely noted, might very well (as indeed it most seasonably did) proclaim a most fatal year unto the Native, and happily put a Period to his Life.

At the very moment of his expiring, the Sun, who is Fons Vitalis, and Lord of the Sixth in the Badix and Ascendent in the Revolution, was in Conjunction with &, Lord of the Ascendent of the Radix, in the eighth House, viz. the House of Death, near unto the Radical place of the Moon; and &, their nimble Dispositor, in the Radical place of the malignant Planet h; and the Moon in the Radical place of d, in Opposition to them both, as may be feen by the following Figure. Marry Ise tell ye what he is; he is ene war se then the Devil; and I se prove it too: for the holy Scripture faith, Gif ye refist the Devil, he's flee from ye; but gif ye resist Cromwel, marry he's flee in your face: therefore Cromwel is marse then the Devil. Indeed he was a Person of a mighty and undaunted Resolution; and (as by his Nativity appears) had more thereof then he had Reason: yet Success often-times made his Resolution seem Reason. He was always a Victor; was never conquered by any Opponent, fave that, which Hercules, himself could not withstand, viz. his last Antagonist,-

3. 3 and h in Opposition, makes a famous Rebel, (3 being Lord of the Ascendent:) and both in Square of 4, makes him observe Law and Religion for his own Ends.

4. All the Planets under the Earth, (as here they are except 3) when they promise Honour, Dignity and Renown, they generally perform it in the latter part of a Mans Life.

5. The Lord of the Eleventh stronger then the Lord of the Seventh, the Native overcomes his greatest Enemies: here it was so. This was verified also in the King of Denmark's Nativity. See Nuncins Astrologicas.

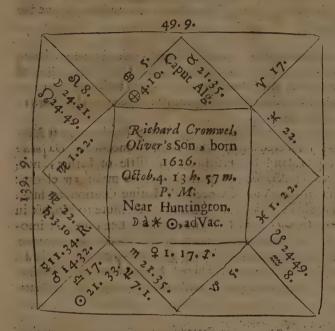

6. The Returns of the superiour Planets to their Radical Places in any Revolution, portends a faral year to the Native. If an ill Direction concurrit is unavoidable; unless by Prayers and Tears prevented.

Conjunction, is dangerous, although the Lord of the Eighth of the Radix, in Conjunction, is dangerous, although the Lord of the Eighth be a good Planet; for every Planet performs his Office according to his Relation, and the Power he hath in the Figure. Thus U and Q may be Infortunes per accident, and hand & Fortunes; though per se they are otherwise.

8. The Cusp of the Sixth of the Radix ascending in a Revolution, and the Lord of the Sixth thereof in the Fourth, are Arguments of a dangerous year.

H. Of RICHARD CROMWEL.

Resident Crommel was born near Huntington, in the year of our Lord 1626. on Ottober 4. 13 hours, 57 minutes, Post Meridiem. The Heavens were then posited, as by the following Figure is represented.

'His is the Nativity of Richard Crommel 3 a Person who had the Impudence to presend a Right to the Government of England , Scotland and Ireland ; upon no other score but because Goodwin, Owen and Nye, (Oliver's Creatures) swore it was his Fathers Will upon his Death-bedsthat he should succeed in the Government. It is very probable the old Gentleman might be prodigal enough, to give that away which was none of his own; and these Men might swear the same truely: but yet methinks Richard might have considered what had been his Fathers Right to have given him; for he could not but know, that his Father was never born to the Crown of England; nor himself neither, which in some sort was the better and more deserving Gentleman,

But now to the Figure Astrologically. To be plain, it is one of the meanest and poorest Nativities that ever I yet saw or beheld (and I have seen five thousand) for a Person that was a Governour or chief Magistrate over three Nations especially. For here is not one Planet essentially dignished in the whole Figure; scarcely one of them truely in his own Terms; which is the very meanest of Essential Dignities. And if the Fortifications of the Planets promise Happiness, their Debilities must necessarily shew ill success.

But then divers will be apt to object,——If his Nativity be so bad, how came he to so great a Fortune? I answer:— What he enjoyed was rather a Mil-fortune then a Fortune; for he was but a Pageant or Stalking-horse to the Pride of others, and onely served their Ends and Aims, as a Protector of Clouts might have done. Howbeit, in a qualified sense, I allow his titular Honour was very great; yea, so great, that you see it quickly sunk the Ship of his waning Fortunes: but I deny that this titular Honour was an Effect of his own Nativity, but of his Fathers. As Maximilianus Stampa attained all his Honours, Dignicies and Preferments by the Grace and Favour of Sforza, Duke of Millain, he taking a more then ordinary Affection unto him: so this Native came to be vested with the Government, and the Honour of supreme Magistrate of these Nations, not by any particular Configuration, Position or Aspect in his own Nativity, but onely as he was the Son and Favorite of Oliver his Father; who did what he could to leave him a friendly Legacie. Indeed he happened to have about that time some good Directions operating, and that hope to make amends for his ill Radical Positions.

Now, that you may know this to be the true Nativity of this Person, take these following Accidents, as compared with Directions, and they prove the true Rectification thereos.

then a Hunting, he had the Mis-fortune to break his Thigh by a Fall from his Horse; of which he ever after continued lame, and is like never to be cured. He had then by Direction the Ascendent to the Body of b, Lord of Fifth and Sixth in his Nativity.

2. Being aged (as before) viz. in July 1657. he was (with no great Affection of the University) elected and installed Lord Chancellor of Oxford:

M. C. ad A O, officia publica & honores, ac à rege vel magno principe munera & gratiam, ac favorem nato poblicetur: unde & res suas ita instituet, ut magnanimus, munificus, nihil humile cogitans habeatur, & reipublicæ cum laude vel præsit judicetur ab omnibus. Orig.

but, Poor Man! he understood but little of Latine, notwithstanding Needham reported him to make an elegant Return to the Vice-Chancellor's Latine Oration to him: which could be indeed no other then the Mute to Moross in the filent Woman, viz. by Signes with his Leg, and an insolent Nod or two, to inform them of his impudent Acceptance. But to bear him out in a greater piece of Considence, (had a greater matter been offer'd him) he had now the Medium Cæli ad Trinum Solis per Directionem operating in his Nativity.

3. In the 32 year of his Age, viz. in September 1658. after the Death of old Oliver his Father, he was proclaimed (in his stead) Protector of England, Septland and Ireland, &c. and had many Addresses from all parts presented unto him in a Congratulatory way, (as it was then sycophantickly worded) all promising to live and die with him, they acknowledging him to be the undoubted Heir to Englands Crown. And to add to these Ignes fatni, our comes a quacking Altrologer in his May's Observations 1659. (at what time poor Richard was turn'd out of all) and predicts like a fawning Parafite, ____ That the English Lord Protector now enters upon the Stage, and ma-nifests himself to the whole world, that he hath sound Abilities to govern, and found Judgement to distinguish both secret Enemies, and sneaking Friends : he is abundantly courted from several parts of Christendome, &c. - Richard Lord Protector of England Stoops not, is not terrified with words, provides for all eccasions. And towards the months end, ____ Is made happy with welcome News, &c. And in his general Prediction of Lyes, he writes,mans heart fail; the Sun seems to us to shine as well on the present Lord Protector his Actions, as on his deceased Fathers. Thus did divers parasitical Wretches chant forth their Fictions and lying Elogiums to this their new Saint Richard: all Functions and Arts, &c. were made Hackney-Heraulds to proclaim (what the Heavens were totally against) the Continuation of this Pageant of Regality. Upon which I remember a learned English Artist thus Poetically writes:

Captain Wharton's Calend. Eccles. 1660. in March. But where be those fine Juglers did Address
Such sugred Phrase, such smooth Obsequiousness:
That wow'd to live and die with Richard, yet
Ne'er blemisht, when they saw his Glory set?
Such Hypocrites, ran with the stream of things,
And will keep Time whatever, dance begins.

At this time Richard Crommel had no Direction but the Part of Fortune ad Trinum Veneris, and the Medium Cali ad Trinum Solis in Gemini, London's Ascendent, (not fully over;) which in divers respects were good, but I deny that they were of force tomake him so noted a Spectacle: and indeed, had

had not his Happiness (if so it may be termed) in that Asion been dependent upon his Fathers Fate, nothing in his Nativity (as I said before) could ever have brought such a thing to pass.

III. Of Massianiello the Fisher-man's Nativity.

Assignatello the Fisherman of Naples, was born near Naples, in the year of our Lord 1620. on June 19. five hours, twenty nine minutes after Noon, under the Latitude of 41 Degrees; and the Figure of Heaven is as followerh.

His Gentleman in the beginning of the seven and twentieth year of his Age, (notwithstanding his poor . obscure, nay, scarce known Original) begins to oppose the Power of the King of Spain, undet pretence of crying down the Gabels and Taxes: (as Crommel did the King of England, by perswading People to labour after Liberry of Conscience, and a Freedom from Tythes.) And in few days had so ordered his business, that he was become the Head of an innumerable factious Multitude; who being at his beck and command, followed him at the heels of every Undertaking: and to satisfie the people, would not directly in words oppose the King of Spain; but as if they intended as religiously as the best, their common Cry was Viva Dio, Ro di Spagna & Massianiello: Let GOD live, and let the King of Spain live, and Massianiello live also. By which Means he encreased his power dayly; and as his power encreased, his Commands issued out accordingly: Some of which were, That the People under pain of Life and Firing, should have Lights (every night) in their Windows: so that he made streets as light by night as by day. And that all should go en cuerpo without Cloaks, and the Bishops and Priests without Cassocks; and Ladies and Gentlewomen were commanded not to go abroad in wide-hoop'd Gowns or Kirtles, because they might not convey Arms underneath them. At length, Massianiello concludes a Peace with the Vice-Roy, and thereupon becomes his Companion, having his Wife cloathed in Cloath of Gold, and himself as rich: all Tribunals were shur up, and no Person was obey'd but Massianiello, who did even what he pleased: commanded Gibbers to be set up in divers places of the City; which struck great Terrour into the Hearts of all people. While Massianiello was acting these unparallel'd things, he had the Medium Cali directed to the Trine of the Moon, which occasioned the Rabble-Rout so to adore him; as alto to the Virgins Spike, a most glorious fixed Star: but as Prolomy himself saith, Although the fixed Stars do designe admirable Preferment, yet the Honour they bring, ends in unusual Calamity, &c. And thus it proved with Mas-

For after all his great Acts performed, and the Peoples honouring and adoring him; the raising of his Kindred, suppressing and destroying of his Enemies, and doing whatsoever he would; behold! a Company of venturous Blades hearing he was in a Church, went thither, and found him airing himfelf, and there they surprized and dispatched him, and cut off his Head; at which Action of theirs, and unfortunate end of his, the people never grieved in the least, but dragged his Body up and down the City, with great Acclamations of Joy, that so famous a Rebel was departed; and afterwards they interred him in a Dike. He had now the Ascendent directed to the Opposition of E.

Thus fell this bold Fisher-man of Naples; a most unparallel'd Fellow, and of as egregious a Fortune. He Reigned (saith my Author) as absolutely as any Soveraign in the World for the space of eight days and eight hours; and we may say, more absolutely then any Kings use to do; for they are restrained by Laws, but Massianiello was beyond the bounds of any: for during this short time, he caused to be kill'd by his own Order two hundred and fifty persons, and that suddainly, giving them onely time to confest; and unto some he would give none. In sine, he was thought to be more then a Man; and that what he ordered, was ordained by God himself. See Mr. Homes's History of him.

Thus much in brief of the famous Rebel of Naples.

The Latitude of the Planets.

d. 113. 10 South. 2 27 North

Here present the Reader with one of the most remarkable Nativities I ever yet met with (of a Su ject's) in the whole course of my Studies; it is nor indeed commonly to be parallel'd among the most illustrious Radixes: the nearest that I finde unto its is that of Gustaves Adolphus, the great King of Sweden; and that, Consideratio Considerandio, is not in many things so excellent a Geniture as this: as may be seen in the first Part of this Book.

In this Nativity, the Regal Signe a ascends the Horoscope, the last of the fiery Triplicity: 4, Lord thereof, is the most potent Planet in the Figure; he is posited in X, his own House, in Conjunction of the Moon, and both of them in Trine and Reception of the fortunate Planet Q: v, the natural Patron of Ingenuity, Ge. is not onely in II, but in Cazime Solis, and Angular; o, the Lord of the Eleventh and Fourth Houses, is posited in y, his greated Dignities. But besides these singular Positions of more then o'dinary Signification, it is very remarkable, and worthy to be noted, that in the whole Figure, There is not one Planet in his Detriment, Fall, Peregrine, Rer ograde, Combutt, or in an ill place of Heaven. Which being fold to an A till in London, with a defire of his thoughts thereupon, he replyed hyperbolically, - That the Native must expett the Effects of Juch Noble Significations in the other world: for he thought that this World could not afford him them. But certainly if the Stars have Influences upon humane Bodies, (as ellewhere I have sufficiently proved) they must be known before the Bodies Annihilation, and in the time of its combating with Mortality, or not at all.

this worthy Native was aged five years, he had the Measels: the Sun was then directed ad [] 3. (2.) At eleven years, he was invaded with an Ague and Fever: D was then directed ad 6 3. cum Latituding. (3.) At 18 years old, he took a Voyage to Holland; which was the net Jesu of attaining great Honour, &c. Medium Cali was then directed ad 2. Lady of the Tenth; and the next year followings helpad ad 21.

Divers other things may be observed from this Nativity; but having no particular Licente either for this I have done, or for more, I shall forbear. I have adven ared to publish this, it being a Nativity so remarkable, and fence of Judicial Aftrologie, written in answer to a Book published against Astrologie, by Mr.

John Chambers: in which Defence, this learned Knight was so exact in his Responses, so satisfactory and full in his Arguments, so strenuous in his Pre of thereof, that when once Mr. Chambers (who no question was a great Scholat) had seen and perused it, and found the same unanswerable, and his own Arguments so fully resuted and resorted, he for very grief died. Divers others since Mr. Chambers's time, have pretended to answer this unanswerable Work; as Vicars, Rowland, &c. who have so far failed in their Enterprize, that they have (in stead of proclaiming themselves Scholats to the World) made themselves the very Pageants of Envy, Ignorance and Folly;

The Book it felf is of fuch excellent Use; in that it antwers all O sections brought against the Art, from Reason, Scriprures, School-men, Fathers, Councils; and that in so plain and familiar a way of Reasoning, that I should advite every young Student to acquaint himself therewish: that by it, he may be enabled to understands first, what it is he would study; and secondly how, to defend the same against the malitions and ignorant Oppugners of the Art.

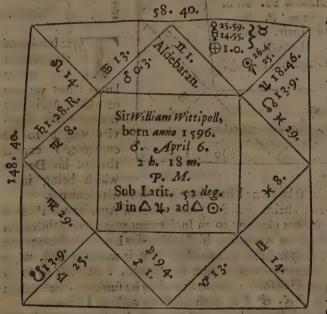

In the Figure, we finde II (the latter pare thereof) ascending the Horo-scope; and \(\frac{1}{2}\), Lord thereof, in me his greatest Dignities, there in exact Trine to \(\frac{1}{2}\), and Sextile to \(\frac{1}{2}\): Arguments of very great Learning, Ingenuity, Sagacity and Prudence. The Moon is in \(\frac{1}{2}\), in Conjunction of that Noble Star called \(Spica Virginis\), and in exact Trine to \(\delta\) and the \(Medium Cali\); which denoted in this honoured Native, not onely a sharp and active Fancie, which quickned him in his Studies; but gave him great Courage and Resolution, \(\theta c.\). For you must understand, he was as well a Souldier as Scholar; and both by Sword and Pen did purchase himself such lasting Honour and Fame, that time will never wear out.

This worthy Native died in the year 1620. a little before his fifty ninth year of Age began; he had then operating by Direction the Ascendent ad Martis cum Latitudine, and this in A.

That he had the hard hap to be engaged in Duels often; in which Engagements, three Men were flain by him. It cannot but be ill provoking him, that hath many Planets above the Earth; especially if they shall be in the Dignities, or in any Aspect of 3, or near eminent fixed Stars; as most of them are in this Geniture.

Geniture. Howheir, this worthy Native should by his Nativity have been a Person of a Noble Nature, hating to do or commit any dishonourable Act: for he hath Q, his chief Significator, in the House of Q, and in Platique Conjunction with her in the ninth House, in Trine to the Ascendent. It is true, the Moonin Q, in Trine to Q her Dispositor, and to the Sun in Q his Exaltation, and the House of Q, might denote him of Spirit and Courage so great, that he would scorn to pass by Injuries or Affronts without taking notice of them: but that is an Argument of an Inclination and Minde rather honourable, then unworthy or low-orbed. And indeed in alk his Geniture, there is not one Argument of an Inclination in him to Homicide, though it was his grand Missortune (most probably through high and insolent Provocations) to have his Hands stained with the Blood of three Men.

Having not other Accidents to verifie this Nativity by in particular, I shall

felf remarkable for its sake alone I have here published his Geniture.

Anno 1659. February, being then forty nine years of Age, he was Pressed to Death in London, for not pleading to an Indictment preferred against him, for killing one Mr. Fussel an Astorney, his Brother-in-Law. Whether the Fact was justly charged upon him, or unjustly; or if it were the first, what Provocations he might have to induce him thereunto. I have not to do to enquire: true it is, he died for it; and at that time he suffered, he had the Ascendent directed ad & S. & S. both with and without Latitude.

The Arguments of a violent Death, are many: (1.) The two Infortunes having Dignities in the eighth House. (2.) Canda Dracons posited in the Eighth. (3.) The Lord of the Eighth in the Tenth, (Ferrier says) declares Death to the Native to come by some Law which he hath offended.

(4.) Both the Luminaries in violent Signes, (Argol saith) are Arguments of a violent Death. (5.) The Lord of the Ascendent in a violent Signe,

His Revolution for the year of his Death, was most ominous and cruel: for therein h was upon the opposite place of the Sun in the Radix, and that from the Tenth and Fourth Angles; the Figure it self (almost) opposite to that of the Radix; and the siery Planet & in Opposition to the Ascendent thereof, and very near the Ascendent of Birth; the Moon (also) was in Quartile to the Revolutional Ascendent. All which concurring with two such dangerous Directions, have a most apt and proper Signification of the time of this Natives Death, and of the violencie of it also.

work] Crommel knighted him at white hall: he had then the Sun directed ad \triangle Luna. On the day this pretended Honour was conferred, the Sun was in exact Trine to his Radical place, and unto the Ascendent of the Radix alfo: the Moon was then in Conjunction of \mathcal{U} , but in Opposition to his Radical place, yet in Trine to that of her own.

Anno 1657. on May the 4th, this Native found to what purpose he was Knighted; for then he went General over 6000 Men into Flanders: the Effect of that Undertaking is known notoriously to have been mischievous; most of the Men were lot, and himself, with Colonel White, and others, as they were returning for England, on December 5. (the same year) were drowned.

On the day he went forth, viz. May 4. h was (almost) Stationary upon the Quadrate place of the Moon. The Sun and & were in Quartile, the one squaring, the other opposing, his ninth House; (which hath Signification of Voyages.) The Moon also was in exact Opposition to the Ascendent of the Radix. In all respects, a time most dangerous for such an Undertaking; as at last it proved unto this Native. He had now operating by Direction the Ascendent ad & D. Lady of the eighth House; and to the Dios the Sun, Lord of his Ninth. His Revolution that year was also very malitious, and concordant with his Directions and Transits then operating: as may be seen by the Figure.

N this Figure, h Lord of the Eighth, is in exact Opposition to the Sun, Lord of the Alcendent: and this from the third and Ninzh Houfes and violent Signes: an eminent Argument of the kinde of death he fuffered of was in Quirtile to the Radical place of 1, the Lord of othe Ascendent of his Nativity. On the day he was drowned, h and of (the two Infortunes) were in perfect Opposition, from the Tenth and Fourth Angles of the Radical and Revolutional Figures; and the Moon upon the opposite place of 1, Lord of the As-cencent of the Radix.

The Arguments of a violent End, are, (1.) & his being in Opposition to the Ascendent from violent fixed Stars. (2.) D, Lady of the Lighth, in Quartile of the Sun, from violent Signes. (3.) E in Opposition to Q, Lady of the Tenth, and in Quartile to the Ascendent from the ninth House.

For the kinde of violent Death, viz. by Water: 5, a Watry Signe, is upon the Cusp of the eighth House, and the Lady thereof is just entring w, a Signe wherein she receives her Detriment; and h, an Afflicter of the Ascendent by his Quartile, is by Longitude posited among the Stars of Jason's Ship Argos: All which (when there is a violent Death threatned) are Signes it shall be by Water.

or was or indeed is like to be. For he hath been employed in the great Bufiness of Drayning in Hampshire, and the Isle of Wight: in which as he hath had more then ordinary good Success, so he hath had more then common unhappy Fortune. He hath also had to do with the great Affairs of two eminent Kings of Europe, viz. those of Denmark and Sweden; and in the thirty fixth year of his Age compleat, and thirty seventh current, had a Commission as Colonel to raise a Regiment; and he did so: the Medium Cali was then directed ad & O. and the Alcendent ad Sextilum Saturni. But in. this Undertaking he was also unfortunate; and by Treachery had his Regiment taken from him, when he had been at the Pains, Care and Charge to. transport them with Sun at the same time was also directed ad & Saturnia cum & fine Latitudine: which Direction being of more mischievous tendencie then ordinary did not end its Effects here; but a little after he came over into England again, was engaged into a Law-Controversie for 200 / of his own money which he had made over to a Person in trust; which said Person for his defence, pretended a Bond of a thousand pounds which was forged against this Native, for payment of 500 l. to a third Person; but after a year or two's Contest, he call them all in Chancery, &c. and recovered his monies: he had then I directed ad Cor A, & Ascendentem, and a good Revolution to affilt him.

Now, if you would know, why a Person of private Fortune should come to such publick Honour and Preferment; you must take notice that all the Planers in the Scheme of his Nativity, are, not onely supraterram, above the Earth; but in the Tenth and Eleventh Houses posited; and the Moon, 2 and 1 effentially dignified, and in good Aspect to each other. It is true, Canda Dracono its Position in the Tenth, doth eclipse the Honour and Eminencie the other Positions so aprly denote; and h in the Eleventh, makes his Friends false-hearted, and his greatest Hopes oftentimes to faile him. And thus we see a Harmony between the Effects of Directions, and the Influences of general Politions.

because it so exactly agrees with several eminent Accidents of his Life. As (1.) In the year 1648, he received great Addition of Honour in the Army : Medium Culi was then directed ad Trinum Jovus; an excellent Direction to fignifie the fame. (2.) Being aged 36. he was made Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports: Medium Culi ad [12. (3.) Aged 37. he was made Chief Justice in Eyre, within the Forest of Dean: D directed then ad Trinum Mar-Aged near 40 years, he was made General against Sir George Booth of the Moon was then directed ad A Jovis. But this Direction happening in the seventh House, denoted the Honour it portended to be of no long contimuance; nor was it. (4.) Aged 41. he was imprisoned in the Tower for being nor conformable to the Rump-Parliament's Defignes. A little after escaped from the Tower, was proclaimed Traytor; and in Northam pronshire taken by Colonel Ingoldsby, and committed to the Tower again. He had then the Ascendent ad \square Martis by Direction, and the Medium Coli directed ad & Lune, & Saturni, cum & sine Latitudine: which most aprly signified these Unhappinesses unto him. (5.) Being aged near 43 years; he was (with Sir Henry Vane), brought to True Latitudine shows the Sires Parish was (with Sir Henry Vane) brought to Tryal at the Kings Bench Bar ; was found guilty of the Charge exhibited against him, and condemned to the for the same : but our gratious King reprieved him immediately; even as soon as his Sentence was past. He had now to prejudice hims oud & by Direction; but to affilt him , the O was directed ad Sextilum proprium. I le is observable, when he escaped from the Tower, that h was upon the Cusp of the Medium Coli in his Radix , and & upon the Quadrate place of his Shing and I in the Eighth, upon the Quadrate places of the Moon and h in his Na tivity: then the which (together with the Directions before remembered) there can be nothing more plain to denote the Infelicity of that Under-

And now (before I conclude this Nativity) to shew the ingenious Artifle a more eminent Proof of the Effects of an unfortunate Election. I shall prefent him with the Figure of Heaven, under which this Native advanced towards the North, to oppose General Monck; it being an Observation worthy to be known to Posterity. It is true, the Directions before noted, did generally portend the unhappy (yet happy) issue of that Undertaking. But the Minute of his advance being known, is a more particular Radix for such particular Action; and therefore more particularly to be considered.

His was the true positure of Heaven s at what time Major General Lambert put his Foot in the Stirrup to march toward the North, to meet the valiant Lord General Moncks then advancing our of Scotland towards London; and a most sad Position it is, and exactly agrees with that Major General's Success he had by that unfortunate Undertaking. At the Moon is in a Watry Signe, in exact Conjunction of h, the cruellest and unfortunate of Planets, he had like to have been drowned in York shire, riding through a River toward his Army; where his Horse lest him to the mercy of the most merciles of Enemies, the Water; from whence he with much ado, escap'd. Thus was his Beginning ominous.

Hermes Trismegistus, Cent. Aphoris. 29. adviseth, ——Inexitu cujuscung: ad pugnam ——Sit ascendens domin Superiorum Planetarum, vel

© sit tam inse quam dominus ejus fortis: Dominus vero Septima debitis;

© impeditusa malis: (i.e.) When any one goeth to Wat ——let the Horoscope be a Signe belonging to the Superiour Planets, or the Sun; and let the Ascendent and his Lord be strongly fortissed: but debiticate the Body of the Seventh as much as you can, and let him also be hindred by the Body or malitious Rays of the Infortunes. This Quondam victorious Person, had not the good hap to set forth upon a time suitable to this Direction of Hermes; but on the contrary, at such a time when the Lord of the Ascendent was not onely in Detriments and in the eighth House, the most obscure place of the Heavens; but was in Gos also, the natural Significator, and grand Patron of War.

The learned Guido Bonatus, fol. 459. saith, ——If he that sets forth to Battel, intend to obtain the Victory over his Adversary, he must either have one of the Houses of Mars ascending, or Mars in good Aspect of the Moon, Ascendent, or the Lord thereof. But in this Figure, there was no such thing: Ergo, it could not be expected otherwise, then that he should be worsted, and come off with loss in that Undertaking: chiefly, in that the Lord of the Ascendent is Cadent, and the Lord of the Ascendent Angular in domo Martin.

There are divers eminent Persons in London that have heard me relate the Mis-fortune that happened upon that Expedition, long before the Conclusion thereof; even as soon as the March it self was beginning. And indeeds had I considered nothing but the Moon her Conjunction of hin decima domo, and Canda Draconis in the Fourth, together with the Angularity of 2, and ill Location of 4, it had been easie to have pronounced (as then I did) No great Felicity or Pleasure in the beginning of that Undertaking; and nothing but bitterness in its end.

Should any enquire into the reason of this Major Generals coming off peaceably, and without any questioning in that Designe, (for so he diditions he was therein unsuccessful) it is eminently considerable, that the Lord of the Tenth applies ad Dom. Ascendentis, doubly; first, as he is a lighter Planet; secondly, as he is Retrograde; and the learned Haly says, fol. 85.—Si dominus Medii Cieli applicuerit domino Ascendentis, juvabit eum libere, & sine petitione. All England remembers, that while this (then) eminent Person was in the North with his Army, the Parliament at London voted him Indempnity, without the least request or desire from him, but freely of their own accord; being (it seems) willing to obliviate his present Failings, and force committed upon them, and indulge him a free Pardon, in Compensation of his former Adventures on their parts. This very Example may be of good use, and serve to instruct others,—That it is ill to strive against the Stream; and that no Man can thrive by fighting against the Fates. Beginnings are always deemed ominous.

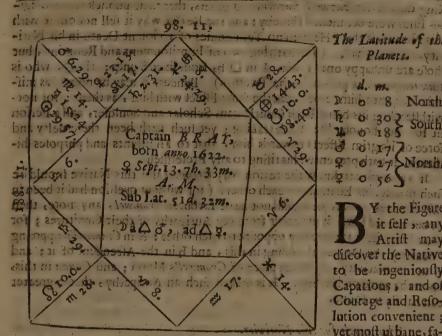

Rarus Principii est exitus bonus mali e

"Things ill begun, do seldome come to good.

The great Philosopher absolutely avers, 'Adsorres in T of it is impossible (saich he) but that that which is faulty at the first, should prove ill at the last. It it most conspicuously true in this: for how many hundreds have been sharers in this unfortunate Gentlemans sufferings? How many both in England and Scotland, yea, in Ireland also, have been cashiered their Employments, by their (unsuccessful) Zeal to him, in espousing his Interest? and all, in not readily perceiving the depth of that Undertaking; or knowing unto what Butt the Arrow of that Designe would be directed. 'Tis an old Adage, Sapiens debet incipere à sine: A wise Man should always take his beginning from the end of his Business; and then he may be sure to prosper.

Lady therethe Sun; & (though in the Twelfth) is in ng, (his House and Exaltation) in Trine of the Moon, and in Sextile of 12 in S'in the Tenth: these declare his Ingenuity and Urbanity; and for his Courage and Valour; the Moon in Trine of sis of most eminent Signification. These things (I say) are plainly to be seen by the Figure it self: but I have a particular knowledge of the Gentleman whose Nativity it is, and thereby have the advantage of a more absolute knowledge of them, and can experimentally prove the Rules of Altrologie (herein) to be good.

For his Courage and Valour, I can give a more then ordinary instance thereof: In the 26 year of his Age, viz. Anno 1648. he being then a Captain of a Troop of Horse in the Army, and observing the grand Villanies that were then a hatching among them, as the Black Remonstrance, and other to-be-abhorred things, he opposes the grand Ingineer Gromwel, therein, and publickly protests against such their Proceedings: for which they send him to Windsor Castle; where many years together he was kept close Pri- Hurst saftle foner.

There is another thing which I have been acquainted with, that in a great measure declared his Loyalty, and (the time considered in which he agitated it) his Courage also; and that was a Designe to surprize Windsor-Callle, wherein he was Prisoner, and rescue his then sacred Majesty from the bloody Defignes of his Enemies; of which I have heard it reported, that Sir Richard Brown knew, who was then a Prisoner in the same Castle with this Native. But, poor Gentleman! his Designes failed him, by the Treachery of some employed therein, to his unexpressible grief: yet it is no wonder; for he had now operating Medium Cali ad & h, cum & sine Latitudine, a Direction of most cruel tendencie, and under which he hath laboured ever fince; and I am fuspitious will do, until the year 1667, at what time the Sun will come ad [] h, and D ad [] g; which will be the forty fifth year of his

The Direction of the M.C. to h, was so cruel to the Earl of Strafford, King Carolus Gustavus of Smeden, and others, that their publick and prodigious Ends were occasioned thereby: and the Reason why it fell not out so with this Native, is this; He hath no Testimonies of a violent Death in his Nativity, and they had. (He hath but two of Imprisonment and Restraint, but those are unhappy ones; vize D in Dh, from fixed Signes: the , who is Lux temporis, is posited in the Twelsth.) Besides, it may be termed as inscribed our unto hims as if it had the same Effect with him, as them: for notwithstanding his being both Gentleman, Scholar and Souldier, and a Person sit for any homourable Undertaking; yet such hath been the cruelty and sorce of its grim Effects towards him, that to all intents and purposes his themo, it hathpreyented his rising to any Preference.

If any defire to know the reason why Crommel and this Native should be such prodigious Enemies to each other, (for without question had it been in this Natives power, he would not have favoured Crommel, any more, then he bestriended him) it proceeds from the Antipathy of their Genitures; for their Nativities are directly opposite to each other: 3 in Crommel's opposing (nearly) the Degree ascending in this, and hin the Ascendent of it; and 3 in this Nativity, upon the place of Crommel's Moon; and Cauda in this, upon the place of his Sun. It is indeed such an Antipathy, that a greater

His Native, many years before he died, was blind of both Eyes. He lost his right Eye at five years of Age; there was then no Direction operating; but in that year there happened two Eclipses of the Luminaries, one of the Sun, and the other of the Moon; and both of them very great ones, and in the Moons Radical place. He loft his other, viz. his left Eye, about nine or ten years of Age: the Ascendent was then directed to the Pleiades, and nearly to the Body of o.

When he was 13 years of Age, he had both Ague and Fever; and this violent: the Ascendent was then directed ad Corpus Saturni, both with

Being near 32 years of Age, he died, (the Disease I could not learn) but the Moon was then directed ad Oppositum Saturni cum Latitudine: he then had newly transited the place of the Sun in his Radix, amount

The Arguments of Blindness in this Nativity, are in general these: (1.) The Infortunes afflicting the Sun within Orbs. (2.) The Sun entring the Milky-way, and with violent fixed Stars; and the other Luminarie being in via Combusta. (3.) The Conjunction of hand 3 with the Pleiades in the Ascendent.

Argol says, The Pleiades with the Moon in the Ascendent, denotes great Defetts in the Eyes; & aliquando etiam sine Luna; they also signification from Luna; they also signification without the Moons being with them there, certainly it may well be then, when both the Infortunes are not onely there, but there afflicting the Sun. It is such a Nativity, that I am not able to parallel with Example: I insert it, to the end it may be serviceable to others, that may occasionally meet with the like Nativity; as certainly the moneth June 1646, may afford many, and June and July 1676, may produce many more.

The Native was a great Precisian, and very violent in any Opinion that he espoused: that I conceive may be occasioned by the great Reception between D and B. Lord of the Ninth, and the Platique Trines of D. D and D. and the Conjunction of B and S in his Ascendent, being in Platick D of D. as also the Lord of the Ninth his Position in the Ascendent. These are Arguments that may well denote an Enthusiast, or an obstinate Person in every Opinion he shall take a liking unto.

N this Nativity, there are no less then five Planets essentially dignified; viz. E. 45 6. 6. 9: and not one Planet (except 4) in an ill House of Heaven;

all of them direct in Motion: A Geniture more befitting a Prince, then a Merchant

Merchant, or Trader, &c. and doth declare the Native to be eminently prosperous and successful in all his Undertakings, except at such times when the Directions occur; and then he, as the greatest Potentates must submit to the unkind stroaks of Face. Besides these happy Positions, we may further observe, (as an Augmentation to their good Significations) the Virgins Spike is upon the Culp of the Medium Cali, the Sun and o are in Thine to the Ascendent: Which declare him to be of a generous Minde and Dil polition, being answered with a convenient Resolution and Ambition; for to the Sun and of their Trines to the Ascendent, do very aprly denote; as also of his Quartile to 14, it happening from Cardinal Signes. 14 in Platick Trine of &, Lord of the ninth House, and & in Trine of h, Lord of the Seconds should make his Profession not onely credible and delightful unto hims but gainful allo. And so it dothed notwithstanding the Moon her Opposition to g: for although that Aspect of it self be ill, yet &, Lady of the Tenth, and Disponerix of the Moon, collecting both their Lights by friendly Aspects, makes amends sufficiently for the ill Signification thereo intentia sotto

This Native is also inclineable to the study of the Mathematicks; (as is aprily denoted from the Partile Trine of 12 and 2 from earthly Signes) and in Astrologie (a principal Branch thereof) he is so well acquainted a that he both Calculated, and gave me this Scheme of his Nativity himself. Thus from general Observations, I proceed to some Particulars.

Anno etatu 12, he was put an Apprentice fifth of all the had then the Medium Cali directed ad Oppositum Mercurii: but he tattied hot full two years there. Thus we see Directions of the Hyleshs to the Opposition of a Planet will have its Effects; but it will then be of a shorter and more tropbled continuance, then unto the Trine or Sextile. Of this I could give many Instances.

Being aged about 19 years, and upward, the Native had an Ague, and some Detriment in point of Reputation, Gc. He had then the Ascendent directed ad Corpm Saturni, cam Batitudine, which plainly portended the same: but at the same time the Ascendent was directed ad \(\sigma \), and not past the Sextile of Q, which greatly meliorated the Fury of that Direction; otherwise it could not but have been much more mischievous and cruel.

Being aged 23 years, he obtained his Freedom of the City of London: he had then operating \oplus ad d ψ ; ψ being then nearly come to his Radical place, the second time from his Birth.

At the present, the Moon and 4 is operating: it is a very admirable Direction, and carmor but have remarkable Effects,

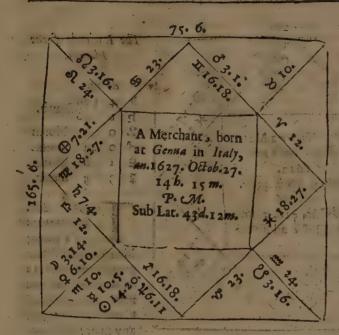

In the years 34 and 37 of his Age, upon the Effects of M.C. ad A 1, and Q ad * 11, the Effects of five Planets being effentially dignified in his Radix, may appear to purpose: their Significations must be good, and that in a great Degree; but the particular kinds thereof, I refet to time to difcover. Pon a suddain View of this Figure, no one would conceive it to be a Nativity portending much Wealth; yet before the Native was 32 years of Age, he was not less worth then 16000 l. which himself had increased by his Industry in Merchandizing, from less then 300 l. Stock, less him by his Friends; as I have often heard him to acknowledge: but upon a strict Examination, we shall finde not a few. Arguments to declare increase of Riches. As, (1.) the Moon in Conjunction of Q, Lady of the Second and Ninth, in the Second, (though in m) and in Sextile to \oplus . (2) 1, a Natural Significator of Riches, in Sextile to the second House, and in Quartile to the \oplus . (3.) The \ominus and ∇ (who is Lord of the Tenth) friendly irradiating the \oplus and Ascendent; ∇ being in a strong Reception of ∂ in the ninth House. These were not onely Testimonies of the Natives obtaining great store of Wealth by Merchandizing, but of his gaining eminent Credit and Esteem thereby; which this Native also had.

Now, as this Native hath been made happy with Riches, he hath in other things been unfortunate. As in the 24 year of his Age, he was imprisoned a whole year together; for what, he would not tell me; but this I am sure, the \mathcal{M} . C. was directed ad \square h, and the Ascendent to his Body, with and without Latitude: Directions most malicious, that would indeed have ruined him, both in Health and Honour, \mathscr{C} . had not \mathscr{M} . C. been at the same time directed ad \triangle Q, and the Ascendent ad \times \square , which preserved him both ways. It was at the same time transiting his Mid-heaven, which mightily aggravated the Mischief.

In the 21 year of his Age, he had a Violent and Pestilential Fever, of which he had like to have died: the ① was then directed ad & &. —— The Lord of the Ascendent in Conjunction of the Lord of the Twelsth, and Combust too, is a great Argument of Imprisonment; as also & in Opposition of 14.

years: and indeed his Nativity doth very plainly shew his Nessmos, or first Entrance upon the Theatre of the World, to be splendid and glorious; but his Kamseyan, or Exit, to be cruel, black and malitious: for here is my (an apt Signe for to Horoscopize at a Merchants Birth) ascending; and the benign Planer Q, Lady of the Tentin, fortifying the Horoscope, and in Sextile of Q, (an Aspect not usual) who is Lord of the Ascendent, and posted on the Cusp of the eleventh House: besides, the tenth House is fortified by the presence of the Moons South Node; and Q. Governess thereof, is in Trine of S, Lord of the Ninth. These, I say, are Arguments of a good beginning, and declare aprly the Natives Fame and Esteem he enjoyed in the first part of his years: but Now, (contrary to the received Rule, Bomum principum, bomus sins sequitur) behold the black and dismal Significations in the latter part of his years! viz. I and h, both in the Occidental part of Heaven; the latter of them, exactly opposing the Cusp of his second House; the Moon going to an Opposition of the from dolorous places of the Figure; and Canda Draconic in the south House.

To be brief, this Native; notwithstanding his great Fame, & and height of Living, (like a Comet or Blazing Star, when the matter of which it confiss, is exhausted) in the year 1639, had such crowds of Losses and Unhappinesses attending him, that in stead of keeping up his former splendour, he submitted to a rigid Eate, and broke for threescore thousand pounds: he had now operating by Direction, Dad Oppositum Veneris, Lady of the Mid-heaven, with and without Latitude; and Medium Celi ad D Saturni. In his Revolution that year, he had Jupiter in Opposition to the Mid-heaven of the Radix; & upon the place of the O, and E upon the Moons place; and that not onely at the Revolution, but all that year, and longer: Directions and Transits most dangerous and unfortunate.

Anno 1643. February, he died; being 32 years of Age currant: he had now the Sun directed to the Opposition of the Moon with Latitude; and \bigoplus directed ad \coprod Solis. —— 3 was at the same time in whis Exaltation; (and therefore the stronger to do Mischief) in exact Opposition of the Suns Radical place.

the Native a strange Temperature, did not the Beams of the Luminaries so happily assist; the one being in Trine to the Lady of the Ascendent, the other in Sextile to the Ascendent it self. Howbeit, the Native is at sometimes very melancholy and serious, as I well know: and it is nor amiss that he is so, otherwise of in his Ascendent, in Quartile (and great Reception) of hand Q, would be of too rash and violent Signification.

As he hath of the Patron of Ingenuity, in Sextile both of of hand the Deficient inclinable to many commendable things, in which the Brain is chiefly exercised; as Musick, and some parts of the Mathematicks; in which he hath attained a very handsome degree or measure of Knowledge; and this without the Assistance of any Tutor, as I often have heard him say. It may pass for an Aphorism in Astrologie, "That he who hash of in the House of in good Aspect of the Moon, and the Lord of the Ascendent, cannot but be very ingenious; and will naturally be inclined to the study of series out things, with such as are beyond the Conception and reach of common Understandings; chiefly, if he be not Combuit, and be posited under the Earth, as in this Nativity.

When this Native was four years and half old, he had the Small Pox, and that yery much: the Ascendent was directed ad 60 in =, an Aëreal Signe; perhaps one reason of his violence, and leaving so unhappy and lasting an impression behind him.

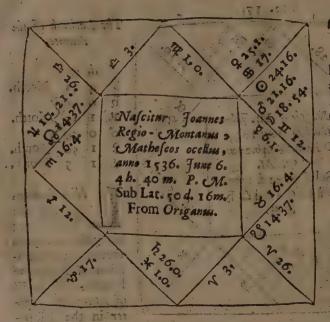

Being aged 12 years, he had an Ague continued 18 moneths upon him the Alcendent was directed then ad \square h, and both Significator and Promittor in the great Dignities of h.

Many other Arguments of the force of Directions I could inftance in; but my inferting this Nativity, is not so much for that, as to inform after-Ages,

That had this Native, in the stead of being brought up to Merchandize, been bred a Scholar, he might in his Age, have proved Nulli Secundus. And by this Example, I do also advise such Parents, who shall have Children born under such Positions, to train and breed them up according to their natural Inclinations: which viis & modis, (as this Native) they will endeavour after, let them be put or placed to what Profession soever.

His is the Nativity of that excellent Mathematician and Astrologer, Regio - Montanus, (as Origanus hath it, fol.724. de Effe-Itibus) who framed those excellent Tables of Directions, for all manner of Latitudes : before which time, Aftrologers were at such a loss, that they could not direct one Nativity then, in that space as now they may do ten.

To denote his Ingenuity and Excellencie in those Studies, he hath & in II, and the Lord of his Ascendent also, together with both the Luminaries: nor is the Ascendent it self, (it being the House of 3) to be noted for other then an Argument of Ingenuity likewise, it being bestriended by Caput Draconic his presence there.

Origanus brings in this learned Natives Geniture, as an Example of a violent Death; which it is mosterue, he unhappily suffered: he urges the Rule first, and then compares it with his Nativity, thus:—Dominus Horoscopi in Octava natura malesicus & damnatus, vel alter utrum Laminare affligens, morte violenta periturum natum significat, &c. As in the Figure of Regio-Montanus, Qui à Pontifice Sexto accersitus Romam, dum liberibus versionem Trapezontii undans overiço, Ptol. taxaret, à Trapezontii siliis veneno propinato sublatus est.—Habuit enim Martem natura malesicum dominum Horoscopi una cum Luminaribus in 8. domo, qua & ipsa à Saturno ex quarta a radio affliguntur. He might have added also, They had all been posited near, or with, violent fixed Stars; as those of Orion, Auriga, and the Bull: as may easily be seen by Hartgil's Tables of the fixed Stars.

For the time of his Death, we may relie upon the Authority of Rantzovius, who in his Collection of the Names of such as died in their sixth Hebdomatical year-saith,—Johannes Regio-Montanus, Mathematicus Roma, Obiit atatis 41. Ergo periit annum agens 42. At that time the Ascendent was nearly directed to the Opposition of the Moon with Latitude; the cruel Planet h having but newly passed the Opposition of the Sun, Moon and Mars.

Thus much for this Nativity.

His is the Nativity of that famous Person, Erasmus Rheinholdwithe Author and Publisher of the Prutenick Tables; who (confidering the rawness of Astronomy in his days) made to near a Compendium of that Art, that hardly any (then) were able to equal, much less to amend; and the world (at least so much thereof as understands Gratitude) must remain Debtor to his worthy pains.

That he should be a Person curious and inquisitous after Astronomical Truths, is obvious from my ascending in his Nativity, and 2. Lord thereof, being not onely in mother House of 3, but in  and Reception of 3 also: which Configurations, gave Origanus occasion to stile him both Ingenious and Noble, (as without doubt he was;) and, to parallel his Geniture with that of the most Learned Joachimus Camerarius. Vide Orig. de Effectib. fol. 598.

The learned Rantzovius, fol. 179. tells us, he lived 42 years, and then died his words are these: Erasmus Reinholdus, qui tabulas Prutenicas edidit, & Mathematicus excellens suit, obiit Salveldia in patria 19. Feb. anno atatis 42.—Let this suffice for a Remembrance of this worthy Person; and for a fit and proper Example of a Nativity of an ingenious Scholar and Artist.

Zz,

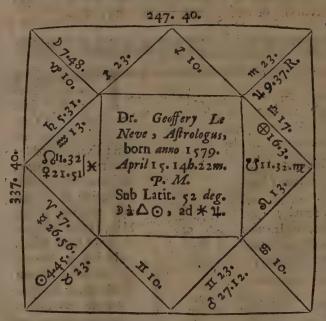

His Nativity I finde Origanus hath borrowed from Cardan; it being the fecond Example of his hundred Genitures. Origanus brings it ins to verifie an Aphorism relating to the Manners and Dispositions of Men; which Rule is this: Quando hullus Planeta in Horoscopo aut signo intercepto versatur, videndum est num Luna & Mercurio aliquis Planetarum jangatur , & Secundum naturam naturam ejus Mores nati dijudicentur. - I do allow (with Origanus) that by reason of the Conjunction of & and I in V, and I his being Combust, and & its being in his Ascendent, he might have been sometimes rash and cross-natured enough; yet certainly he could not but be a person ingenious and learned: for & adds fire unto 2, and makes the Native Understanding the more sharp and active. But that he should be Villanous, Inconstant, Franchient, Quarrelsome, &c., as Origanus and Cardan report, I cannot altogether believe; because there is a Sextile and Reception between the Moon and Q, and both of them in good Aspect of the Ascendent. Indeed, by h's presence in the Eleventh, and O's in the Ascendent; and Dher Quartile to 14. Lord of the Twelfth, I should adjudge him blest but with few (except treacherous) Friends; plagu'd with many Enemies; and subject to many, and most notorious Scandals. And by reason of this his unhappy Pare, he hath a fault laid upon him, from his Stars, which they cannot be wholly compell'd to own. He might perhaps be constrain'd in his Life-time to cope with more Enemies, and ill Reports, then he was willing; and thereby have occasion to vent his Choler somewhat more then ordinary: but it doth not follow, that he must therefore be so evil-minded and disposed, as reported; for a Man may sometimes be sharp and contentions in a just and honourable Cause, and yet neither fraudulent or villanous, &c.

That he was both a Scholar and Artist, let his Commentarie upon Ptolomy's Centiloquium testifie: it is printed in Ottavo by it self, and also at the latter end of Guido Bonatus his Treatise of Astronomy.

Rantzovius saith, fol. 192. Georgius Trapezuntius, qui in senettu omnium literarum oblitus dicisur, moritur Roma, 90. Which was in his Enneatical year, of Ten times Nine. He had then the Ascendent (with a small Remove) directed ad Oppositum Saturni.

Hat this Native should be a good Artist, the Sextile and great Reception between & and gunder the Earth, aprly denote. It is the same Configuration (though from different Signes) with that of the learned Rheinholdus, whose Nativity, for that very Significations sake, I have published from Origanus. He was indeed deed one of the best Astrologers that lived in his time, and most industrious and laborious in the Science he practised. I have seen of his own hand writing, a Collection of four hundred Figures, erected upon especial Occasions, with Judgements Astrological thereon; by himself most admirably performed: by him it was intended for the Press; but respired quo futos it was prevented, as well to the prejudice of the worthy Author, as to Posterity; who thereby might have been made happy with assay choice Presidents in the practick part of this Study: which now they most unhapping are deprived of

That he should be of great years, is plainly seen from the Ascendent its being no way viciated; and his the Lord thereof, (who is Alchocoden, or Giver of years) is strong in me his own greatest Dignities.

He was necessitated to many Troubles and Unhappinesses in his Life-time, chiefly in our late times of Consusion; when for his Loyalty to his Soveraign, he was Plundered of all he had, and compelled to see to Oxford for Refuge: he had then (it being the 64 year of his Age) the Medium Calidirected ad Quartilum Jovis, and was not quite free from the Effects of the Mid-heaven to the Body of h. Many may wonder at first, that this Native should marry twice, h, Lord of the Seventh, being in v, a barren Signe, and Retrograde there: but if they shall consider, that the Moon is neatly in Sextile of Q, and posited in Signum Bi-corporeum, and that her Dispositor is located in m, a fruitful Signe; and the Sun and p are in Platick Trine of h, they will conceive there is reason enough Astrologically for the same.

Being aged 31 years, anno Christi 1646. October, he died of the Plague: the Sun was then directed ad & , cum & fine Latitudine; and the Ascendent ad 1 h, in Cancro; a Signe representing the most Vital Parts of a Man.

h in v Retrograde, and he Lord of the Eighth, and the Moon in 2, near violent fixed Stars, in Quartile of the Sun and 2, &c. might very rationally portend the kind of Death by which this Native expired.

The Figure is as himself did it; onely the Latitudes of the Planets I have taken from the Ephemerides of David Origanus; whom I perceive this Native hath not followed in their Longitudes; nor yet Stadius, or any other old Ephemeridist-Master, as I can finde. I believe therefore he hath Calculated them de novo; and it being for himself, I presume he would be so much the more curious. I could verifie this his Geniture by Accidents; but his particular Fate being of no eminent concernment to any but himself, I shall forbear. And to denote that the more eminent and durable, the Sun casts an amicable Aspect to \oplus ; and the Moon and Q the same to the Cusp of the second House. This Native hath acknowledged unto me, that G o p hath blessed him with a moderate Fortune; and hath made his Studies and Endeavours happy unto him that way.

All the Angles of the Nativity are possessed by Cardinal Signes; and in that respect his Geniture is equal to that samous Physician's, Sir Theodore Mayern; who for Skill, and happy Success in his Profession, was esteemed the Wonder of his time: and there was reason sufficient for the same: some all the eminent and samous Actions of the VVorld; depend upon the Equinoctial and Solditial Signes; as all Astrologers consent: if so, then certainly that Person that shall have them all upon the shief places of the Figure of his Nativity, must (naturally, and of consequence) person some more then ordinary Action in his Generation. But this quoad, as the Native shall either be Scholan Souldier or Artist.

VVhen this Native began fifth of all to write publickly, viz. in the twenty fecond year of his Age; he had the Sun directed ad Sextilum Veneris, Lady of his Horoscope, and this in &, her great Dignities: an eminent Argument of the happy (and deserved) Entertainment his VV ritings have met with in the VVorld.

Many more things might be observed in the Figure, and in the Eff. As of Directions happening therefrom; but my Designe is onely to be an Observator in Generals, and therefore I shall forbear all further Disquisition.

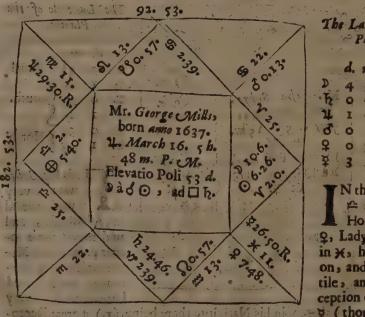

good Signification thereof in his Nativity, there being (1.) a great Reception between 4. Lord of the Ascendent, and 2. the Natural Significator of Arts. (2.) A Trine of & and &, which gave him not onely a Mathematical, but a Logical Brain; still aiming at the substance of things, and slighting shadows. I remember very well how serious he was, when he first began to study Astrologie, (it being my good fortune to read to him therein) he would admit of things very slowly, (which I conceive was occasioned by the Moon her Quartile to & and h) but when once he had thorow satisfaction therein, he never forgot them: his Memory was so good, and his Delight was so great in the Art he studied, that in three moneths time he was able to desend a Thesis in Astrologie, against most Rational Opposers. (3.) The Moon in Sextile of 4, Lord of the Ascendent, from the Dignities of & and & is another eminent Testimony of an ingenious and active Understanding: Nor is the Reception of the two Luminaries, less then an eminent additional Testimony unto the rest, notwithstanding their being in Quartile from Cardinal Signes.

He died in the year 1656. about Michaelmas, of a Surfeit and Dropfie, having some two years before had the Dropfie hanging on him: the Ascendent was then directed ad & h, cum & sine Latitudine.

Four Planets in the eighth House, in a VVatry Signe, might well denote the Native to die of a Dropsie: D, Lady of the Eighth, in \square of them from γ , the House of δ , and δ himself in Aspect unto them all likewise, might portend a Surfeit to accompany it. Thus much for this Nativity.

in Sexule of h, who casts a Trine to 11, the Dispositor of 2. All which are Arguments of an ingenious Inclination and Fancie; which this Native is conveniently possessed of: for his Acumen is such, that to my knowledge, in less then ten weeks time, he conquered the whole Genethliacal part of Astrologie, both Calculatory and Judiciary. The Assistion of 2 doth aptly denote him slow of Speech; and so he is.

In this Nativity, all Directions hit ad unquem. For when he was fix years and a half old, he had the Small Pox; and that to purpose: he had then the Ascendent directed ad δ . Both the Luminaries, you see, are in Opposition to the Ascendent from γ , the Dignities of δ ; and that is the reason the Directions unto their Bodies or Aspects, are the more violent.

At 11 years of Age, he was brought near Death by the small Worms: the Ascendent was then directed ad & D, sine Latitudine.

Being aged 21 years, he had both Surfeit, Fever and Ague; which, because no Direction happens then, must be occasioned by the Revolution that year, and the cruel Planet h his passing over the opposite places of the Luminaries in the Radix.

N" this Revolution, the Moon is in ve her fall, in Quartile to her own, and the Suns Radical place, and in Quartile of . b, who afflicts the Ascendent in the Figure. Sun is in the fixth House, and b and he both applying to an Opposition, one by Retrogradation, the other by Direction: a more unhappy Revolution reasonably cannot come, and the Native escape without danger of his Life. It n was Stationary upon the opposite place of the Moon in the Radix, in June following the Revolution; and just about that time of the year his Sickness was the most violent: In had been upon his Ascendent; and the opposite places of his Luminaries, most part of the latter part of the last year, which might give a minute or small beginning to his unhappy Effects; but could not shew his Cruelty till this unfortunate Revolution began: Besides, Cardan tells us; — Corpora Coelestia, non again in instantic sections.

dan tells us, — Corpora Cælestia, non agunt in instanti, sed cum tempore.

Hence I should advise all Students in this Art, before they adventure upon the Correction of a Nativity, seriously to consider the force of Revolutions, as they may concur with dangerous or happy Transits: for many Errours in the Judiciary part of this Art, are committed through the neglect of a proper and due Correction, before a proceeding to Calculation.

Anno atatic 24. this Native highly contends with his Friends; wastes and looses part of his Estate, and somewhat of Office and Preferment; in all things he was unhappy: he had now Medium Cali directed ad & h, cum Gine Latitudine, and a very ill Revolution: and had he not had the Ascentard W

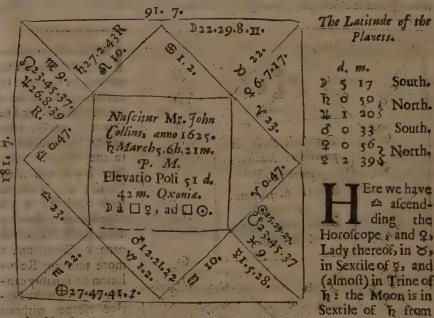

dent directed ad Spicam Virginis immediately upon it, I do not see how (without a more then ordinary Providence of God) he could have escaped Ruine. But that Direction, as soon as he had lost one Preferment, gave him another; as himself hath acknowledged to me.

This Native being a lufty, portly and tall Man, puts me in minde of an Aphorism I long since read in Ptolomy's Centiloqui, viz. The Lords of tall or great Mens Genitures, are in their Sublimities or Exaltations, and their Horoscopes in the beginnings of Signes, &c. Which in this Nativity is most admirably verified; the Ascendent being in the beginning of 2, and 2, Lady thereof, in \mathcal{L} her Exaltation.

Thus much for this Nativity.

by being in Opposition of To.

This Native is a Student in the Mathematicks, and hath published many excellent Pieces therein; which declare his Judgement and Fancie to be sharp and active enough: for you must know, it is impossible for any Man, without an excellent Understanding, to be a good Mathematician; the Study is so large and various.

That his Elocution is but indifferent, (although the matter of which hefpeaks be always substantial) I know to be true, the Native being my Friend and Country-man: and it is no wonder at all; (neither is it a diffrace of shame, for him, or any Man, to wear the Livery of the Heavens!) for it is not onely where a in  is afflicted of T, but where he is beheld of him as as it happened in the very last Geniture.

His Native is a Student in the Mathematicks, and hath published several Books therein, viz. his Arithmetick, Compleat Surveyor, Sec. And to denote him so

(in his Nativity) he bath 2, the Lady of his Ascendent, in Sextile of 2, over whom she hath a Disposition; and the Moon is in Trine of 2, and in Sextile of 2: besides, there is a very great Reception between h and 2; and h is in Trine to the Ascendent. All which are singular good Testimonies in the Geniture of a Mathematician, and in our Native have a perfect and true Signification. He is also of a very facetious, pleasant and cheerful Disposition; which is notably portended by Venus, Lady of his Ascendent, being in Sextile of the Moon, and in the same Aspect with Mars and Mercury.

This Native (my very good Friend) gave me freely his Nativity to publish; and with it, these several Accidents, by which I have verified it.

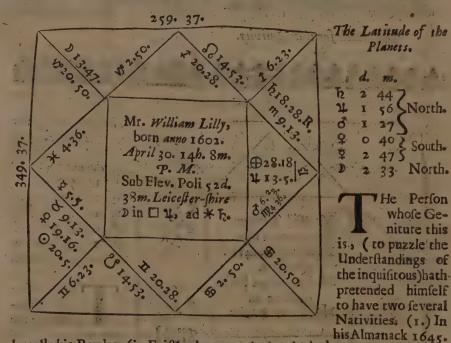

Anno atatis 4. he had a Fever which had nearly kill'd him: this was occafioned by the Suns being directed ad \(\subseteq Lune. \)

Anno atatio 24. he had another violent Fever and Ague: the Ascendent was then directed ad Quadratum Saturni.

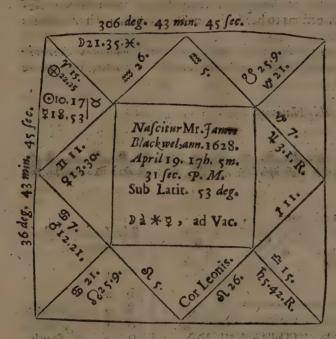

Anno atatis 27, he was married: the Sun was then directed ad Sextilum Luna. All which Directions were seconded and made stronger by Revolutions and Transits; which any that pleases to take the Pains, may readily finde, by consulting the Ephemerides of those years in which they happened.

he tells his Reader (in Episse thereunto) that he had the Moon in Piscibus, which makes him a piece of a good Fellow, &c. which (if true) he must be born the fifth or fixth of May 1602. (2.) In his Introduction under his Effigies, he saith he was born on May 1. 1602. and then the Moon will not be in ×, but in v, as in this Figure. I am of Opinion, he hath not the Moon in ×, but in v; and therefore believe this to be his right Nativity: the rather, because my loving Friend Mr. James Blackwel, hath proved it so to be, by 13 several Arguments or Accidents; printed a year and half since by it self. In which little Tract, the ingenious Artist may meet with a concise Method for the Calculating and judging a Nativity; and unto which, I refer the desirous Reader for surther satisfaction in his Geniture. IN this Nativity, III ascends; and ?, Lord thereof, is in a strong Reception with the fortunate Planet ?, who is posited in the Ascendent; he is also in exact Sextile of the Moon: all which denote him a Person ingenious, apt and inclineable to the Study of many commendable Arts, and to learn anything (almost) without a Tutor. I can aver on my own knowledge, that this Native is a singular good Artist in Astrologie; a Demonstration of which, he hath given the World in his Calculating and judging the Nativity of Mr. W. L. so accurately and sharply performed, that a Student of double his standing, could not have done it better. I know also that he understands Physick and Chirurgery competently well, and therein hath good success; and that seems to be well denoted by the Moon her Trine to Mars, there being a small Reception between them, and Mercury his Sexule unto them both. He understands Musick moderately well: nor is he a stranger to Tachigraphy, or Short-writing. Thus we see his Inclination is exactly pre-signified by the Positions of the Planets at his Birth.

Here are no less then five Planets in laudable Reception, viz. h, 1, 0, 2, 2; and the Moon (in some respects) may admit of such Digniries: and accordingly this Native is beloved and respected by all forts of Persons. I do not know above one that bears him any ill will; and that is for his Zeal in maintaining the Honour of Astrologie: but there is an Antipathy in their Genitures. In that envious Person's, Saturn is upon the opposite place of the Lord of the Ascendent and the Sun in this: Mars in this, upon the opposite place of the Moon in that, and Saturn in Lord Jovis: the Figures themselves are in Quartile; and the Ascendent of this, is the place of Canda Draconis in that. An Antipathy as great (almost) as that between Captain Bray's and Cronwel's:

This may be noted as an Aphorism in Astrologie, That he who hath many Planets in Reception in his Geniture, shall be beloved and respected of many forts or kinds of Men: and in cases of necessity, shall meet with Friend-ship or Assistance from those he least of all expects it. The truth hereof, this Native hath often verified.

When this Native was near ten years of Age, he had the Small Pox, but not very much: the Ascendent was then directed ad Quadratum Ccc

Luna. Quere, Whether the Moon in a Watry Signe, in Aspect and Reception of & upon Directions to her Body, or ill Aspects, doth not always signific such Diseases?

Being aged 24 years, the Ascendent was directed an Quadratum Saturni: he was then so dangerously afflicted with a Fever and Cold, that thereof he

being acquainted therewith. We are govern'd by a Power (faith one) that we cannot but obey; and our Minds are wrought against our Minds, to alter us. If my Adversary arm himself to do me an injury, he cannot put his Resolution into act, but by Divine Permission: and if my Friend designe a Kindness to me, he must wait for a Post-motion of his Mind, and thence receive a time to friend me with it. It is not in our Power (in all respects) to do what we will a either for a Friend, or against an Enemy. There is a kinde of Mundane Predestination, that Men are generally ignorant of; it being writ in such Characters that very sew can read. Let this therefore suffice, that God in his Providence hath so ordered our happy and inauspicious Fates, that it is not in the power of a Friend to assist, or an Enemy to hurt us; but as the grand Guider of our Fates, [GOD] shall please to direct. No Man therefore need be assaid or assamed of having his Nativity known.

He lived onely one year and forty three days; which ended on September the 23. 1654. and then expired of violent Convulsion-Fits, which held him near a Fortnight together: most miraculous in a Childe to behold. He was first taken with a Deep Melancholy somewhat near six weeks before he died; attended with an Ague, having Fits both Hot and Cold. At that time Saturn was upon the place of the Sun, and Mars up-

Physical Means was used for his Recovery or Ease; but neither could be effected: indeed his Fate was too strong to admit of any Competitor; for he had not onely the Radical Infortunacies as I have related, but at the time of his Death, the Moon was directed to the Body of Saturn; as here appears:

And to shew you that Directions are as well to be heeded in the Revolution as Radix (as the learned Johannes Baptista Morinus hath ingeniously demonstrated) we shall finde, if we will take the pains, that the Ascendent of this Figure at the time of Death, was directed to the Quartile of Mars, and the Moon nearly unto his Opposition: perhaps a grand Reason why the Childe contended with his unknown Adversary at so violent a rate, before his departure.

Bring in the Company of my loving Friend and Country-man Mi. ohn Collings the Matnematician, at the House of this Childes Parents, and the Childes bout 14 weeks after this Childe was born, I found the Mother of the Childe weeping for her Childes Distemper; which at that time to cruelly tortured it, that the would not be perswaded that the Childe could live. Mr. Collings asked my Opinion thereof: Lenquired concerning the Birth of the Childe, and the time within written was given: which when I had a little confidered, I bade the Mother be of good comfort, for that the Diftemper of the Childe was night the world, and that the needed not to fear but that it would live; and about the beginning or middle of May, would be fully recovered. Still the Mother would be no way perswaded but that her Childe would die, and not live to be Coated : (those were her very words.) But behold ! about the time I mentioned, the benign Planer 14 was Staffonary upon the place of the Moon in the Figure, and Q'in Trine to the Ascendent; and the Childe, beyond its Mothers expectation then recovered. The occasion of its Sickness, was of his vitiating the Ascendents and the Luminaries being in Quartile to each other. D being in Conjunction of 15 and 2 being in friendly Aspect of the Ascendent and his Lord , were Asguments it should recover: For, it is always to be observed, that where such adjuvant Testimonies happen, of or to their Quartiles or Oppositions never kill in Youth, although they shall be Lords of the Eighth or Fourth Houses; for the good Significations of the Fortunes, so eclipse and darken the ill portents of the Malefiques, that their Effects cannot then hurr mortally.

Ere you fee there is but 57 m. of time difference between thele Twins being born; yet it alters 16 d. in the Ascendent: fo that the Direction which killed the first Twin, will never happen in the Record's "Nativity. and he Lord of the Eighth, as in the first Figure: but the Moon, which was with a violent Star in the first Scheme, is here with Stars of a more gentle Nature and Mixture, viz. with those of h. 4. 2. 2. Nevertheless when the Moon comes by Direction to the Opposition of h. this Native will also die; which will be about the rwelfth year of Age, the Moons Circle and Latitude considered. Were I here minded to be Critical, I could in sew words refel Mr. Chamber's Stories of Munster's Maids joyned together by the Fore-head; and Buchanan's two Boys upward, and but one downward, by whose different Deaths, (though born at once) he would make an Argument against Astrologie. The Maids (saith he) lived till ten years old; one then died; and to save the other from Deaths they cut her away from her dead Sister: of which wound (saith he) she suddenly died also. A most ridiculous Argument against Astrologie! and fit rather to be hissed at, then replyed unto: the one died a Natural, and the other of no Violent, Death; except Mr. Chambers or his Friends will say, That the striving to preferve her, was an intention of murther against her. Burthese Scioli, like to an angry Massis, run after the Stone, but minde not the Hand that throws it. They commend the Maids Friends care they took to preferve her, but condemn Astrologie she died not with her Sister: albeit, the Instituence of the Stars was instrumentally made, good by the Maids death, in her Parents Endeavours.

The Boys (saith he) lived until 28 years of Age; one then died; and the Stink thereof, was the cause of the death of the other. These two, saith he, system of two in all respects] were born at once; why not die at once? Mr. Chambers, though a Physician, certainly never heard of Bed-tid People, or any troubled with the Passie, &c. which have continued dying a long time together. Let us admit this but one Birth, [though monstrous] although he captiously and most untruly called it two, and it will readily result, that Death must seize on some one part thereof first. But he trislingly demands, why should one die by Disease, the other by Stink? I will not urge against him, whether Stink be Ease or Disease. But this, he still beggeth the Question, and takes that for granted, which doth remain to be proved, viz. That this monstrous Birth, may properly be said to be Two! He proceeds: They should have agreed well, as having one Constellation; but they did often wrangle, see. Mr. Chimbers it seems never experienced the jarring and contending of one Humouror Passion with another in himself; for had he, such a trivial Objection had never escaped his Pen. Hath not sometimes one fore Finger brought Anguish upon the whole Body? But against this, he may arge their Speech, &c. I answer: The Difference upwards, and Duplicates of Ofgans and Facultities sit for Speech and Reason, renders the Birth onely monttrous, and not two Births: Ergs, no Argument at all against Astrologie; or the Doctrine of Twins held and maintained by Astrologers. For what hath that Art; which is sounded upon Natural and Demonstrative Principles, to do in Judgement with Births that are Monstrous and Prodicious?

M the next place I thall present the Reader the Nativities, of two Ladies, which were born within less then half an hour of each other, and Twins likewife; and they were for alike both in Shape , Stature, Feature, and Habit of Body and Minde, that it was (and yer iss for they are still living) a hard matter to distinguish the one from the other, although one should not onely fee them,

He Directions of the Luminaries in thele Nativities, as they happen in both alike, so the Eflects in each Native Have followed. For instance: the Sun in their in year of Age, positum Luna: they were then both afflicted with violent Fevers, and many other Unhappinelles befel them equally; their Mother died, Gc. In the 18 year of their Age, the Sun was directed to the Sextiles of it and Q; they had each of them then a very confiderable Fortune left unto them by the death of an Uncle; they might then also have married well, but the death of their Parents was yet too fresh in their Memory, and their Sickhels of Body not throughly removed.

But now, although the Directions of the Luminaries operate equally in both Genitures; yet those of the Ascendent and Medium Cali do not: for the second was much sickly and Aguish in her sitst year, as it is exact Quartile to the Ascendent denotes: the first was not sickly till her fourth year, at which time she had an Ague; then the Ascendent was directed to the Square of h, which it could never be in the seconds Nativity while she lives. Then the Medium Cali in the Nativity of the second, was directed ad corput Jovis; at twenty three years of Age; she was then emimently married; the same Direction happeneth not in the Nativity of the first Lady until the 28 year of her Age, ergo she cannot be married until them.

Thus we fee the Reason why two born near at a time, (although alike in habit of Body and Minde, in shape and feature, &c.) enjoy nor exactly the same Accidents of Fortune at one and the same time; and why also they do enjoy some Accidents equally, and alike, and others unequally, and sour or sive years time distant. Had the Ascendent of these Genitures been in & X, Y, S, the Accidents thereof might have differed nine or ten years; but being a Signe of long Ascention, although the Primum Mobile run about very swift, it can differ no more in 19 m. of time, viz. the distance between these two Twin-Ladies Births, then four years, as I have before sufficiently proved.

Ishall next insert the Nativities of two, born (as I was informed by their Parents) just half an hour distant the one from the other: the one is dead, the other yet living; and (by the Canons of A-strologie) likely yet to live.

His Native was alio fick: most of the first fix moneths after birth. for the same Reason as was the other; and in the fourth year of Age, was taken with a Quotidian, and the Rickets, and thereby brought very low; at which time the other died. Sol's & to h by Direction, (fine Latitudine) was now operating, (which proves a force in fuch Directions, although not equal to those cum Latitudine.) But here was no Ascendent directed to the Dragons Tayle, as in the other; which was the onely Cause (next to the Divine Cause) that this Native did not then die, as did the other. And although divers Persons have pretended to cavil at the Effects of such Directions to the Nodes, we see Experience to resute them, as in these, and some foregoing Examples; and Reason also: for it cannot be conceived that the two great Luminaries suffer their Deliquiums, in or near these points for nothing. Let the sober Artist accept this Essay, and thereby proceed to the persecting his Judgement of Twins.

Ccording to the Polition of 4 and the Dragons Head in the Ascendent, this Childe was most healthful and vigorous as by his Parents is attested: yet it lived not above 13 days, and died fuddenly, viz. on August the 23, at which time the Moon came to the opposite place of & in the Nativity. That it was not long lived, is apparent by the Figure: For the Moon is in exact Quartile of h, Lord of the Fourth, from fixed Signes; and Q, Lady of the Ascendent, is Combust, in her Detriment in the twelfth House, and in Quartile of 3. Whether 3 or h be 'Araspeths, the interficient Planet; or whether both be Destroyers of Life, is a Quettion worthy to be confidered by Artists. I confess with the learned - Seg. 3. Aphoris. 108. Difficillimum omnium est scire locum interfectoris; nam ex hoc babetur & tempus Mortis, &c. I was almost at a stand in my Judgement, when I first considered this Figure, to think the Native should die suddenly: but endeavouring to satisfie my self, I was relieved with an Aphorism in Albubater; which I, in my Doctrine of Nativities, (treating of the eighth House) had translated, thus: of the Eighth be infortunate, and the Lord of the First shall be in the earthy Triplicity, and in no good Aspect of the Fortunes, the Death of the Native will be sudden. Vide Dett. Nat. Pars 1. fol. 148. Which Approxim takes full place in this Infant's Nativity: for Q is here Governess both of the Eighth and Ascendent, and in the earthy Triplicity infortunate; (viz. in Detriment, Combust, and in Quartile of 3) and is in no Aspect of 4 at all.

When this Native departed, there was not the least strugling or symptome of Death perceived, as say its Parents; but it was in perfect health one minute, and fully dead the next.

Lord of the fixth House, and both in Quartile to the Ascendent; and the Moon is in exact Quadrate of 3, secundum Latitudine, who most malitiously opposeth the Ascendent with his hateful Rays. Accordingly the Childe did die on December the 18. 1657. of the Small Pox, having before been much afflicted with Convulsions, and Pains and Gripings in the Bowels. About the time she departed, the Sun was under the Direction of 12's Body in 12; as may appear thus:

At the time of this Natives expiring, viz. December 18. 1657, the Moon was near her Radical place, in Conjunction of E, and in Opposition of S: Transits that (if they concomitate evil Directions) are seldome less then fatal.

N this Revolutio-I nal Figure . the Moon is in Conjunction of $\Psi$, Lord of the Sixth in the Radix, in the House of Death; and &, Lord of the Ascendent here, is come to the oppofite place of the Moon in the Radix : and the Moon is in Ourtile of h. Lord of the eighth House of the Nativity: all aug-menting to the evil of the Direction. If a-ny enquire why this Childe should die of the Small Pox? they may take notice that afflicts the Radical place of the Moon, and the Moon is in Conjunction with μ , Lord of the Sixth in the Radix, (and he is Dominus Sanguinis) and that Disease proceeds from a Corruption of the Blood: besides, the Moon was Radically in Quartile of δ , and Opposition of μ ; as was before remembred.

A Lthough the Lord of the Afcendent (which is 3) be the most potent Planer in the Figure, yet was this Native but of short Life: for it died on the 23 of February following, 13 b. P. M.

The Reasons in Astrologie, I conceive very plain: (1.) The Luminaries are both affliced, and they with the Lord of the Ascendent are out of all Aspects with the Fortunes. (2.) That grand Satellitium of h, d, O, and D, (who is Lord of the Eighth) in the Ascendent, denoted a strange kinde of them all from Angles, and fixed Signes, is a very eminent additional Testimony. Whence we may note, that not the Lord of the Ascendent, but the Horoscope it felt, hath chiefly to do with the Life of the Native, and all Actions relating to the Body; and the other to Accidents, and Assections of the Minde and Inclination.

At the time of Death, the D was in her Radical place, in 8 of h, &c. as at Birth; and & was in exact \square of the D, and of the Ascendent also.

Ere we find the Malefick Rlanet h in exact Opposition of the Ascendent cum Latitudine; and he (as Lord of the eighth House) in this Nativity, is Abscissor vita; and therefore an eminent Argument of short Life: g, Lord of the Ascendent Retrograde, and in Detriment in the seventh House, is another Testimony of short Life: the Moon within Orbs of h Quartile, doth not meanly strengthen these Significations, nor yet the violent Stars on the Ascendent, and those with whom h is conjoyn'd, in Opposition thereunto.

To be brief: This Infant lived but ten days; and on December the 25. at four a Clock in the morning, died of a Diarrham or Loofeness; and this without much strugling or screaming, &c. The Moon was then in Opposition to the Sun in the Eighth of the Nativity; and 2, Lord of the Ascendent, was then Stationary.

Q, Lady of the Sixth, in Conjunction of the Moon, and 11 in the Sixth in m, might occasion the Diarrhea or Looseness.

Lthough these were Twin-Children, yet you see here is a vast difference between the Figures of their Nativities, as well as between their Significations. In this, the Lord of the Ascendent is an Infortune, and in a Signe contrary to his Nature, Retrograde, and in Quartile of d, who is the Moons Dispositor; and made the more unfortunate (in this case) by being in Conjunction of a violent fixed Star. (25) The Sun is in Conjunction with the Lord of the eighth House, near the Cusp of the Sixth. (3.) The Significator of Death, is much stronger then the Significator of Life. (4.) The Moon is in γ , in Quartile to the Ascendent; a place she most perfectly hates, she receiving her greatest Debilities there, viz. her Fall: therefore is her Square the more cruel. (5.) d is in exact Quartile of the Lunar Horoscope from Angles. All which denote short Life; and this Childe accordingly did die within an hour after it was born.

It is to be observed, that the Ascendent of the sixth Twin, is the Casp of the Eighth in this; and the Lord of Life in that Geniture, is Significator of Death in this.

His is the Geniture of a Gentle-woman of good Birth, who hath (for her time) been subject to the greatest Unhappinesses imaginable, both in publick and notorious Scandals, Imprilonments, Controversies with Friends, &c. And these Mis-fortunes continually attended her from the 18. unto the 25 year of her Age; and yet is she not totally free therefrom. In those seven years space, she hath been in Prison eleven times: a thing not common for a Woman to undergo. But indeed so cruel and unhappy hath been her Fate, and such a continued Scale of malitious Directions, she had, between those years mentioned; that when the ingenious Artist shall have once read and considered, he will esteem this Natives several Sufferings, no Miracle at all. At the 18 year of her Age, the Ascendent was directed ad Oppositum Solis; then began her Mis-fortunes; she was not then sick; and the Reason I conceive, was, because the Sun in 2 hath not power enough to do prejudice to the Body by Diseases; or elies the Direction falling in γ his Exaltation, a place he much delighter him he was like a Noble Enemy, and would not prejudice the place he respected, although his Enemy was there.

Being aged 21 years, the M. C. was directed ad \square 2; this holp to continue the Infortunacies the other began: then being aged 23 years, the Sun was directed ad \square 3; and the year after, ad \square 4; under which two Directions, she was not onely like to be ruined in her Reputation, but had like to have died of a Pleuresse, attended with a Fever, as said her Physicians: Directions of most unhappy Signification, as may be seen in the Writings of all Astrologers, that treat of the Effects of Directions.

But besides these Directions, she had many Radical Infortunacies which portended the several prejudices she underwent: as h in the tenth House, in Quartile of the Moon from the seventh House. (2.) The Dragons Tayle upon the very Cusp of the Seventh; which denotes many publick Enemies, prodigious Calumnies, Scandals and Disgraces from them, and that constantly, &c. Vid. Doctr. of Nativities, Part 1. fol. 56. And the Conjunction of 4 and & so near the Cusp thereof, makes it so much the more mischie-

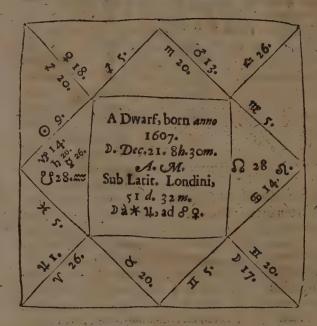

Then h, quatenus h, is not onely located in the Mid-heaven, but as he is Lord of the twelfth House; which always denotes Damages and Difficulties to the Native in Reputation, &c. many Oppositions and Defamations in every fol. 177.

Divers other things I could observe from this Nativity; but these already mentioned, being sufficient to shew, not onely the Estects of the Directions above remembred, but of the Radical Positions of h in the Tenth, in of D, and on the Seventh, nearly in of D and of there, I shall desist from all further discourse hereos.

a Signe of Brevity, ascends the Horofcope; and h. Lord thereof, (being a Planet Cold and Dry) is posted therein; in Conjunction of who disposes of the Moon: of from a Signe of Brevity, beholds the Sun in a Signe of Brevity, by a Sextile-Aspect: all which are proper Arguments in Astrologie of a Dwarfish or short Stature. The Sun in 11 of 12 from brevous Signes, may be admitted as an additional Testimony of a Dwarf, or little Person. Indeed whoever hath an earthy Signe ascending, and two or three Planets Posted therein, cannot but be of a short or low Stature, chiefly if 12 be there; for a Cold and Dry Temperature is contrary to the growth of any thing; as we see it by Experience in the Aurumnal Season.

Thus much for this Geniture; and for a Conclusion to the Third Part of my Collection of Nativities.

A CENTURY of choice Rules or Aphorisms, fit to be considered by those that practice the Genethliacal Part of Astrologie.

F all the Parts in Aftrologie, the Genethliacal is the chief; for therein is confulted the whole progress of a Man, (who is the Lord of all Creatures) from his Birth to his Burial : and by that alone, we are enabled to discover the times of his happy and inauspicious Forrunes.

2. Those that are born under such a Position, wherein h beareth the chiefest Rule, or if he be in the Ascendent, are melancholy, envious, yet timorous Persons: If & or & be in or & of him , they turn Enthusiatis, or

Mad-men,

3. Men born under the Government of 1, are generally Nobly minded; aiming to do good to others, thinking no ill : But if either of the Luminaries shall be in \(\sigma\) or \(\phi\) of \(\psi\) or \(\hat{h}\), and \(\phi\) in the Ascendent, or in \(\phi\) thereunto, the Native will be villaroully minded; rash, head-strong, and rebellions; treacherous to all; friend to none but from the teeth outward.

4. If under &, and he essentially powerful, the Native is full of Courage; proves a good Souldier; attains to great Honour thereby: & also maketh good Chitargeons, Physicians, Apothecaries, &c.

5. He that is born under the Rule of the O, and the O royally dignified, is altogether aiming at Soveraignty, Rule and Dominion; and (quoad Capass) will be very famous. The same, if any of the three stery Signes Horo-scopize, and the Sun fortified as aforesaid.

6. That Man which is born under 2, and the Nobly fortified, is a great Lover of Delights and Pleasures; of an upright Minde, nothing distructful e but if the be ill placed, and in bad Aspect of h, he follows Sensuality, and Beastial Pleasures; if of &, he is subject to many nororious Scandals and Disgraces; seldome free from Venereal Diseases.

7: 2. Lord of the Alcendent in a Nativity, well dignified, shews the Nafive to be of a most admirable Fancie, and great Elocurion: makes famous Orators, by being in good Aspect of D or Q, or in Reception of them : excellent Divines or Philosophers, by being in good Aspect or Reception of h or 1: the best Mathematicians of Attrologers, when in Reception or good Aspect of 8.

8. When the Moon governs the Horoscope, and she well placed, the Native is a great Lover of Novel things; subject to Mutations; of a gentle Nature and Disposition; recorous; often desirous to travel and see strange Countries: If the be in Aspect of p, he will be apt to learn many Languages.

9. 8 strong in a Nativity, and Lord of the Seventh, and in no good Aspect of the Luminaries or Ascendent, the Native is subject to Mis-fortunes in War, or in any thing of Controversie; for the seventh House fignisheth his Adversaries: and in this regard they will be too powerful for him to conlii

10. All the Planets (or the most of them) above the Earth, be the Native of what Capacity he will, makes him eminent and famous beyond it : but if they shall be in their Dignities so posited, the Native (like a Comet) shall out-shine all others in that place or part of the World where he shall be born.

11. The Infortunes afflicting the Luminaries or the Horoscope by Body or Partile Aspect, declare him that is then born, to be of a very short and fickly

12. The Sun in the Ascendent, makes eminent Boasters, and very proud Persons. & there, makes notorious Lyars, and Inventers of Fables, and great Contrivers of Mischief; perjur'd, turbulent, and cruel-minded Men.

13. Eminent fixed Stars upon the Angles of a Nativity . do give the Native eminent Honour and Fame.

14. $\forall in Cazime Solis , and in his own Dignities , makes the Native nor onely a famous Orator, but an excellent Counsellor; and for his Ingenuity and great Parts, he will be admired, and had in much esteem.

15. h in the tenth House of a Nativity, dettroys the Natives Honour and Fame, let it be never so great : if 14 be there under good Directions, he may preserve it cum d'fficultate; but in the end, it will be absolutely shipwrack'd.

16. If h in the Nativity of a King, or other less famous Person, shall be in & to the Medium Cali, although the Geniture be otherways fortunate, yet the Natives End will be most inauspicious and cruel.

17. All the Planets in a Nativity Retrograde under the Earth, though the Native be of illustrious Birth, denote him to be of a falling Fame or Fortune.

18. Cardinal Signes possessing the Angles of a Nativity, makes the Native (of any Condition or Capacity) most eminent and samous in his Generation; and to do such Acts that after-Ages shall admire him.

19. 8 in the tenth House, brings Scandal and Dishonour to the Native in many things, whether he be deserving thereof, or no.

20. The Sun or Moon in Dor & of & from Angles, chiefly the Tenth and Fourth, declare a violent Death: if it be to o onely, and in humane Signes, the Native will be slain by the Hands of his Enemies: if to h, he may be poisoned or starved to Death in a Prison.

. 21. Those Persons (let them be Kings, or of amean degree) are beloved of all forcs, that have 2 or 4 Nobly posited in the Ascendent or tenth House, and those Angles free from Affliction.

32. The Mid-heaven famously fortified, gives the Native not onely emiment Honour, but such as shall remain and be durable, though at some times (upon ill Directions) it may be subject to interruptions; as in the Nativity of Fred. 3. Rex Dania.

23. When in a Nativity he is in the Tenth or Eleventh Houses, and the Medium Cali comes to be directed to his Body, the Native loseth all his Honours, Offices, &c. and never rifeth again to Preferment. If in such a Nativity there be a violent Death threatned, that Direction puts a shameful period unto the Natives Life.

246 The Dragons Tayle in the tenth House, and & afflicting both Luminaties in a violent Signe in the Fourth, portends a fatal End to the Honour and Life of the Native.

25. The Lord of the Ascendent stronger then the Lord of the Seventh. the Native always overcomes his Enemies. Et è contra,

26; S in V, m or w in the Ascendent of a Nativity, makes the Native invincible; chiefly, if other ways well Aspected of the fortunate Planets,

27. Sind, Dor Sof the Moon, and hin the same Aspect of the Sun from Angles, portends a violent Death: if they shall be so posited in violent Signes, though not in Angles, the same.

28. 9

23. I in I or of of of, gives a sharp, but a most turbulent and troublesome Wit and Understanding.

29. In X, in an Angle afflicted of 3 or 0, and D in an Angle afflicted of h, makes an Ideot, Phanatique or Phrenetique Fellow; for his Brain, like a crackt Looking-Glass, will represent a thousand several shapes.

30. Eminent fixed Stars upon the Angles of a Nativity, chiefly the Medium Cali and Horoscope, declares eminent and prodigious Persons; such that shall make the World admire them, if the Planets therein shall but modefately affilt.

31. Both the Luminaries afflicted in Watry or Aiery Signes, bring to the Native an unremoveable Gout.

32. The Moon in of the Pleiades, and I of of from an Angle, denotes great Defects in the Eyes, if not Blindness.

33. He that hath any of the fiery Signes ascending, and the Lord of the Horoscope in the tenth House, will be always aiming at things beyond the Capacity of his Birth, let it be what it will.

34. Sometimes the inferour Planets shall denote greater Honour and Fame to the Native then the Superiours; but then it shall not be of so long continuance.

35. He that is born upon a New or Full Moon exactly, lives but little time, if at all, unless the Moon have great Latitude; for that sometimes may make the d or & eight or nine Degrees distant.

36. m ascending, generally makes ingenious Persons; unless &, who is Lord thereof, be in X or 2; then is the Native confident without Reason, and will pretend to things he understands not.

37 Fortunate Planets in the ninth House, makes famous Church-men and Lawyers: the like, if the Benevolents Trine the Lord of the Ninth.

38. He that hath h or S in the Ninth, and the Dragons Tayle in the Alcendent, will prove a mad Fellow to make either a Pope or Parish Priest

39. h in an Aëreal Signe in the Ascendent, in good Aspect of the Moon or p, makes learned and famous Divines; such that will acquaint themselves with many Languages.

40. 2 and 2 in Conjunction in an Aëreal Signe in the Ascendent in Trine to 12 in the Ninth, makes the greatest Scholars, and the most learned Cri-

41. Those Divines are the very top and authority of their Profession, that have many Planets in the ninth House.

42. The Lord of the Tenth in the Twelfth, and Lord of the Twelfth in the Ascendent, are certain Arguments of Imprisonment and Restraint: the like if the Lord of the Ascendent is in the Twelfth.

43. Din S, Retrograde, in Quartile to d'and 12, and they in Opposition to each other, in the Nativity of a Divine, makes a great En-

44. 9 or 4 in the Ascendent, void of the Affliction of the Infortunes, makes just and upright Persons.

45. Those Persons that have 5, m or x alcending in their Nativities, and g afflicted by h or B, they either speak not at all, or else have very great impediment in their Speech : if & afflicts p in such a Nativity, the Native stantmers very much.

46. If Signes of Voice ascend in a Geniture, as II, 12, 12, 1, 12, and 2 be free from Affliction, the Native is of excellent Speech, and of a graceful Elocution. 47. The D in d of h, in an earthy Signe, and an earthy Signe ascending, makes exceeding melancholy Persons, and such as believe they see Visions.

48. He that hath the Moon in v, and in Opposition of z, and the Dragons Tayle upon the Ascendent, will be a Promoter of Lyes and Deceits.

49. h upon the Cusp of the Second, makes the Native always poor, let him have what affiftance soever; unless he be well dignified there, and friendly irradiated by the Beams of the Fortunes.

face; but procure him ways to waste it: ill posited there, he will not have much to be prodigal of, without other very remarkable. Assistances.

much to be prodigal of, without other very remarkable Affiltances.

5 t. The greater are the Dignities of the Planets in a Nativity, the more splendid and spreading is the Natives Fame: the greater their Debilities, the more obscure his Fortune.

52. A continued Series of good Directions, makes a bad Nativity at sometimes very good; but they will not continue it so to the end-

53. A grand Satellitium of the Planets in the eighth House, upon good Directions unto them, the Native gains mightily by the Wills and Legacies of deceased Persons.

54. Fortunate Planets well polited in the eleventh House, denote many great and powerful Friends: unfortunate ones there, ill affected, declare few and faithless.

75. 2 and 2 polited in the tenth Houle, either in the Houles of or 2, makes the Native exceedingly famed for his Skill in Sciences.

56. The D in Reception and \(\Delta\) of \(\text{o}\), makes a Man a Turner up of Councils, \(\text{c}\) c. by the roots.

57. S and h in & from Æquinoclial Signes, makes a great Tyrant: and if they shall be in 10 of 4, he will be an Observer of Law and Religion for his own Ends.

58. All the Planets under the Earth, when they promise Dignity, Honour and Renown, they generally perform it in the latter part of the Natives Life.

59. The Lord of the Eleventh stronger then the Lord of the Seventh, denotes the Friends and Assistance of the Native to be more considerable and powerful, then his Adversaries.

60. The Returns of the superiour Planets to their Radical places in any Revolution, portend a fatal year; chiefly if attended by an ill Direction.

61. The Lord of the Ascendent of the Radix, in 6 with the Lord of the Eighth of the Revolution, in the Eighth, is very dangerous to the Life of the Native.

62. When the Signe of the fixth House of the Radix, ascends in a Revolution, and the Lord of the Sixth is posited in the Fourth, it is a dangerous year to the Life of the Native, if an ill Direction be operating.

63. Some Persons attain to great Honour and Dignity, who have bad Cenitures; but then they must sympathize with the Nativities of their Raisers.

the fortunate Planets in one, upon the places of the Luminaries in the other, and the Luminaries upon the places of the fortunate Planets.

65. The greatest Antipathy, is by the Infortunes in one, possessing the places of the Luminaries in the other, and the Luminaries upon the places of the Infortunes.

66. h in one Mans Nativity, upon the Ascendent of anothers, is an absolute Token of Hatred; and the latter shall be the injured person.

77. 2 in either of the Houles of To, gives a most excellent Understanding:

if he shall be in * or \(\Delta\), or Reception of \(\hat{h}\), the Native will be admired for his Ingenuity.

68. The O and D in of p in a Tropical Signe, gives the Native large intellectual Abilities.

69. The Head of Algol in the Mid-heaven, and the D in the Twelfth in thereunto, portends loss of Honour and Renown, if not (at last) Death

70. All the Planets in a Nativity out of their Essential Fortitudes, declare obscure Persons; which if they happen to attain to any degree of Preferment, they never long enjoy it.

71. Violent fixed Stars upon the Cusp of the Mid-heaven, and the Lord thereof posited among such, denotes a violent Catastrophe of the Natives Honour and Fame.

72. Directions to the Bodies or Aspects of Planets in the descending part of Heaven, although they denote the highest Happiness imaginable, yet it is not long durable.

73. Those Persons that have crowds of Planers in Angles, have at some time or other of their Lives, prodigious Success or Detriment, according to the Nature of Directions that shall occur.

74. He who hath he Lord of the Seventh in his Nativity, never marrieth until he be past the 30 year of his Age; unless it so happen, that $\pm$ or $2$ be upon the Horoscope, or in good Aspect of the Moon in his Nativity.

75. A fortunate Planet in the eighth House, always portends a Natural Death.

76. The Lord of the Eighth posited in the tenth House, declares Death to the Native by the Sentence of a Judge.

77. The Sun, Moon, or Medium Cali, directed ad * vel Q 4 unt 2, the Narive (if capable) rarely fails of Marriage.

78. Astrologers may easily miss of the measure of time in Directions, if they shall omit the Consideration of eminent Transits; for good or bad Directions may be both anticipated and continued, as happy or unfortunate Transits occur.

79. The Din via Combusta, and the Oin via Lattea, denotes great danger to the Eyes: if the unfortunate Planets shall be in the Ascendent, or in of thereunto, it presages blindness.

80. In the Nativities of Children, (I mean in such as are vital) the Ascendent or Sun to the Body of &, producerh the Small Pox or Measels: in grown Men, the Plague or Pestilential Fever: in elderly Persons, Death.

81. The Ascendent or either of the Luminaries (as either shall be Hylech) directed to the 3, 8 or of 6, and the Direction happening in 7, 3 or 1, the Native seldome escapes Death; because those Signes represent the most Vital parts in a Mans Body: and h in the contrary Signes, hath most power to do mischief.

82. In the House of 8, in good Aspect of the Moon, and the Lord of the Afcendent, gives a good Understanding.

83. In a Womans Nativity, the Lord of the Seventh being posted in the Ascendent, makes her to domineer and lord it over her Husband: and if the Lord of the Ascendent be a superiour Planet, and the Signe thereof commanding, she will lord it over him to purpose.

84. The O and I in the Third or Fourth Houses, makes Men skilful in Occult and Audious Arts.

85. He that hath many Planets in Reception, or beholding each other by good Aspect, cannot fail of having many Friends.

86. The © and & in the Ascendent in Aëreal or signes, makes proud and prodigal Persons; and such as conceit themselves to be much more then they are.

89. The Moon in good Aspect of the Lord of the Mid-heaven, and the Lord of the Alcendent, makes the Native eminently honouted and esteemed.

90. Planets squaring and opposing each other from Angles and Cardinal Signes, declare great Mischiefs to the Persons then born, in their lives time; and at last, a violent Death.

91. In a Genitute of short Life, the Ascendent, O or D directed to the ? 5, is killing.

92. Directions of the Mid-heaven to Promittors, never kill but in that Nativity which portends a violent Death.
